ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

FINAL

Vol. 99. No. 321. (69th Year). ST. LOUIS, WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1947—32 PAGES PRICE 5 CENTS

LIMIT OF 6 TO 10 YEARS ON FLOOD WORK URGED AT 6-STATE MEETING

Valley Conference Stresses Action Through Pick-Sloan Projects — Gets Message From Truman.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

KANSAS CITY, July 23—Representatives of the six-state midwestern area subjected to the recent devastating floods are being urged today to demand a program of not more than six to 10 years to complete all authorized flood control projects in the Missouri-Mississippi watershed.

They met at the municipal auditorium here in an emergency flood control conference called by the Mississippi Valley Association

Emphasis was placed, in the discussions and in the anticipated form of resolutions, on carrying out the work through existing federal agencies. This meant, in the case of the Missouri river basin, the Pick-Sloan projects, notably those of the Army's Corps of Engineers.

It was expected by leaders that the resolutions to be acted on at the end of the conference would indicate the following:

Call on the Army Engineers, the Bureau of Reclamation and the Bureau of the Budget to start with the 1948-49 fiscal year in setting up a six-year to 10-year program.

Indorsement of President Truman's request last Wednesday for a $250,000,000 start on Mississippi-Missouri watershed flood control work, with provision that it be done by existing federal agencies.

More money, soil and water runoff control, through field and research work of the federal Soil Conservation Service.

Pick-Sloan Gathering.

Setting a keynote for the gathering, which was drawn largely from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, Lachlan Macleay of St. Louis, president of the Mississippi Valley Association, made it clear that no compromise was being made in favor of the proposed Missouri Valley Authority. It was essentially a gathering of Pick-Sloan supporters.

"We want to make it crystal-clear," said Macleay, "that we do not propose to permit anything or any selfish group to interfere with the Pick-Sloan plan for the Missouri basin. There has been a deliberate effort, on the part of those who would sabotage the plan, to discredit it and to question the ability of the agencies responsible for it. The facts are that the Pick-Sloan plan is not only the best possible program for the Missouri basin—it is the only program that has been devised. There must be no change over from this plan, now or any time. The Missouri basin needs flood protection; not delay nor debate on the dubious merits of a regional authority."

Macleay, who opened the session, took the position that the big need was solely to proceed

C. of C. Study of World's Fair Plan Cites Benefits and Risks, Favors Big Exposition or None

Estimates Two-Season Run on 520-Acre Tract in and Near Forest Park Would Cost $53,000,000, Draw 39,000,000 Persons.

By CARLOS F. HURD
of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, in its report on the plan for a St. Louis World's Fair in 1953, neither indorses nor disapproves the idea.

It sets forth, in great detail, the possible designs for such an event and the benefits which the city might expect to receive from it. With equal care and candor, it outlines the serious risks that the project would involve, and the deterrent considerations.

The report is addressed to the St. Louis World's Fair Committee for 1953, headed by Stratford Lee Morton. It is intended to aid the committee "in arriving at a firm decision either to proceed with or to abandon the idea that St. Louis should celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase."

If St. Louis undertakes a fair, the report says, it should be a big-time, full-scale affair; a second-rate show would be neither satisfactory nor creditable. It should run for two seasons, May 1 to Oct. 30, 1953 and 1954.

A site of 400 acres, with irregular boundaries, in eastern Forest Park, plus 120 acres south of Oakland avenue, the Arena, Forest Park Highlands and Walsh Stadium, is assumed to be the only feasible location. In addition, it is suggested that the 82-acre Jefferson Memorial riverfront park, and downtown Memorial and Aloe Plazas, might be integrated into the fair plan.

Total cost of staging a Fair is estimated at $53,000,000, and the return from admissions, concessions and exhibit space rentals at $46,000,000, leaving an estimated deficit of $7,000,000. The latter, it states, "might be compensated for by the tangible and less tangible benefits."

One of these benefits, it suggests, would be the establishing of an annual St. Louis Fair, to which any permanent facilities re-

Has to Ask for Directions After Driving an Hour in Frederick, Md.

FREDERICK, Md., July 23 (AP)—An automobile with District of Columbia tags pulled to the curb last night and a silver-haired man leaned out to hail newspaper publisher William T. Delaplaine.

"I've been lost in this town an hour," the man said, asking directions to the home of a Frederick friend, Col. Harrison McAlpine.

"With pleasure, General," said Delaplaine, recognizing the motorist as Secretary of State Marshall.

After setting him on the right road, the publisher remarked:

"You have a big job on your hands, General."

"If I don't do any better than I did driving the streets of Frederick, I won't do so well," said the Secretary with a grin as he drove away.

REACHES OUT FROM ENGINE AND SWEEPS CHILD OFF TRACK

EL PASO, Tex., July 23 (AP)—Three-year-old Gloria Cedillos was alive today—thanks to W. D. Calhoun Sr., a switch engine foreman.

Calhoun, whose name has been submitted to the Carnegie hero fund by the El Paso Times, swung down from the cab of his switch engine to the foot board of the locomotive and swept the child off the tracks.

In doing so, he lost his balance and the two of them fell over an embankment.

Gloria suffered minor lacerations. Calhoun was unhurt.

The incident occurred July 16 at Upper Valley.

Six men, including Calhoun, were in the cab of the engine when they saw the child stumble and fall on the tracks in front of the moving engine.

Engineer E. H. Stewart applied the brakes. Jesus Hernandez, as the train slowed down, leaped from the cab to get the girl off the tracks, but slipped and fell.

In the meantime, Calhoun made his way to the footboard in time to sweep the girl aside.

Calhoun, veteran switch engine foreman for the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, once was a star athlete. He is a veteran of World War I.

DONNELLY SIGNS MADISON BILL CURBING LABOR

By BOYD F. CARROLL
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

JEFFERSON CITY, July 23—The Madison bill, barring jurisdictional and sympathy strikes, secondary boycotts, and strikes against government in Missouri, was signed late yesterday by Gov. Donnelly. It will become effective Sept. 10.

The measure provides also for secret, state-supervised votes by union members on legal strike proposals, and for enforcement in the courts of contracts or working agreements between employers and labor organizations.

This is the second drastic strike regulatory act passed by the 1947 Legislature and approved by Gov. Donnelly.

The King-Thompson Act, prohibiting strikes against essential public utilities and authorizing the state to take over and operate such utilities when threatened by work stoppages, was signed by Donnelly last May 19. Penalties for violations range up to fines of $10,000 a day. This act also becomes operative on Sept. 10.

Labor groups, including AFL and CIO organizations in Missouri, have announced they will attack validity of both acts in the courts as soon as the measures become effective.

Gov. Donnelly, who urged such legislation in his recommendations to the Legislature last January, issued a statement in connection with approval of the Madison bill. He called upon "all our citizens faithfully to observe its provisions, in order that labor, management, Government and the public may each be assured of a square deal, no more and no less."

Donnelly said he had rejected requests for a hearing on the bill, because it had been given exhaustive consideration in both houses of the Legislature and all groups had been given full opportunity there to present their views.

"This bill recognizes and asserts the responsibilities and the obligations of labor organizations in their relations with each other

The weather squeezed in a new record for this date today as a low of 60.3 degrees was registered at 6 a.m. on the official thermometer at the Weather Bureau office in the new Federal Building. Previous low for July 23 was the 60.4 recorded in 1927.

Light smoke over the downtown area, which served as a blanket to keep the mercury warm, probably prevented it from falling below 55 degrees, the record minimum for the month, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said. A low of 52 was recorded at Lambert-St. Louis Field early this morning, he pointed out, and many residents of the city and county observed temperatures in the low 50s on their home thermometers.

The cool weather, which in some areas has had all the earmarks of early winter, continued to prevail in midwestern and southeastern states. In Missouri, minimum temperatures ranged this morning from 43 degrees at Advance in the southeastern section to 62 at Kansas City.

Yesterday a storm striking suddenly along Lake Erie piled up drifts of hail 18 inches deep in some parts of the Cleveland area, the Associated Press reported. The phenomenon was not welcomed by motorists, many of whom were temporarily stuck, but children took advantage of the occasion to pelt each other with "hailballs."

In Lansing, Mich., firemen, for the first time in July they could recall, were summoned to extinguish a blaze caused by an overheated furnace.

While the weather is gradually getting warmer, there is no immediate prospect of a wilting hot spell here, Wahlgren said, since the temperature is not expected to rise above the 80s within the next two or three days.

DUTCH DRIVING ON INDONESIAN CAPITAL; CLAIM ALL OF EAST JAVA

Two Columns Advancing Toward Jogjakarta—Troops Push Ahead in Western Part of Island and Sumatra.

BATAVIA, July 23 (UP)—Dutch forces claimed control of all of east Java today, and sent two columns driving toward the Indonesian capital of Jogjakarta.

A Dutch communique said Dutch troops, after beating back an Indonesian counterattack, captured Salatiga, 35 miles north of Jogjakarta, and continued to advance. Another Dutch force, the communique said, was approaching the capital from the northeast.

The Dutch communique said all of east Java had fallen to the Dutch. It said Dutch troops were in numerous coastal towns in east Java, and Dutch units from the north and south were closing together to pinch off the eastern tip of the island at its narrowest point.

The southern arm of this pincer was composed of seaborne troops landed at Bambang.

Dutch fighter planes slashed the defenders with bombs, rockets and machine-gun bullets. Indonesians were reported trying to use demolitions and guerrilla tactics to stop the Dutch.

Indonesians had claimed earlier that they halted the Dutch at Salatiga. The Dutch force there was reported spearheaded by Bren gun carriers.

Other Advances.

The Dutch communique reported Netherlands troops also were fanning out over western Java, advancing 50 miles from Batavia.

On the island of Sumatra, the Dutch were reported to have pushed 60 miles inland from Palembang toward the rich oil fields which are partly American owned.

The Indonesian radio reported Indonesian forces attacking Samarang, the base of the two Dutch columns headed toward Jogjakarta. This was regarded as a diversionary move, and was not expected to keep the Dutch from entering Jogjakarta in a week or less.

Today's Dutch communique said Indonesian resistance had been "sporadic." Dutch casualties, it said, totaled 17 killed, 23 wounded and three missing.

The communique said that as a result of Dutch pamphlets, the population had remained calm, and the people's minds were "at rest."

"Scorched Earth" Tactics.

Both Dutch and Indonesian reports told of "scorched earth" practices by the retreating Indonesians.

An Indonesian communique said Salatiga had been put to the torch. It also reported the firing of

TRIES OUT FRESH RUNWAY IN JALOPY; SINKS AXLE-DEEP

A premature and unorthodox try-out of the new $752,000 runway under construction at Lambert-St. Louis Field last week resulted in a surprise to the "tryer-outer" and great unhappiness to the contractor, Fred Weber & Son.

A long section of freshly laid concrete had been completed last Friday afternoon but its freshness was invisible that evening to the operator of a jalopy who sought to experience the thrill of a take-off in the vehicle.

He skimmed beautifully over an older section of the runway but ploughed hub-deep through about 100 feet of the new section before extricating the machine and beating a concrete-spattered retreat.

The contractor estimated the damage at $200 to $300 which he hopes to recoup from the driver. Witnesses obtained a license number and description.

$20,000 IN GEMS SCATTERED IN SHRUBS BY BOY AT PLAY

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., July 23 (AP) — Police were searching the environs of movie producer Joe Pasternak's home today for $20,000 to $25,000 in missing jewels, which a detective said apparently had been scattered about the yard by the Pasternaks' 4-year-old son, Michael.

From $10,000 to $20,000 worth have been found in shrubbery. Still missing are a star ruby ring, a square cut diamond engagement ring, and a diamond-set wristwatch.

"We haven't completely ruled out the theory of theft," the detective said, "but it doesn't look very likely."

5 KILLED IN NAVAL AIR CRASH

SEATTLE, July 23 (AP)—Five Naval airmen attached to the Fleet air wing at Whidby Island were killed last night when a four-motored PB-4Y plane crashed in making a night landing, it was announced today.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO JOIN PARLEY ON JAP TREATY; U. N. DELEGATES DENOUNCE RED "JUNK" AND "ABUSE"

Briton Calls Krasilnikov's Talk 'Offensive Production,' American Says He Resents Tenor of Russian's Remarks.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 23 (AP) — Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's top deputy in the United Nations was lambasted today in one of the strongest personal attacks ever made in the U.N.

After Alexei N. Krasilnikov had delivered a 30-minute speech in the U.N. Membership Committee castigating the western powers for their opposition to the admission of Soviet-supported Albania to the U.N., Britain's Valentine G. Lawford said in these measured words:

"It is deplorable that we should be subjected day after day, week after week, month after month to this junk about provocations, lies, noises and repetitions. We are presumed to be intelligent officials and not a gathering of illiterates.

"We draw our conclusions from facts and not from slogans. I term the Soviet speech a regrettably offensive production."

Col. W. R. Hodgson of Australia took the floor immediately to declare:

"How glad I am that these meetings are now open to the press. Previously we have had to put up with calculated abuse and distortions of this particular representative of the Soviet Union for a long time."

He said Krasilnikov was "trying to out-Caesar his senior Caesars."

Hayden Raynor of the United States told delegates:

"I won't dignify the utterly ridiculous and irrelevant statements of the Soviet delegate by answering.

"I resent the tenor of his remarks."

Krasilnikov, the Soviet delegate to the U.N. Membership Commit-

LEAF COUNTER SAYS TREE HAS 354,563—SEE FOR YOURSELF

INDIANAPOLIS, July 23 (UP)—Columnist Ed Sovola was hoping today that someone would ask him how many leaves there were on a maple tree in front of the national headquarters of the American Legion here.

He had the answer: 354,563 leaves.

Sovola, an Indianapolis Times writer, climbed into the tree and spent most of a day counting them, he said.

"In case anyone doubts my veracity," he said, "they can count them."

Sovola devoted his column to the trials and tribulations of tree-top tabulation. He said there were "an awful lot of leaves."

He encountered other troubles. The first branch, for instance, held not only 5164 leaves, but eight caterpillars, three ants and three ladybugs.

Sovola used a long roll of paper and half a dozen pencils to tabulate the leaves. He recommended an adding machine for future leaf counters.

ARMED MAN SEIZED IN CAPITOL AFTER TRUMAN SENATE VISIT

Reported to Have Had Pistol; Weaved "as Though He Had Been Drinking."

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Police arrested a man armed with a pistol in the Capitol today just five minutes after President Truman made a surprise visit to the Senate. Edward F. McGinnis, Senate sergeant at arms, said the man identified himself as Clifton R. H. Spires, 39 years old, of Augusta, Ga.

He told reporters it is "quite apparent" that the simultaneous presence of Truman and Spires in the capitol was "purely coincidental."

Spires was arrested in the men's washroom on the first floor of the Capitol's Senate wing. The Senate floor, where Truman addressed the Senate, is up one flight.

McGinnis said Spires had served 17 months in the Army and had been a patient at a veterans' hospital in Augusta. One of the two policemen who arrested him told reporters that he noticed a pistol in Spires hip pocket.

Spires was weaving "as though he had been drinking," the policeman said.

Senator Donnell Still Prolongs Inquiry on Harper Appointment

Observers Regard Extended Questioning as Retaliation for Delay on Kem Resolution.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 23—Senator Donnell (Rep.), Missouri, whose words flow on like that well-known brook, planned to continue today his conscientious blockade of the nomination of Roy W. Harper to be a United States district judge in Missouri.

Yesterday, with action stalled on the resolution of Senator Kem (Rep.), Missouri, for a full inquiry into Justice Department inactivity in the fraudulent Kansas City primary of last Aug. 6, Donnell dutifully kept Missouri politics in the limelight with a further inquisition relative to Harper's life and times.

Political observers saw a strong connection between the Kem proposal, involving a primary in which President Truman was particularly interested, and Donnell's tactics in opposing Harper.

P.S.CO. FARE RISE PLEA CONSIDERED BY STATE BOARD

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 23—The Missouri Public Service Commission had under advisement today the proposed fare schedule of the St. Louis Public Service Co., increasing the sale price of streetcar and bus passes from 16.6 to 33 per cent.

Chairman Morris E. Osburn said the commission would issue an order in the case before Aug. 3, the date when the schedule filed by the company would become effective under the law, unless modified or suspended by the commission.

The proposed schedule would increase the price of the regular weekly pass from $1.25 to $1.50; the weekly express bus pass from $1.50 to $1.75; the weekly shopper-theater pass from 75 cents to $1, and the Sunday-holiday pass from 25 cents to 30 cents. No change is proposed in the 10-cent cash fare or the price of tokens, four for 35 cents.

The commission has authority to deny or approve the schedule, grant it in part, or suspend it for more complete investigation. It has authority also to grant temporary or experimental increase pending full investigation.

Also pending is the request of the City of St. Louis and University City for a full audit and appraisal of the company property used in public service, to fix a new fair valuation for rate-making purposes. The commission may not act on this request until later, it was said. Indicatfons are that the request will be granted.

That further investigation would be ordered by the commission appeared obvious after a hearing yesterday. The only testimony on fares was presented by the com-

EVIDENCE ON RED SPIES TO BE GIVEN ARMY AND NAVY

House Committee to Act on Kravchenko Testimony That Russia Got U.S. Secrets.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities plans to hand over to the Army, Navy and Federal Bureau of Investigation testimony that Soviet agents got secret wartime information on American planes and submarines.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (Rep.), New Jersey, told reporters of the intention today as the committee switched its general investigation of Communist activities from spying to union infiltration.

Testifying at today's session, Ann Matthews said that at least 16 of 30 officers of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers union local No. 22 at Winston-Salem, N. C., were members of the Communist party prior to last January. That was the time, she said, when she ceased being an officer of the local.

The testimony on planes and submarines which the committee considered worthy of passing on to interested government agencies was supplied yesterday by Victor A. Kravchenko.

Kravchenko, a former official of the Russian government who broke with the Soviet regime in 1944, said that when he was with the Soviet purchasing commission here several years ago a man named Khimushkin obtained an "enormous" mass of confidential information on the American aviation program and sent it to Moscow by plane.

Similar information was obtained on submarines, Kravchenko said. Later, behind locked doors he told the committee who was responsible.

A House Judiciary subcommittee today approved a bill that would open the way to American citizenship for Kravchenko. The measure, which would waive provisions of law forbidding a Comunist to

Truman Drops In, Tells Senate He Spent 'Best 10 Years' There

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Breaking precedent, President Truman took his old seat in the Senate today and made a brief speech saying he had spent the best 10 years of his life there.

Grinning happily, the President, a former Senator from Missouri, walked onto the Senate floor unannounced after lunching at the Capitol. He took a rear row seat on the Democratic side as Senators and gallery occupants rose and applauded.

The Senate at the moment was busy with routine, minor bills.

Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, the presiding officer, promptly welcomed the President warmly, then said that he recognized the "Senator from Missouri for five minutes."

Senators applauded as Truman arose and began a brief talk. He said the Senate had been very kind and that he had never had a more cordial welcome anywhere.

"And I've been a lot of places," he added.

The President recalled that Senate rules prevent anyone but Senators speaking there. He smiled as he broke the rule.

"I get homesick for this seat," he said. "I spent the best 10 years of my life in this seat."

The President added that a Senator with whom he'd lunched "dared me" to walk in and sit in my former seat.

Senator McGrath (Dem.), Rhode Island, was in that seat when the President walked in. He quickly surrendered it.

"I am very happy to welcome the former Senator from Missouri to his old seat," Vandenberg said, adding that he could not make this permanent because of his high regard for the present Missouri Senators—Kem and Donnell. They are Republicans.

SOVIETS CHARGE U.S. WITH ACTING IN 'UNILATERAL MANNER' ON ISSUE

Note Asserts Preliminary Work on Drafting Pact Should Be Handled by Council of Foreign Ministers.

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight that Russia "cannot agree" to accept a United States invitation to join with 11 nations in discussing a Japanese peace treaty Aug. 19 in Washington.

The broadcast, heard here by the Soviet monitor, said Russia delivered a note to Washington yesterday charging the United States had acted in a "unilateral manner" and declaring that preliminary work on drafting a Japanese treaty should be undertaken by the Council of Foreign Ministers.

The note suggested that the Russian, British and Chinese ambassadors in Washington meet with a representative of the United States to decide when the Council of Foreign Ministers should be convened.

Text of Note.

The text of the Soviet reply, as broadcast by the Moscow radio:

"On July 11 of this year, the United States Ambassador, Gen. Bedell Smith, told V. M. Molotov, the U.S.S.R. Minister of Foreign Affairs, that the Government of the United States proposed to call on Aug. 19 of this year a conference for the preparation of a peace treaty with Japan, comprising representatives of 11 powers, members of the Far Eastern Commission.

"At the same time, the United States Government unilaterally began negotiations on this question with the governments of the remaining powers who are represented in the Far Eastern Commission.

"Incidentally, it also is common knowledge that four powers, the United States, the Soviet Union, China and Great Britain, secured the victory over aggressor Japan, and that even during the war against Japan they reached certain agreements among themselves, both concerning the question of waging war and questions after the war of peaceful regularization.

"Suffice it to call to mind such documents as the Cairo declaration, the decisions of the Yalta conference, and the Potsdam declaration.

"Further, after the end of the war against Japan, the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union, as well as China which also agreed, decided at the December 1945 conference in Moscow that these four countries would participate in the Allied Council for Japan and that the Far Eastern Commission in Washington should take decisions with obligatory agreement of the representatives of the four aforementioned powers, by which act the particular interest of these states in questions regarding the postwar situation in Japan was recognized.

"In view of these circumstances the Soviet Government cannot agree that the question of calling a conference for preparation of a peace treaty with Japan can be decided by the Government of the United States in a unilateral manner without preliminary consultation with the governments of the Soviet Union, China and Great Britain, especially since the Council of Foreign Ministers, formed on the initiative of the United States, was created precisely for preliminary work on the preparation of peace treaties, and cannot therefore be ignored in the preparation of the peace treaty with Japan.

Proposes Action by Council.

"In accordance with the opinions it has expressed, the Soviet Government considers it necessary that the question of calling a conference for preparation of the peace treaty with Japan be examined first by the Council of Foreign Ministers, comprising representatives of the above named four powers.

"As to the date for convocation of the Council of Foreign Ministers to consider the question of preparation of a peace treaty with Japan, the Soviet Government suggests that the Soviet, Chinese and British ambassadors in Washington, together with a representative of the United States, decide on the earliest moment acceptable to all interested governments, bearing in mind the desire to speed up the convocation of the council."

ALBANIANS SNUB U.N. COURIER AT BORDER; PRETEND HE ISN'T THERE

Soldiers Look Away, Pay No Heed When Peruvian Shouts, Begin Singing to Drown Him Out.

By ROBERT C. MILLER

IOANNINA, Greece, July 23 (UP)—An Albanian border patrol today snubbed a courier of the United Nations who was carrying a formal request for permission to enter Albania.

Jose Quimper of Peru, a member of the U.N. subcommission looking into the situation along the frontier of Greece and Albania, journeyed 40 miles to deliver a message which the U.N. at Lake Success, N.Y., had informed the Albanians would be delivered today.

He was accompanied by this correspondent, an interpreter, and a representative of the Greek army.

Turn Their Backs.

For more than an hour Quimper tried vainly to get recognition while standing at the Greek border. The Albanians turned their backs, refused to speak to him. Later they said they had no authority to accept the diplomatic pouch he was carrying.

The attempt to contact the Albanians took place high in the mountains after a three-hour drive in a 1928 Packard over rough roads through the region where Greeks and guerrillas were fighting last week.

Quimper was escorted by the Greek army to the border. He stood there in the hot sun, shouting in French and, with the aid of the interpreter, in Albanian.

The soldiers across the line merely stood 50 yards from a house on the border and paid no attention. The house had a big red star painted on the side, and a sign in red, "The Popular Republic under Tito and Stalin."

Loud Singing.

The more Quimper pleaded, the less attention he got. One soldier began chinning himself, ignoring the situation. Others began singing loudly, evidently to drown out Quimper.

Finally a junior officer arrived and told Quimper he would have to wait until further instructions were received. The party waited another half hour, then shouted an inquiry whether the further instructions had arrived.

The Albanians said they had not, adding that they did not expect any, and that "we are not authorized to receive you."

Earlier, the U.N. investigators in Ioannina heard testimony that guerrillas in northwest Greece received help in both Albania and Yugoslavia.

Captured guerrillas acknowledged that they passed through the two Communist-dominated countries, but denied Greek charges that members of an "international brigade" joined the fighting.

ASSERTS REDS INFLUENCE U.S. CENTRAL SPY AGENCY

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Representative Dondero (Rep.), Michigan, said yesterday the nation's central intelligence agency contains "Communist elements" and is being run in an "inept and amateurish manner."

By contrast, he told the House, "we are confronted with a Russian espionage net in this country which is without parallel in history."

Dondero said R. Adm. Roscoe Hillenkoetter, the present head of the intelligence agency, has not had time to prove himself, but he was critical of Hillenkoetter's predecessors—R. Adm. Sidney Souers of St. Louis and Lt. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg.

In creating the central intelligence group in January 1946, Dondero said, President Truman "practically insured its failure" by naming Souers to head it.

Souers, who is living temporarily in Washington, told a Post-Dispatch reporter, in answer to Dondero's criticism, that he had 18 years of intelligence work as a Naval Reserve officer and six years of active duty of this work "in the field."

"I certainly don't think that could be called lack of experience," he added.

He said he was head of the central intelligence agency for only six months, starting early in 1946.

Risks and Objections.

The risks and objections are listed in an entire section of the report, and are summarized as follows:

"In attempting to appraise the possibilities of a world's fair for St. Louis in 1953-4, no report would be complete without some consideration of economic and social conditions which, at the time of writing this report, would, if they continued for a period of time, prove serious handicaps to the project.

"Briefly stated, the most outstanding adverse conditions existing at present and which may be carried along for a sufficient time to be detrimental to the promotion of a fair are:

"1. Conditions existing in the building industry.

"2. The existence of a seller's market in durable goods—fields normally available for soliciting large exhibits when in a buyer's market.

"3. The present wave of government economy, earnestly approved by most business men, which might make difficult the securing of appropriations from federal, state and local governments.

"4. The housing situation.

"5. The shortage of hotel facilities.

"6. The possibilities of war.

"There is also the serious question of the desirability of removing from its present uses a large portion of the eastern part of Forest Park for a period of several years, from the time building construction starts to the completion of demolition of all temporary structures."

Building Labor's Attitude.

Building material shortages will probably be eased before the construction period would begin in 1950, the report says; but "there is no evidence now of any improvement in the building situation, either as to behavior, unit output of work, or recession in labor costs. The present serious situation with respect to labor's attitude toward wages and production, frequency of strikes, jurisdictional disputes and the like, in several of the important crafts, is sufficient to discourage construction of highly necessary enterprises, to say nothing of amusement and exhibition buildings, not entirely necessary. Until there is developed a new attitude toward work and a stronger sense of contractual obligations, it is probably unwise to launch any civic, nonprofit enterprise which, at least, contains elements of large financial risk."

"Present wage scales are at a record high in St. Louis, in some crafts above New York scales, and generally higher than Chicago. (A table is presented, showing increases of 63 to 136 per cent in wage scales of 14 building trades in St. Louis, in the past 25 years.)

"More serious than wage increases is the slowdown in labor output. The bricklayers, cement finishers, plasterers, plumbers and electricians are notable examples of greatly decreased output. Other factors are demands for premium pay through overtime and Saturday work, and loss of pride of craftsmanship."

Unanswered Questions.

Questions asked, to which answers are not attempted, are:

"Under present international conditions, could we count on many appropriations by foreign governments?

"Under present pressures to reduce all forms of taxation at all government levels, could we count on many state appropriations, except perhaps from those states carved out of the territory involved in the Louisiana Purchase?"

An unfavorable report on the housing and hotel situations is followed by this paragraph:

"The situation with respect to both housing and hotels might be radically changed by 1953, provided particularly that there should be a general depression at that time. We would be and perhaps should be the last to predict such a depression."

While a gloomy view as to foreign exhibits is suggested, the prospect is mentioned that the United Nations might display its activities in such a way as to present a new and interesting exposition feature.

As to the hazard of war, the report points out that three major expositions have been seriously affected by the outbreak of war. These were the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915 at San Francisco and the San Francisco and New York Fairs of 1939-40.

"The present international situation is not clear," it states, "and is perhaps far more cloudy than in the years preceding 1915 or 1939.

"Should a war occur, with its attendant effects on foreign exhibits, gasoline rationing, shortages and allocations of materials and labor and the like, a fair could not succeed, and might have to be abandoned completely."

Effect of 1904 Fair.

In the sections of the report given to review of past major expositions, it is held that the Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904 "had a very evident and direct effect on the growth and development of St. Louis. The St. Louis industrial district had a population of 638,134 in 1904, and 828,733 in 1909, a gain of 190,599 in five years, or about 30 per cent. The United States population increase in that period was 21 per cent, or 9 per cent less. The five-year period following the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is therefore the only period in modern times when St. Louis's population increase was greater than the national average."

Buildings and industrial plants added in the World's Fair period are listed. "The city's wealth grew enormously, construction and bank clearings were doubled, and 191 new realty subdivisions were opened," the report said.

"With the sole exception of St. Louis," another section states, "the cities which staged world's fairs have repeated them. Stimulation of business, quickening of civic growth and development, national and international publicity, and the achievement of some needed or desired community improvement or asset, are considered to compensate for whatever financial losses are sustained."

The case of the Texas Centennial, minor exposition at Dallas, which left permanent improvements for the State Fair, Cotton Bowl and civic center, is cited as indicating what the builders of a St. Louis World's Fair, if one is to be held, should strive for.

"It is suggested," the report says, "that St. Louis could acquire a permanent developed area for an annual exposition, that this area could be built for the World's Fair, and that World's Fair proceeds could be used to partially amortize the cost of the facilities." The Toronto Exposition is cited as a successful annual fair of the sort proposed for St. Louis.

Estimate of Attendance.

An estimate is made of a paid attendance of 26,000,000 the first season and 13,000,000 the second season, for a St. Louis World's Fair. The Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904 ran for a single season and had 12,816,000 paid admissions. It was not open on Sundays. In explaining the estimate of a much larger attendance in 1953-54 than in 1904, the report says:

"The Exposition of 1904 drew nearly 13,000,000 even without the advantage of Sundays. The population of the area within 50 miles of St. Louis was then not over 1,000,000. In those days 50 miles was the maximum distance a visitor could travel to and from the Exposition in one day and avoid the necessity of remaining in the city overnight.

"Under present conditions, this distance can justifiably be considered to be at least 100 miles. There are over 5,000,000 people within 100 miles of St. Louis. The immediate population from which visitors can be drawn is, therefore, about five times that in 1904.

"It is doubtful if large numbers can be attracted from the east and west coasts or from abroad. However, all the area between the Appalachians in the East and the Rocky Mountains on the west can be considered to be a potential source of visitors."

Suggestions for Fair.

Many details which might make a fair attractive are suggested. One of these is a plan for "six television groves, consisting of trees so planted that their summer foliage will form a shaded arch over an area sufficient to seat 500 people in each grove before a television screen.

"This feature is intended to meet the common criticism made of expositions, that the visitor, when wearied, can find a resting place only in a concession where he must make a purchase in return for use of a seat," the report said.

Besides free resting areas with free entertainment, it is suggested that free transportation be provided within the grounds, and that free facilities for care of the very young and the aged should be provided.

Location of the main entrance is proposed to be at Clayton road, McKinley and Wells drives, a short distance south of the Forest Park Jewel Box. Other entrances are suggested at Macklind avenue, Clayton road near Kingshighway, Grand drive near Kingshighway, Kingshighway and Oakland, Macklind and Union drive, and Grand and Jefferson drives.

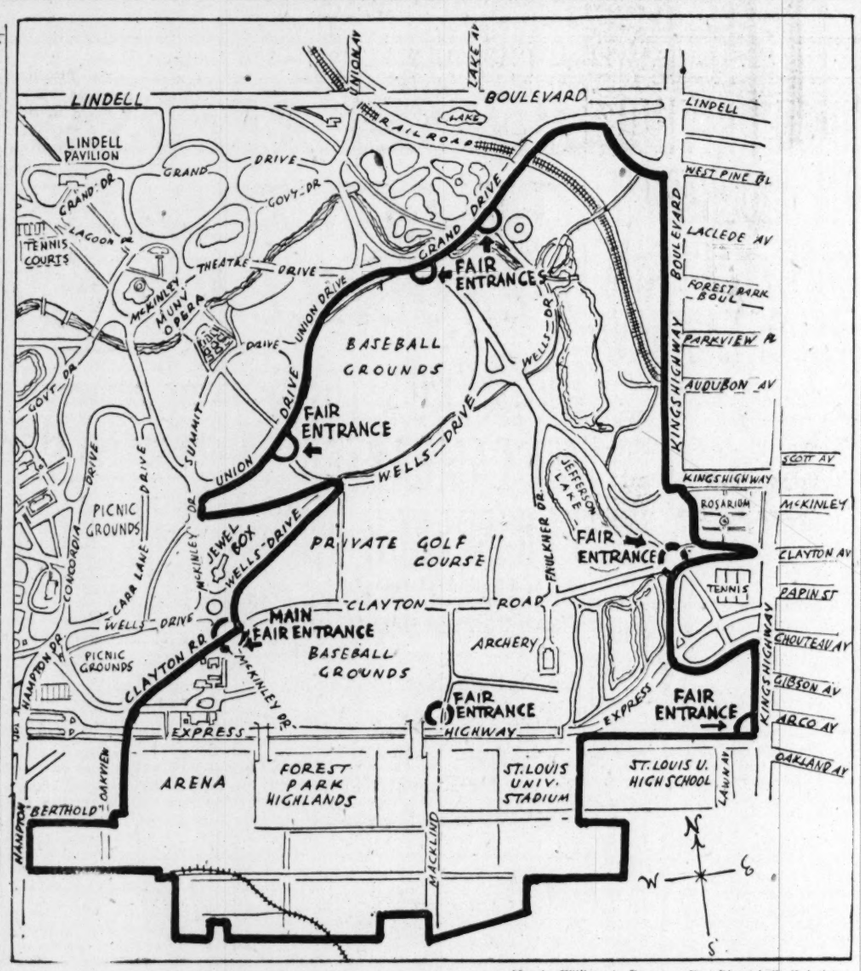

"Parking spaces," the report states, "are available at Walsh Stadium, Forest Park Highlands, the Arena, upper area of Municipal Theater and lower area of Municipal Theater. The upper area could be substantially expanded. Picnic grounds north of the park administration area could be devoted temporarily to parking. It is felt that this problem is rather well taken care of."

100-Page Report.

The report, 100 typewritten pages, outlines in detail the methods of organizing a fair on the basis proposed, and includes tables on financial details. As to these suggestions, President George C. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce says in his letter to Morton:

"It is the opinion of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce, after reviewing this report, that the World's Fair for 1953 Committee should examine most carefully the financial requirements to stage a successful fair, and the probable source of capital funds required.

"Our assumptions, used in this report, were only for the purpose of reflecting costs of capital in operating expenses, and are not presumed to be suggestions of proper methods of financing."

—Map by William A. Byrnes, a Post-Dispatch Staff Artist.

The 520-acre tract (surrounded by heavy line), in eastern Forest Park and adjoining territory south of Oakland avenue, which Chamber of Commerce considers to be the only location available for proposed World's Fair of 1953. Present baseball grounds and golf course would be converted to exposition uses. Walsh Stadium of St. Louis University, at lower right, would be scene of athletic events. Forest Park Highlands and Arena tracts would be used for amusement concessions.

SENATE GROUP NEAR ACTION ON FLOOD WORK FUND

Expected $343,000,000 Follows Truman Principle but Fails to Meet His Sum.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee was expected to act in its meeting today on a $343,000,000 appropriation for flood control and navigation.

Such action was postponed temporarily yesterday because of the committee's pre-adjournment schedule.

The appropriations subcommittee recommended flood control construction funds of $300,000,000 for the fiscal year which began July 1. An additional $43,000,000 was recommended for rivers and harbors construction.

This in effect approved in principle President Truman's recommendation for more flood control money, although it did not meet it in full.

The President recommended a $250,000,000 fund to begin a 10-year flood control program which he said he hoped would minimize damage such as caused by this year's floods.

This fund, the President said, is needed in addition to the House appropriation of $252,000,000 for flood control and navigation construction and maintenance money for the current year.

A bill appropriating $3,320,000 for flood control on the Little Sioux River in Iowa was passed by the House yesterday and sent to the Senate.

Sponsored by Representative Jensen (Rep.), Iowa, the measure would put into operation a comprehensive on-the-farm flood control plan approved by Congress two years ago.

The Little Sioux rises in southern Minnesota, flows through western Iowa, and joins the Missouri river below Onawa, Ia.

The plan consists primarily of stock dams and related soil conservation work on farms, and would be carried out under supervision of the Department of Agriculture. Army engineers would be in charge of larger diversion dams.

By United Press.

Senator Butler (Rep.), Nebraska, asked the House Appropriations Committee yesterday to allow the full $10,000,000 asked for by Truman for maintenance and improvement of existing rivers and harbors work on the Missouri river between Sioux City, Ia., and St. Louis.

"We do not know when another flood will strike," Butler said. "If delay and inaction permit another great catastrophe, it will be impossible to explain or excuse."

He recalled a flood disaster 12 years ago in the Republican river valley in Nebraska together with the more recent crisis.

"For 12 years the people of the Republican valley have been asking and pleading for assistance in meeting this danger," Butler said. "A start was made last year with the appropriation of funds for Enders dam, but it was only a start.

"The people of Nebraska are depending on this Congress and its new leadership to prevent a third disaster."

He said Government plans for a network of dams would have prevented the 1935 flood and the 1947 flood.

"They will prevent the next flood if they are built in time," he said.

SILESIA THRIVING, SO U. S. WON'T GIVE AID TO POLAND

Col. R. H. Harrison, After Survey for Marshall, Reports Poles Won't Starve, Industrial Area Is Scene of Bustling Activity.

By RICHARD L. STOKES
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 23 — In mournful contrast to Anglo-American failure in the Rhineland and Ruhr, Col. R. H. Harrison reported to the State Department today, from behind the "Iron Curtain," Silesia presents the most active industrial area outside the United States.

He added that grains and other foodstuffs are available to meet the minimum needs of the Polish people for the balance of this calendar year. Food conditions were declared to be noticeably better than those observed in Austria, Japan, Italy, Greece and the United States-British zones in Germany.

Col. Harrison, who is a special assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, headed a mission which recently visited Poland at the request of Secretary of State George C. Marshall. As a consequence of his report, the State Department announced this afternoon that it had been decided not to undertake a relief program for Poland. The statement did not mention that Congress specifically denied any share in its general relief appropriation to Poland and Hungary.

It was added by Col. Harrison that contributions of medical supplies and supplementary foodstuffs appear justified in the case of special Polish groups such as children, orphans and the sick and aged. The department ruled that such imports may be provided through private American relief agencies and similar sources, such as the international emergency children's fund, which this country and others are supporting.

Col. Harrison and his companions, Nathan Koenig and Gail E. Spain, reported:

"The general health of the Polish people appeared to be good, their spirit excellent and their ability to work well above average. The industrial section of Silesia presents a scene of bustling activity. Poland is already exporting a considerable tonnage of coal. Exports of coal and other raw materials, together with finished and semi-finished industrial products, will undoubtedly continue to increase.

"Excellent progress has been made in restoring Poland's historic position as a food exporting nation. Approximately 30,000 tons of sugar were exported within the last year, and it is expected the figure will increase next year to 60,000 or 80,000 tons. It is estimated that as much as 1,000,000 tons of potatoes will be available for export from the present crop. Exports of livestock products and eggs are small but significant.

"Polish officials were unanimous in stating that the food production, collection, distributing and rationing systems assure there will be no starvation or acute malnutrition in Poland even without food imports. With this general statement the members of the mission concur.

"Some imports of fertilizer and of grain seed, especially rye, would be helpful in promoting further recovery of Polish food production and industry."

It was declared that Poland has made substantial progress in both industrial and agricultural recovery.

The mission had an opportunity, Col. Harris said, to inspect at first hand, by plane and motor car, representative sections of Polish agricultural areas. It was pointed out that the 1947 intake of fish about equals the prewar figure of 20,000 tons. Fishing settlements on the Baltic have increased to 94 from the 1939 figure of 23. About 3500 men and 1000 boats are now engaged in this industry, it was asserted.

The State Department pronounced Col. Harris to be an outstanding authority on food conditions, and recalled that he has lately examined the food situation in a number of areas throughout the world.

TRUMAN SIGNS BILL LIFTING RACIAL BAR ON SERVICE WIVES

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—President Truman yesterday signed legislation to permit racially inadmissible wives of members of the United States armed services to enter the United States for permanent residence if they meet other qualifications.

Previous law prohibits the entrance into this country of persons of some nationalities, such as Japanese or Koreans.

The new law applies to marriages that take place not later than 30 days from yesterday.

HOUSE PROPOSAL FOR CLARK INQUIRY HAS GREEN LIGHT, AWAITS KEM'S NOD

Bennett Says It Would Require Only an Hour, but Missouri Senator Still Hopes Upper Chamber Will Act.

By JOSEPH HANLON
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 23—While the Senate marked time again today on the Kem resolution for an investigation of the Department of Justice, several members of the House were carrying around in their pockets a resolution for a House inquiry.

They had the green light from Speaker Martin and Majority Leader Halleck and were waiting only for a nod from Senator Kem (Rep.), Missouri, which would signify he had given up hope for Senate investigation to determine whether the Justice Department whitewashed Kansas City voting frauds in its original investigation of the Missouri primary last August.

But Kem had not yet given up hope. He told the Post-Dispatch today he looked for Senate action on his resolution following the call of the calendar to dispose of noncontroversial bills. Republican leaders had several other matters scheduled, however, ahead of the Kem resolution.

Representative Bennett (Rep.), Missouri, told the Post-Dispatch the House resolution, if it becomes necessary, will be introduced by Representative Jennings of Tennessee, a member of the Judiciary Committee. The inquiry would be made by committee through a subcommit

Speedy Action Possible.

Speedy action would be possible in the House. Bennett said the resolution there would go first to the Rules Committee, which could meet immediately to consider it, and the whole matter could be disposed of in an hour, if that should become necessary.

Kem has been working with several Republican members of the Missouri delegation in the House to arrange a backstop there if the Senate muffs the Kansas City investigation he seeks. They have agreed to wait for word from him, but are getting impatient.

For more than a week now, the Kem resolution has been the pending business of the Senate, but from day to day it gets set aside for matters the Republican leadership considers more pressing, and the leadership has backed away on several occasions after announcing extraordinary sessions to get it through.

A factor in their decisions so far to avoid pressing for action is the threat of a Democratic filibuster which could jeopardize the plan to adjourn Saturday.

One leading Democratic Senator told a reporter the minority had no intention of permitting Senatof Ferguson to go on a "fishing expedition" against Attorney General Tom Clark "to further his own campaign for the vice presidency."

The reference was to Senator Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, who conducted the preliminary Senate investigation as chairman of a judiciary subcommittee. Ferguson favored the full inquiry sought in the Kem resolution but was unable to swing either the subcommittee or the full committee to his way of thinking because Senator Langer (Rep.), North Dakota, sided with the Democrats in what otherwise was a straight party division.

State Matter, Langer Says.

Langer took to the Senate floor last night attempting to justify his course in the matter. Granting that the Kansas City primary was "corrupt, rotten, un-American, crooked," he said the matter was one for the state of Missouri to handle and that federal intervention would bring about in this country "a gestapo" and the same federal control of elections that some other countries have.

The "meat in the cocoanut" Langer said, was that Kem's resolution was an effort to scare the President of the United States and get him to appoint another Attorney General—"one whom the large unscrupulous oil companies will like better; an Attorney General who will do what every Republican and Democratic Attorney General has done since 1890, not enforce the anti-trust laws."

Langer spoke of Clark's recent announcementt hat he would seek prison sentences for anti-trust law violators, and said Clark, faithful to his duties, had "dared" to antagonize Ed Pauley, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, in the tidelands oil case recently decided by the United States Supreme Court.

Statement by Reece.

Another dash of campaign politics was added to the mixture today with a statement from B. Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, denouncing "the frenzied efforts of the Administration to prevent a thorough-going investigation."

As Reece viewed it, Democratic "desperation" was based on the "discouraging" realization that their only hope for victory next year was the "remote possibility" that President Truman might be re-elected and that full revelation of conditions in Kansas City would seriously impair the Truman chances.

Reece recalled that Truman was a dues-paying member of the Kansas City Pendergast machine and owed his nomination to the Senate in 1934 and 1940 to "fantastic" majorities recorded for him in Pendergast-controlled wards.

COPS PLAY COWBOY IN FOUR-MILE CHASE OF A FLEET HEIFER

Another Cow Stages Sit-Down Strike After Escape From Farmer's Truck.

The Chippewa-Hampton neighborhood was the scene of an early morning rodeo today when two cows escaped from a farmer's truck at that intersection and gave police of the Hampton avenue station and Harold Present of the Humane Society a grim chase.

The first animal to escape, apparently realizing the futility of it all, promptly lay down in the street. The bovine sit-down strike was settled by four grunting policemen who lifted the animal back into the truck.

The other, a yearling heifer, made a more spirited bid for freedom, leading two squad cars of police on a four-mile chase when the heifer was cornered in a garage in the 6400 block of Pernod avenue. The truck driver, August Steinback, Bland, Mo., backed the truck into the garage and police repeated their earlier act of levitation.

"That white face was as fleet as a deer," commented Present admiringly as the truck drove away.

NON-RESIDENT DEATHS BOOST RATE FOR CITY, BREDECK SAYS

The death rate in St. Louis in 1946, which was 14.0 per 1000 population, was high, in comparison with other large cities, because of an unusually high percentage of non-resident deaths, Health Commissioner Dr. Joseph F. Bredeck said today.

Of the total of 11,396 deaths recorded in the city last year 1921 were of non-residents, he said. This was one of the highest proportions of non-resident deaths recorded by major cities, he said.

Dr. Bredeck explained that St. Louis is the only large medical center in this general region and that an increasingly large number of persons suffering from chronic, or incurable ailments come here for treatment.

A table, showing the death rates of 13 major cities, which was included in the Health Division's annual report for last year, listed St. Louis as having the highest death rate of the cities included. Only two of the cities, Milwaukee and Baltimore, exclude non-resident deaths in compiling their rates. If St. Louis did this, the death rate would have been but 10.9 per 1000 persons, Dr. Bredeck said, and St. Louis would have ranked fifth on the list.

WOMAN ADMITS BURGLARY OF ADJOINING APARTMENT

Mrs. Gladys Fae Stumph, 31-year-old Belleville housewife, today admitted the burglary on two occasions of an apartment adjoining her own at 24A North First street, Belleville, and the theft of $851 in cash, police reported. The money was taken from Fred Tinney who operates a tavern on the ground floor of the building.

Mrs. Stumph told police she first entered the apartment of Tinney's daughter in the same building on July 8 and found a key to the Tinney apartment which she entered the same evening, obtaining $250. Tinney had not reported the loss, because he hadn't discovered it for some time thereafter.

The latest theft occurred Sunday night, Mrs. Stumph said, when she broke a panel in the door of the apartment, unlocked the door and removed $601. Police found the sum in a box of soap powder where Mrs. Stumph said she had hidden it. She said she spent the $250 taken in the first burglary.

POLICEMAN FIRED IN OVERLAND ROW

Supporters Call Proceedings of Board of Aldermen 'Kangaroo Court.'

Former S. Jerrold D. Reffner of the Overland police force, who was reduced to patrolman in April and placed on probation for three months by the Board of Aldermen because of his zeal for law enforcement, was fired by the board last night.

He and a group of supporters who attended the board meeting termed the proceedings a "kangaroo court." About 50 persons were in the audience when the meeting began but the board delayed considering Reffner's case until well after 11 p.m.

Alderman Clem Poelker moved that Reffner be dismissed immediately. Board President Norman Myers refused to recognize several persons in the audience who wished to speak. The vote for dismissal was unanimous.

Reffner said he would sue to retain his job. He said he asked for a specification of charges but his request was denied. He charged his dismissal was due to "personal prejudice arising out of arrests of individuals who had 'connections' and because of my following orders in ejecting juveniles from a local tavern." Alderman Ed Ryder operates a tavern, but Reffner declined to say whether that was the one he referred to.

Reffner joined the Overland force in April 1946, after four years as head of 300 special police guarding the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co. plant. He was promoted to sergeant at $225 a month last January by Police Chief Browne Hairgrove. Although he had the support of Hairgrove and Mayor John D. Coffman, Reffner was reduced to patrolman at $180 a month and placed on probation by the Board of Aldermen. Mayor Coffman is on vacation and Chief Hairgrove was not permitted to speak about Reffner at last night's meeting.

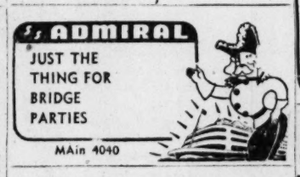

Among those who went to the meeting to support Reffner were the Rev. D. W. Jones, pastor of Overland Baptist Church; the Rev. J. H. Bullock, pastor of Overland Christian Church; Paul Taub, a lawyer; Joseph Pudivitr, owner of a paint store; P. R. Lucas, deacon of Overland Baptist Church, and Charles F. Rauch, chief engineer for Kroger Grocery & Baking Co.

9 INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES REPORTED IN CITY THIS YEAR

Nine cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the City Health Division this year compared to more than 50 at this time last year, Dr. J. Earl Smith, head of the communicable disease control section, said today. Of the nine cases, only six are residents of the city, he added.

Two deaths have been reported this year by the St. Louis and St. Louis County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which announced the receipts of an additional $25,000 from national headquarters to continue help to local victims of the disease.

Dr. Carroll F. Leonard, head of the East Side Health and Sanitary District, said three suspected cases had been received at St. Mary's Hospital, in East St. Louis. He termed the incidence of the disease "below normal" this year and said no cause for alarm existed. He said the peak is usually reached in August and September.

BOY LEFT IN SHED FOR SEVEN YEARS FOUND IN AUSTRALIA

Salvation Army Says Mother Thought She Got Wrong Baby, Abandoned It.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23 (UP) — The finding of a "wild boy" whose mother abandoned him in a shed to live alone for seven years was reported by radio today by Salvation Army headquarters in Melbourne, Australia.

The boy's mind was almost like that of a 6-months-old child when he was found, the Salvation Army reported, and he cried and grunted like an animal.

The report said the boy's mother was convinced that she was given th wrong baby at the hospital seven years ago, and became so obsessed with the notion that she finally abandoned him in a shed in back of the family home.

He was kept alive by food brought him by his brothers and sisters in disobedience of their mother's orders not to see him, the Salvation Army said. The father did not dispute his wife's decision to abandon the child and maintained he was not responsible.

The broadcast said the boy began to wander about when he grew older and neighbors informed the police. When he was picked up he was dressed only in a blanket and his hair was matted and hung over his face to his shoulders.

The Salvation Army took the boy into one of its homes, where he responded "amazingly" to affection.

6 INDICTED FOR BEER THEFTS FROM ANHEUSER-BUSCH PLANT

Indictments charging grand larceny were voted yesterday by the Circuit Court grand jury against six men following theft of beer from Anheuser-Busch, Inc. Four of those named in the indictments were employes of the brewery.

Those indicted are Lawrence J. Cullom, 2027 Lynch street, a truck driver; Albert V. Barton, 2838A Sidney street, truck driver; Paul H. Siebert, 3474A South Spring avenue, a watchman for the brewery; Nick John Schneider, 230 West Felton avenue, Lemay, a brewery worker; William Klouzek, 6607 Alabama avenue, supervisor of brewery watchmen, and Walter Fenimore, 3728 North Twenty-fifth street, a chauffeur for the brewery.

Three of the men had been arrested May 18 while carrying cases of beer from a brewery building in the 500 block of Arsenal street. Nineteen cases were found in two automobiles. Detectives had been investigating the thefts since May 11, when they observed three men carry 26 cases of beer from the building but made no arrests.

TROLLEY TIEUP ON OLIVE

Streetcar traffic on Olive street, at Compton avenue, was halted 25 minutes during the morning-rush period today when an eastbound University car broke down because of a failure in its control equipment.

About 30 cars of the University and Delmar lines, each carrying about 75 passengers, quickly bunched up behind the stalled vehicle, which was towed away at 7:34 a.m. by a trouble truck. The truck, it was reported, also broke down, while towing the car.

LEGAL BASIS CITED FOR UPHOLDING OF A CITY RENT LAW

Alderman Harris's Appeal to Kaufmann Says Situation Demands Action Now.

There is "substantial authority" that would justify the Supreme Court in upholding a St. Louis ordinance regulating "the business of renting housing accommodations," Alderman Alfred I. Harris wrote in an eight-page brief in support of his plea for municipal rent control sent today to his fellow aldermen.

He is seeking a special session of the board to enact a rent control measure. Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann, on the advice of City Counselor George L. Stemmler, has declined to call the session or take any action to obtain local rent regulation.

Acting Mayor Charles E. Albanese announced today he would meet at 11 a.m. tomorrow with a group headed by Robert Wilson, Negro attorney, to discuss their request for a special aldermanic session on rent control.

"I do not presume to know what the Supreme Court may hold if the question of the legality of municipal protective rent control legislation were properly before the court," Harris wrote. "But I do feel the housing situation in St. Louis is such that immediate action should be taken to pass a rent control ordinance."

'Ample Police Power.'

The city, under its charter, has "ample police power" to enact rent control regulations which are not unreasonable or arbitrary, he wrote. "I am firmly convinced," he continued, "that the city has the power to prevent those engaged in the hotel business and the business of renting apartments from inflicting injury upon any substantial group of people in our city and that an ordinance devised for the purpose of protecting tenants, if reasonable, would not be in violation of the due process clause."

He cited cases to show that an ordinance on rent control would not violate the due process clause of the Constitution; that renting apartments and hotels "is as much a business as any other," and that such business may be regulated by Congress or the state.

Cites State Law.

As for the state law, he wrote, "I call your attention to the fact that the state rent control act, by its own terms, provides that it 'shall not include any room in any hotel . . . or apartments or buildings, the construction of which was completed after Jan. 1, 1947.'

"In view of the emergency that now exists, the action of the state has not barred the city from enacting an ordinance reasonable and fair to landlords and tenants and would not be in contravention of any state or federal constitution."

Courts have held, he continued, that under the general welfare clause of the city charter, the Board of Aldermen has power to enact ordinances "suppressing all evils as they might arise. Therefore, under the welfare clause, the board has power to remedy the evil of exorbitant rents exacted by gouging landlords made possible by the acute housing shortage.

"There is no greater evil existing in the city at this time with reference to the housing situation than the prices that unconscionable landlords are forcing tenants to pay. The evil is as great as that which existed when the city passed the ordinance pertaining to billboards. Since the Supreme Court ruled the city had the power to regulate billboards, surely the city has the power to regulate the business of renting property for housing."

Girl, 14, Admits Hammer Killing Of Child to Sate Murder 'Desire'

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 23 (AP)—A 14-year-old girl honor student, who said she was plagued for a year by "the extreme desire to kill someone," was held in the Sacramento county jail today for killing 10-year-old Mary Lou Roman with a sledge hammer and jack handle at a home for foster children.

Intention to file a first degree murder charge today against Louise Gomez was announced by the district attorney's office after the superintendent of a hospital for mental cases pronounced the girl "an extremely dangerous individual." Dr. Rudolph Toller, head of Stockton State Hospital, said, however, that she was not insane.

Dr. Toller quoted her as saying under questioning:

"For one year I have had the extreme desire to kill someone. I had thought of killing several people. I thought of killing my mother, my father, and the children in the family. I lacked the courage."

He said she told of planning to kill a foster brother, saying:

"I had my hand on his throat and even had a hand ax over his head several times but I guess I lacked the courage."

Louise, who made straight As is school and also is a tap dancer and pianist, was arrested after the body of Mary Lou was found Monday in the yard of the foster home. The licensed home was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gomez who had adopted Louise.

Mary Lou was one of the foster children.

Deputy District Attorney Albert H. Mundt prepared the charges which, in event of a conviction, would carry a possible penalty of life imprisonment, the maximum for persons under 18 in California.

Mundt said Louise admitted that, while sitting with Mary Lou on the back porch of the house, she choked the girl, struck her with the jack handle, then crushed her skull with a sledge hammer.

UNION CHARGES 'MONOPOLY' CAUSES HIGH MEAT PRICES

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—The CIO United Packing House Workers union, urging a government investigation, blames "monopoly control of meat exercised by the large packers" for high meat prices.

Ralph Helstein, union president, said today that in June the packers' beef markup was 43 per cent higher than the increased prices to farmers and 19 per cent more than retail prices, as compared with a year ago during price controls and government subsidies.

The American Meat Institute, packer spokesman, charged the union with making an "entirely misleading" statement, and said "it ignores facts and juggles figures."

SANDWICH CASE DISMISSED

A charge of peace disturbance against Logan F. Hackman, arrested July 7 at the Mayflower Restaurant, 202 North Eighth street, when he refused to pay 77 cents for what he claimed was only a sandwich order, was dismissed yesterday by Police Judge Joseph B. Cantanzaro for lack of prosecution. Max Goffstein, restaurant manager, said he did not wish to prosecute.

OPERATOR TO CLOSE BAKERY, ACCEPT 2-YEAR PROBATION

Anthony Verreos agreed to close his bakery, the New Blue Ribbon Pie Co., 2317 Salisbury street, yesterday after United States District Judge George H. Moore described it as dangerous to public health following a personal inspection.

Verreos pleaded guilty last June to a criminal information charging his pies were unfit for human consumption but said conditions would be remedied. Returning to court after his tour of the place yesterday, Judge Moore offered to suspend sentence and place Verreos on probation for two years if the bakery was closed immediately. Verreos accepted.

Federal food and drug inspectors who accompanied the judge pointed out broken windows which permitted the entry of insects, rust dropping into ingredients from overhead beams and cloth covers instead of seals on shortening and sour cream containers.

SHERIFF TRIAL INQUIRY GRAND JURY IS CHOSEN

5 Women, 7 Men on Body to Look Into Conflict in Testimony.

Five women and seven men will comprise the St. Charles county grand jury which will meet Aug. 1 to investigate conflicting testimony given at the trial of Sheriff John F. Dougherty of St. Louis. He was convicted May 31 of leaving the secene of an accident, sentenced to a year in jail and fined $100.

Circuit Judge Theodore Bruere, who presided at the trial, ordered the grand jury inquiry into the conflicting testimony of Coroner Thomas F. Callanan of St. Louis and Maj. Curtis Brostron, police inspector.

Callanan testified that his friend Dougherty, shortly after the accident last Dec. 15, called at Callanan's home and reported the matter to him. The defense contended that this met the law's requirement for a report to a judicial officer. Inspector Brostron, on the other hand, testified that Callanan told him Dec. 24 that he knew nothing of Dougherty's accident until he read of it in the newspapers. Judge Bruere later ruled that the coroner is not a judicial officer within the meaning of the statutes.

Names of the grand jurors were filed today at St. Charles with Circuit Clerk Earl R. Sutton. They are: Roscoe Wolters, insurance agent; Ray Richardson, garage mechanic; Miss Virginia Gauss and Mrs. Millie Machens, housewife, all of St. Charles; Walter Fetsch, truck driver, St. Peters; Mrs. H. R. Gass, farm owner, Cottleville; Waldo Tuepker, garage owner, Defiance; Mrs. Alberta Nienhueser, housewife, Augusta; Elmer Gerdeman, farmer, Cappelso; Roy Brockman, farmer, and Mrs. Nell Muschany, housewife, both of Wentzville, and Frank J. Smith, farmer, West Alton.

NO WARRANT AGAINST YOUTH WHO BROKE INTO TAVERN

Assistant Circuit Attorney Andrew Reis said yesterday he had refused to issue a warrant against Don W. Sharp, 18-year-old high school student, in connection with a burglary early Sunday at the Paddock Bar, 3901 Washington boulevard, because the tavern owner had declined to prosecute.

Sharp, who lives at 3849 West Pine boulevard, was arrested after police saw him and a companion carry a box of partly-filled bottles of liquor from the bar, which has been closed about three months. Two youths, named by Sharp as his companions when he broke into the tavern, also were arrested.

Reis said the tavern owner, Chester Roskip, 1023 Hamilton avenue, told him he did not want to prosecute because Sharp had never been in trouble before.

MARSHALL SAYS U.S. STILL WANTS LONG REICH PACT

Proposal for 40-Year Treaty Still Open, America Wants Russia as a Signer.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall declared today the American proposal for a 40-year German disarmament treaty is still open to other nations and the United States still wants Russia as one of the signers to carry through such a treaty.

At a press conference Marshall also:

1. Officially recognized the possibility of the existence of an international brigade organized to help Greek Communists fighting against the Athens government. He said the State Department "cannot confirm or deny the existence of such a brigade."

2. Said that no Russian reply has been received here to American proposals for an early start on a Japanese peace treaty. The Moscow radio reported the American proposals had been rejected.

3. Declared that the appointment of Rudolf E. Schoenfeld as Minister to Romania was evidence of American interest in the welfare of the Romanian people but not of American willingness to condone the denial of political liberties by the Government of Romania.

4. Said the elimination of relief assistance to Poland, as announced earlier in the day, stems from an official report that Poland does not need emergency foodstuff and not from Poland's refusal to join the Marshall plan for western Europe.

5. Declined to disclose the status of negotiations with the British on a Ruhr coal conference here and declined to comment on French objections to British-American proposals for increasing the level of industry in western Germany.

DONNELLY SIGNS MADISON BILL CURBING LABOR

and with employes," Donnelly said. "It establishes fair, equitable procedures and impartial methods of adjusting these relationships.

"Jurisdictional strikes, as well as strikes and boycotts against or affecting employers or workers who are not directly concerned in a labor dispute are prohibited, as they should be. Such strikes and boycotts are unfair and unsound.

"Means are provided for the peaceful settlement of disputes. Elections among members of labor groups are provided for, under conditions that protect the worker and the public."

On Strikes Against Government.

Donnelly said there should be no difference of opinion on the provisions prohibiting strikes against government.

"No individual or group has the right to destroy or weaken the strength and authority of the people's free government, for any reason whatever," he said. "A strike against Government, in whatever guise it presents itself, is a blow at the foundations of our free institutions. This can only lead to chaos and anarchy, and must not be permitted."

Rights of workers in private industry to strike in protection of their just and legitimate welfare are not infringed by provisions of the Madison bill, Donnelly said.

"The inherent rights of the working man are not disturbed," he said, "nor are the essential, legitimate rights and privileges of labor organizations curtailed. Labor can and I am sure will prosper under the terms of this legislation, while regaining and retaining the goodwill of the public."

The bill originally was introduced by Senator Charles L. Madison of Kansas City. It was revised and modified by the Senate Committee on Industrial Relations, in a committee substitute bill.

Major provisions of the bill are as follows:

Employers are defined as all persons employing others, and all persons acting in the interest of an employer. The act does not apply to any person subject to the Federal Railway Labor Act.

A labor organization is defined as any organization of employes which exists, in whole or in part, for collective bargaining or dealing with employers concerning grievances or terms or conditions of employment.

Jurisdictional strikes are prohibited. If a controversy arises between two or more employe groups or labor organizations as to which shall be recognized for collective bargaining, or jurisdiction over work, the controversy must be submitted to arbitration if not settled otherwise. If not settled after a reasonable time, the State Industrial Commission, on application of any of the parties or any affected employer, shall make an investigation and determine the issue. The decision shall be binding, subject to review as provided by law.

The Industrial Commission may conduct an election among employes to determine a bargaining agent.

No employe or other person shall engage in, promote or induce any strike unless it has been authorized by a majority vote of all the employes eligible to vote in a collective bargaining unit; the vote must be taken by secret ballot, under rules and regulations prescribed by the Industrial Commission to assure a "secret, fair and impartial election." The commission shall declare the result of the election.

Collective bargaining contracts or working agreements between an employer and a labor organization shall be enforceable in the courts, subject to the same remedies, including injunctive relief, as are available on other contracts or rights in the courts of the state.

Secondary boycotts and sympathy strikes are prohibited. Any employe of the United States, or the state, or municipality, or any other political subdivision of the state, who shall call, support, encourage or participate "in any strike against his employer shall be considered engaged in an act of grave and immediate danger to the community and shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor."

Violation of the strike prohibitions of the act is defined as a misdemeanor. The penalty for a misdemeanor is a fine of not more than $1000, or imprisonment in jail for not to exceed one year, or both.

CIO, AFL Leaders Assail Bill, Promise Political Action.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 23 (AP)—"I've had the notion in the not be necessary to violate the law back of my head all along that he hates labor," James Davis, secretary of the Missouri CIO council, said last night of Gov. Donnelly after learning that he had signed the Madison antistrike bill.

"But I'll guarantee him now that there'll be 5000 people working night and day against him any time he tries to run for political office again. I think he wants to run for Senator against Forrest Donnell in 1950. But labor would rather have Donnell any time."

In Springfield, Reuben T. Wood, president of the AFL Missouri State Federation of Labor said: "Certainly we'll fight it (the Madison bill), and we'll try to beat every man that voted for it."

Wood said he thought it would to test it, that the unions could ask the courts for a declaratory judgment.

He called the law "the meanest anti-labor bill ever passed in the history of the country," and termed it "worse than the Taft-Hartley Act."

PRICES UP, BUT PROFITS LOWER, SAYS COAL MAN

Higher Freight Rates, Larger Costs and Steady Volume of Business Are Cited as Factors.

St. Louis coal merchants will receive a smaller gross profit under the recently announced retail price increases, ranging up to $2 a ton, than they received a year ago, James A. Worsham, executive secretary of the St. Louis Coal Merchants' Association, Inc., said today.

He denied that the price increases, announced Saturday, in any way constituted "pyramiding of price advances" as warned against by President Truman Monday.

In an economic report to Congress, the President said that, pending restoration of lower price levels on coal as operating adjustments toward maximum efficiency are made and shortages are overcome, "pyramiding of price advances by coal distributors is wholly unjustified."

"We regret as much as anybody that coal has to go up in price," Worsham said today, "but, because of increased costs at the mines and increased delivery costs, the public will have to pay more, if the coal dealers are to remain in business. Dealers here will not receive as much gross profit per ton as they did a year ago."

Freight Rates Higher.

A comparison of wholesale costs and freight rates paid by the dealers now with the costs of a year ago showed that the dealers' gross profit per ton, from which must come their operating expenses before a net profit can be figured, is from 12 to 17 cents less now than in July, 1946.

A representative of the Franklin County Coal Corp. said the price of oil-treated stoker coal at the mines in Southern Illinois now runs $4.50 a ton, compared to $3.60 a ton a year ago. The freight rate since January has been $1.69 per ton, including a 4-cent federal tax paid by the dealer, compared to $1.52 in July, 1946.

This brings the total cost now paid by the dealer to $6.19 a ton as compared to $5.12 a year ago. This coal, now selling for an average retail price of $9.50 a ton, was priced at $8.55 a ton last year. At the present price, the dealer has a "spread," or gross profit, of $3.31 a ton, while in July 1946 his gross profit amounted to $3.43 a ton.

George W. Curran, president of the Curran Coal & Appliance Co., said that the present price at the mine of stove-size, smokeless coal from West Virginia is $6.85, compared to $4.50 a year ago. Freight rates have increased from $3.49 in July 1946, to $3.71 a ton at present. Thus the total cost to the dealer now is $10.56 a ton as compared to $7.99 a year ago.

At present the top retail price of this coal is $14.25 a ton as compared to $11.85 in July 1946. The dealer's gross profit under present prices amounts to $3.69 a ton as compared to $3.86 a ton last year, a decrease of 17 cents.

Sales in Small Lots.

Curran said the dealers' cost of operation was increased sharply last year because domestic consumers, who had been keeping their coal bins full during the war, returned to the practice of buying coal in small lots, one or two tons at a time.

Worsham also said the dealers' operating costs have risen steadily. He pointed out that wages of drivers and helpers were increased 15 cents an hour, or $1.20 a day, about a month ago. In addition, the cost of maintenance of delivery trucks has risen, he said, asserting that "a repair job that used to cost no more than $15 now costs $60."

He estimated that the cost of delivery of coal was about $1.50 a ton. In addition, the dealer has administrative costs, he pointed out.

"The advances in retail prices of coal here are not unreasonable in any sense of the world," Worsham said. "The amount of coal that can be expected to be sold in the city each year is fairly static. We cannot expect an increase in the volume of business unless new homes are constructed, or business expands."

He added that the gross profit per ton of coal collected by the dealers in St. Louis "is $1 to $2 less than in Kansas City and Chicago, although the freight rates to these cities are but slightly higher than to St. Louis."

"The price of coal is governed by operating expenses," he said. "We are concerned about the ever-increasing prices of coal, but there is nothing we can do about it."

U.S. INVESTMENTS ABROAD

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Business investments in other countries yielded Americans $520,000,000 last year, a greater income than ever before, the Commerce Department reported today. The previous high was $474,000,000—set 18 years before in "boom time" 1928.

Of the 1946 income, $273,000,000 was received from investments in Latin America, and $126,000,000 from Canada. The remaining fourth came from Europe, Asia, Africa and Oceania (Australia, New Zealand, etc.).

Hungarian Election Law Changed.

BUDAPEST, July 23 (AP)—The Hungarian parliament passed a new election law today with only 11 independents and possibly half that number of right-wing members of the Smallholders party opposing the measure. A standing vote was taken.

Veto Dispute Shelved.

Meanwhile, in another U.N. session today the Atomic Energy Commission shelved the dispute over the atomic veto indefinitely.

The postponement was requested by American Delegate Frederick H. Osborn, who said the United States "will not be a party" to any attempt to give the big powers the right to veto punishment of global atomic control offenders.

The issue was postponed until a later stage of atomic negotiations—perhaps for several months—shortly after Gromyko reopened his attempt to amend a majority report indorsing the United States stand on the veto question.

Gromyko did not object when Chairman Fernand Van Lengenhov of Belgium granted Osborn's postponement request, and it was agreed to unanimously without a formal vote.

"In our view," Osborn declared, "no useful purpose could be served by engaging in any lengthy debate on this principle at this time."

Osborn asserted that 10 of the 2 nations on the atomic commission—all except Russia and Poland—have accepted the American view that no nation violating the proposed world atomic control agreement should escape punishment through use of the Big Five veto privilege in the U.N. Security Council.

In that case, Gromyko retorted, Russia will continue to "consider unacceptable" the majority report in which the Atomic Energy Commission indorsed the American stand on the veto as it affect world atomic control.

Osborn said the atomic commission could solve the East-West stalemate on one of the knottiest problems of atomic negotiations only by delaying argument on it until all the powers of the projected world atomic control agency have been hammered out in the United Nations.

Dutch Driving on Indonesian Capital; Claim East Java

Lawang, 12 miles north of Malang, and Soemedang and Tjitjalengka, both 20 miles east of Bandoeng.

The Dutch communique said that from Bandoeng in western Java, "our troops advanced in a northern and northeastern direction, and occupied and passed beyond Tandjoengsari and Segalherang." This drive apparently was headed for Cheribon, where unconfirmed reports said the Dutch had made still another landing.

Other unconfirmed reports said Indonesians were carrying out demolitions at Soerakarta, blowing up bridges and mining roads to halt the Dutch advance toward Jogjakarta.

In New Delhi, the Government of India announced last night it had made "urgent representations" to Britain and the United States in regard to the hostilities in Indonesia, which it viewed with "grave concern."

(India said it had urged that the two powers "make every effort to bring an immediate cessation to the armed conflict, resumption of negotiations between the parties for an amicable settlement of the dispute or, failing that, a resort to arbitration.")

Union Boycott of Ships.

(In Amsterdam, dock workers and seamen's unions, Communist affiliated, ordered a boycott of ships bound for Indonesia with goods that might "further, directly or indirectly, the military forces." The unions also urged the World Federation of Trade Unions to act to make the boycott world-wide.)

Dutch troops held only four bridgeheads in Java and three in Sumatra before the start of hostilities Sunday.

These, turned over by British occupation forces on their withdrawal last Nov. 30, were, in Java, around Soerabaja in the east, Semarang in the middle and Bandoeng and Batavia in the west; and, in Sumatra, around Palembang in the southeast, Padang in the middle and Medan in the northwest.

The republic controlled all the rest of the two islands and the smaller island of Madoera northeast of Java. Elsewhere in the East Indies, the Dutch were in control.

Australia or India May Take Indies Case to U. N.

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—Well-informed diplomatic sources said today that either India or Australia might ask the United Nations to intervene in the dispute between the Netherlands and the Indonesian republic.

The complaining nation presumably would charge that the Indonesian fighting constituted a threat to world peace, these sources said. Both India and Australia, they said, have a "close interest" in the situation in Indonesia.

Sjahrir Mission Will Test U. S. Attitude on Indonesia.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The announced plan of an Indonesian envoy to visit the United States confronted the State Department today with a test of future attitude toward the island republic's armed struggle with the Netherlands.

Sutan Sjahrir, former Indonesian premier, said on his arrival by plane at Singapore that he expected to go to the United States as well as India and Australia on a special mission for President Soekarno.

The Hague and several other capitals will be interested to see whether this government permits his entry without a passport.

The United States, along with Britain, has continued to recognize Queen Wilhelmina's sovereignty over the East Indies, but have extended what amounts to actual but unofficial recognition to the republic by consulting with native officials on the projected United States of Indonesia.

Until the sudden Dutch attack, the State Department was hoping for a revival of trade with Indonesia, a major prewar source of rubber, oil and other products which Europe needs for its recovery.

(The United Press said that if the Indonesian case is brought before the United Nations, the Netherlands cannot expect the same sympathy from the United States that it received when the Soviet Ukraine raised the Indonesian question 18 months ago. It added that the United States statement that it "profoundly regrets" the turn of events was designed to be a rebuke to the Dutch Government for resorting to force.)

About 7000 Dutch marines, now fighting in eastern Java, were trained and equipped at Camp Lejeune, N. C., during the summer of 1945.

An official at the Netherlands Embassy said the Dutch fighters were trained at the request of the Netherlands Government, and were given the same basic training as United States marines.

They were issued the same equipment as that given a brigade of United States marines, he said. This would include some 15 tanks, about 12 105-mm. howitzers and an impressive collection of automatic weapons, machine guns, mortars, anti-tank guns, flame throwers and mobile equipment such as jeeps and half-tracks.

Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens, the new Netherlands Ambassador to the United States, said yesterday upon his arrival in America that "disloyal Indonesians are holding thousands of Dutch white people, many of them women, as hostages in the interior of Java."

Moscow Blames Indies Fighting on Truman Doctrine.

MOSCOW, July 23 (INS)—The Moscow radio yesterday attributed the resumption of fighting in Java to "the extension of the Truman Doctrine in Indonesia."

The broadcast added that the United States note delivered to the republicans in the course of their negotiations with the Dutch was "open interference in Indonesia's affairs and direct support of The Netherlands colonial regime."

pany. Much of this testimony consisted of estimates, or projections of estimates, as to future revenues, operating costs, valuation and the possible effect of the increase in pass prices.

J. C. Baine, vice president and operating manager of the Public Service Co. and only witness for the company, conceded on cross-examination that some of the estimates concerning the effect of the schedule were arbitrary figures, he said an estimate on a possible decline in pass sales was "an educated guess."

Baine estimated that the increases in pass prices, if approved, would result in a 4.7 per cent gain in revenue or $1,196,150 a year, based on another estimate of $25,450,000 in passenger revenue this year with existing fares. The passenger revenue in 1946 was $26,715,537.

He estimated sales of the regular weekly, express and shopper-theater passes would decline perhaps 50 per cent if prices were increased, and said he believed the volume of riding would decrease 7.5 per cent in the period from last July 1 to Dec. 31.

"I believe the rate of decline in riders will increase as time goes on," Baine said. This was based, he said, on automobile competition and a possible decline in business activity.

"Critical" Situation.

The company was confronted with a critical situation, it was said, because of declining revenues and sharp increases in costs. The loss in revenue was estimated at about $1,000,000 a year and increased costs at nearly $2,000,000 a year, including $1,431,000 in wage increases and $516,000 in increased material and supply costs.

Baine offered an exhibit indicating a deficit of $76,000 for this year, based on present fares. The net income last year was $1,509,390.

A wage dispute between the company and its employes again is being arbitrated under an agreement which terminated a two-week strike last June 27. In the meantime, the company is paying wage increases under a previous arbitration award, rejected by employes when the strike was called, which gave streetcar and bus operators a top wage of $1.22½ an hour, an increase of 14½ cents over the former $1.08.

Baine said he could not say now whether additional relief may be necessary later.

An exhibit placing the estimated valuation of the company property at $62,094,430, on an investment basis, as of last May 31, was introduced. The last valuation of the company property by the commission, in a 1928 case, was fixed at $63,500,000, on the basis of reproduction new, less depreciation.

City Lays Basis for Inquiry.

No testimony was offered by the City of St. Louis, but city representatives, in brief cross-examination, raised questions as to company estimates on revenues, the effect of the proposed schedule, depreciation reserve and the estimates making up the valuation figure, to support the city's position that a full investigation should be made.

City Counselor George L. Stemmler asked that any fare increase authorized by the commission be on an experimental basis, for not longer than six months. He asked that the commission proceed as soon as possible with a full audit of operations of the company, and that it determine the valuation, and reasonableness of its fares.

Ralph Shaw of St. Louis, state chairman of the Communist party of Missouri, appeared in opposition to the fare increase. Shaw said he desired to present the position of the Communist party, but Commissioner Agnes Mae Wilson objected that the Communist party had not intervened in the case and that he should testify only as an individual citizen.

After some wrangling Shaw was permitted to testify as an individual. He read a prepared statement, urging a full examination of operations of the company and its valuation. He asserted the valuation should not be more than $36,000,000.

State Representative William A. Massingale, Negro of St. Louis, also appeared briftly, in opposition to the increase.

LIMIT OF 10 YEARS ON FLOOD CONTROL PROJECTS URGED

Projects Authorized.

President Truman's message to Congress last week related that there was nearly $6,000,000,000 in flood control and related purposes authorized by Congress for the whole Mississippi watershed, including $3,500,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 directly or closely related to flood control. "Authorization" of such projects does not carry funds; appropriations must follow, and these have been slow coming.

For the Upper Mississippi river, authorizations include 10 reservoirs on tributaries, levees, and other work. There are extensive Army programs also for the Ohio, Arkansas and other valleys in this watershed.

Need for soil conservation was emphasized by Macleay as the nation's most serious domestic problem. He mentioned the huge losses of topsoil, damages to property and the loss of life in the recent floods and pointed out that the losses would have paid for a large part of a comprehensive flood control program.

"Our sympathies," said Macleay, "go out to the victims of all the flood areas in this year's disaster. They have paid the price of the nation's refusal in the past to face realistically the menace of uncontrolled floods and the failure to recognize that the cost of protection is infinitesimal in comparison with the flood losses in the last 20 years alone."

Message From Truman.

A message urging adequate flood prevention measures in the Mississippi watershed was sent to the conference by President Truman. It was in the form of a telegram to Lachlan MacLeay of St. Louis, president of the Mississippi Valley Association.

"Hearty felicitations and warmest personal greetings to all who attend the flood control conference to be held under the auspices of the Mississippi Valley Association," said the President.

"Recent events have emphasized with great force the need of educational work such as the Mississippi Valley Association can perform. As I have pointed out in a message to the Congress, the drainage basin of the Mississippi and its tributaries comprises nearly one-half of the nation in area and population.

"We must, therefore, pay the price for occupancy of these lands, either in the form of recurring devastation or in preventive measures. I trust that your deliberations will be fruitful of wise counsels and constructive action to advance the great work necessary to be done in the Mississippi Valley."

The President's greeting to this group of Pick-Sloan supporters, meeting in his home city, was silent as to his recently reiterated espousel of the rival Missouri Valley Authority.

Building Levees Urged by Pick.

Brig. Gen. Lewis A. Pick of Omaha, Nebr., Army division engineer for the Missouri basin followed Macleay. He is the author of the Army, or Pick, part of Pick-Sloan, the Sloan portion being the Bureau of Reclamation's irrigation plans for the upper basin.

"These destructive floods," said Pick, "have demonstrated once again what we must do to protect the lower Missouri river valley. It will be necessary to build levees as well as storage reservoirs. If we can build levees in Missouri below Kansas City it will be necessary to provide water storage in the tributaries coming into the main stream in the state of Missouri.

"We must rely on the over-all, comprehensive plan (meaning Pick-Sloan) to reduce floods. That means that each river basin must be considered and the proper amount of storage provided before we can eliminate floods in that basin."

Other speakers on the program were Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas, J. Leroy Welsh, partner in the grain business of Senator Hugh Butler (Rep.) of Nebraska, representing the governor of that state; Col. Clark Kittrell of St. Louis, Army division engineer for the Upper Mississippi; Jefferson C. Dykes, assistant chief of the federal Soil Conservation Service, and Mayor William E. Kemp of Kansas City.

STREETCAR STRUCK BY LIGHTNING IN PITTSBURGH, 18 HURT

Bolt Hits Crowded Trolley During Rush Hour at Downtown Corner.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 23 (AP)—Lightning which blasted a gaping hole through the top of a crowded streetcar at the height of the traffic rush hour yesterday injured 18 persons, two seriously.

Glare - blinded passengers screamed and tried to fight their way out of the smoke-filled car. Two women were trampled.

Jacob Rominoff, 58 years old, who suffered second degree burns on the face and head, and W. T. Plough, 56, severly burned on hands and face, were detained at Mercy Hospital. Other injured persons were released after treatment.

Plough said he saw "a streak of fire about 12 inches deep" flash through the car, adding:

"There was thick smoke and the fumes smelled like sulphur. The heat was like a blow torch."

KWK ORGANIST DISMISSED ON PAY DEMAND, STATION SAYS

A staff organist has been dismissed by Radio Station KWK because the American Federation of Musicians proposed that his salary be raised from $72.50 a week to $200, Ray Dady, vice president and general manager of the station, announced today.

Previously the station dismissed 10 of its 16 musicians, under terms of the new federal Lea Act, which enables radio stations to employ the number of musicians they deem necessary. A musical director and four turntable men have been retained. The turntable men, who play and index records, received a $10 increase, to $65 a week.

COL. DURANT'S SENTENCE IS REDUCED TO 14 YEARS

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 23 (AP)—The 15-year jail sentence given Col. Jack W. Durant of Chicago for his part in the $1,500,000 Kronberg castle jewel theft was reduced today to 14 years.

Brig. Gen. Robinson E. Duff, Frankfurt military commander, ordered the finding of guilty on one charge accusing Durant of signing another officer's name without authority.

Durant's wife, former Wac Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, also was convicted in the case.

FLOOD DAMAGE TO HIGHWAYS IN MISSOURI HEAVY

Repairs on 234 Sections of Roads in 59 Counties to Cost Near Half Million Dollars.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 23 (AP)—Rampaging floodwaters in northern Missouri damaged major and supplementary highway systems to the extent of nearly half a million dollars in June and July, the State Highway Department reported yesterday. That estimate does not include damage to bridges and roadways or county maintained routes. Repairs to such roads might easily total more than the state's preliminary total of $482,187 for state maintained highways.

Three bridges which were destroyed, one in Nodaway county and two in Chariton county, will cost approximately $190,000 to replace. The remainder of repair costs will be consumed in rebuilding washed out grades and bridge approaches, undermined bridge abutment repairs and construction of sections of pavement that were whirled away by the raging water.

One bridge on Nodaway county's Route C will cost an estimated $90,000 to replace. The two in Chariton County will cost: on Route 11, $20,000 and on Route 129, $80,000.

There were 234 sections on the highway systems, in 59 counties, which must be repaired. Lesser highways also will need repairs, the Department report said, because heavy traffic was detoured over them when major routes were blocked by floods.

Division one, the St. Joseph Division which maintains highways in 12 counties, reported 81 sections in need of repairs. Six more of the 10 divisions also reported flood damage. Largest single roadway damage in the state was reported west of Glasgow on Route 240 where 1000 feet of concrete paving and fill was washed out.

Window Washer Hurt in Fall.

Doyle E. Wilkerson, a window washer, suffered back injuries yesterday when he lost his balance and fell two stories from a ladder while washing a window of a house at 5105 Brown avenue. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital. Wilkerson lives at 1753 Missouri avenue.

U.S. TAX IN STATE EXCEEDS BILLION FOR FISCAL YEAR

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 23—Federal tax collections in Missouri in the fiscal year ended June 30 remained above the billion-dollar mark, and declined only slightly from the year before, the Treasury announced today. The 1947 total was $1,056,560,591, and that for the previous year, $1,090,438,984. Of the total for the state in fiscal 1947, nearly 75 per cent, or $742,128,036 was collected by the First (St. Louis) District.

Corporation income taxes rose somewhat, reflecting the fuller use in 1946 of reconversion carryback tax credits. Individual income tax collections were slightly higher despite a slightly lower rate. The big drop came in excess profits tax collections, a levy which was repealed as of Dec. 31, 1946.

Totals were: Corporation income: $200,848,112; individual income, $471,156,304; excess profits, $143,959,439; employment taxes, including carriers' tax, $63,566,486; and other taxes, $177,030,246.

TWO HELD IN RING THEFT SAID TO ADMIT 20 ROBBERIES

Two Negroes, arrested yesterday in an investigation of the theft of three boxes of rings from the William C. Zander jewelry store, 4049 Olive street, have admitted that theft and more than 20 other similar robberies here and in East St. Louis, police announced today. The rings taken from Zander's store were valued at $500.

Thep risoners said they were Alonzo E. Scurlock, 616 (rear) Piggott avenue, East St. Louis, and Leroy Hooks, 1202 South Fourteenth street, East St. Louis. Scurlock won the novice heavyweight competition in the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament here in 1946.

Police said the two stole merchandise while posing as customers and being shown articles by sales clerks. Police estimated the total value of their loot at about $2500.

GROUP TO BE NAMED FOR LIVESTOCK SHOW

Nine to Draw Up Incorporation Articles for National Event Here.

Appointment of a committee of nine members to draw up articles of incorporation, constitution and bylaws for a national livestock show organization in St. Louis was authorized last night at a meeting at the Chase Hotel. The meeting, attended by about 200 persons, was sponsored by the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Those in attendance indorsed the idea of an annual national livestock show to be held here. It would include entertainment features such as a competitive rodeo, displays of soil, crop and building improvement methods.

John F. Krey, vice president of Krey Packing Co., was named chairman of the meeting. The committee will be appointed by E. G. Cherbonnier, chairman of the chamber's agricultural committee.

Speakers last night included W. O. Cox, for the past 12 years manager of the Houston (Tex.) Fat Stock Show, and Herman Engle, manager of the Tulsa, Okla., livestock show.

DIES AFTER FALL IN GARAGE

George W. Rood, retired [illegible] Electric Co. construction foreman, died at St. Mary's Hospital [illegible] of a fractured skull, apparently the result of a fall yesterday in the garage at his home, 3703 Oxford avenue, Maplewood. He was 66 years old.

His wife, Mrs. Clara Rood, and daughter, Miss Mildred Rood, told Coroner Arnold J. Willmann they heard a crash and found him at the foot of steps leading to an overhead storage area in the garage. Mr. Rood retired four years ago after 37 years with Union Electric. An inquest will be held at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

MENTAL PATIENT WHO CUT WIFE AND SON IS INDICTED

An indictment charging assault with intent to kill was voted by a Circuit Court grand jury yesterday against Carlos Obregon, a mental patient, who cut his wife, LaVerda, and 2-year-old son, David, with a pocket knife last May 30.

The cutting occurred after Mrs. Obregon refused his request to live with him police said. Obregon, a patient of the Veterans Hospital south of Jefferson Barracks, had left the hospital on a pass and had gone to his wife's home at 2703 Henrietta street to make the request.

HOUSE VOTE PUTS CREDIT CURB END UP TO TRUMAN

Extension Plan Loses—President Pledged to Drop Controls Unless Congress Acted.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Denied specific peacetime authority to regulate time payment buying, President Truman today faces a decision on when to lift present credit restraints on such items as automobiles, refrigerators and radios.

The President had recommended that the controls—imposed by wartime executive order—be continued for a while with the approval of Congress as a curb against inflation.

The House instead approved a bill late yesterday to end such controls immediately. The voice vote action rejected a Senate-approved measure to continue modified credit restraints to Dec. 31. Neither bill appeared likely to get any furth r.

"Now Up to President."

Chairman Wolcott (Rep.), Michigan, of the House Banking Committee told reporters after the House vote:

"It is now up to the President to get rid of the credit controls, as he said he would do if he did not get specific authority from Congress. It is certain the House will not authorize such regulations. The Senate bill is dead."

Known as the Federal Reserve Board's "regulation W," the credit curbs were imposed early in the war under the trading with the enemy act. Because that World War I statute carries no specific time limit, Truman could, if he chose, keep the restraints in force so long as the House bill did not become law.

On June 5, however, Truman wrote Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve Board chairman:

"If the Congress does not see fit to provide the necessary legislative authority, it is my intention to vacate the executive order because I do not believe that such regulation should rest indefinitely in peacetime on emergency or war powers, after the Congress has had ample opportunity to consider the subject."

Present Regulations.

The controls now in force require one-third down payments, with installments running no longer than 15 months, on automobiles, stoves, mechanical dishwashers, ironers, refrigerators, washing machines, room unit air conditioners, radior, phonographs, sewing machines and vacuum cleaners. A 20 per cent down payment, with installments limited to 15 months, is required for furniture and rugs.

The bill approved by the Senate would extend the controls to Dec. 31, with no more than 20 per cent required on down payments and installments to run two years.

In a formal report, a majority of the House Banking Committee said of the installment buying restriction:

"It gives to the man of financial means, in effect, priority of rights to buy whatever he wants and whenever he is willing to pay the price."

Taking the opposite tack during House debate, Representative Crawford (Rep.), Michigan, asserted that "this bill will help the 'big boys' and the finance companies, but will hurt the little business man."

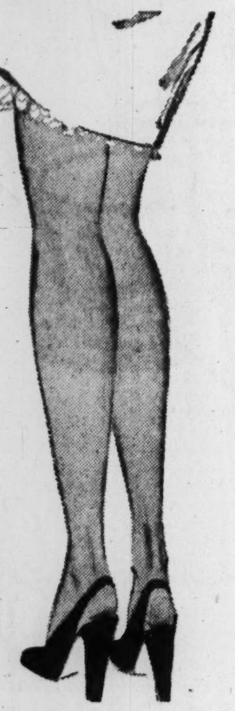

X-RAY TEST OF FOOD MEN IN KIRKWOOD TOMORROW

Examination of food handlers in Kirkwood through use of the mobile X-ray unit of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis will begin tomorrow and continue through Friday.

Similar examinations will be made in Webster Groves next Monday and Tuesday, and in Richmond Heights July 30 and 31.

The tuberculosis society, working with the city and county health departments, is using the X-ray method to discover early symptoms of tuberculosis in individuals in order to reduce the number of cases in this area.

Munger Kayoed by Giants; Browns, Kinder Pitching, Rout Yanks, 8-2

Ken Burkhardt Stops Rally; Mize in Uniform, But Not in the Lineup

By J. Roy Stockton
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, July 23—George Munger was knocked out of the box for the third straight time this afternoon as he pitched against the Giants in the second game of their series with the Cardinals.

Big George, who was routed by the Phillies and Dodgers in his last two starts, departed in the third inning with nobody out after New York whacked him for five hits and four runs. Ken Burkhardt went to the hill for the Cardinals in the third with two runs in and a runner on second and retired the next three batters.

Dave Koslo, lefthander, with a 10-5 record, was the Giant hurler. He yielded two runs in the second inning.

Johnny Mize, the Giant home-run-hitter who was hit on the head by a pitched ball last night, was on the bench in uniform and took a turn in batting practice, but he was not in the starting lineup. Joe LaFata played first for New York.

About 7500 persons attended.

Magerkurth, Ballanfant and Henline were the umpires.

The Cardinals announced that beginning Friday night all floodlight games will be started at 8:45 p.m. The 8:30 time will be resumed in September.

Wray's Column

Fans May Feel a Bit Sulky About It.

THE mantle of night, which has fallen on almost every form of daylight sport, is threatening another promotion in this area. . . . That's horse racing.

The condition will become a reality if plans to introduce floodlight harness racing at Fairmount race track are carried through. . . . In that event we shall see running-horse racing blacked out completely in this vicinity and replaced by night trotting and pacing. . . . Illinois laws do not permit both types of competition at the same track.

The proposed floodlights-harness racing invasion of Fairmount is, we understand, expected to become effective by next spring. . . . Fairmount owners have agreed to lease but not sell the plant. . . . It might be that in this community, so heavily populated by day workers, the idea could be put over in a major way.

* * *

It's not new, by any means. . . . Night harness meets have been in operation at the Roosevelt Raceway near New York, where nightly for several years, mutuel handles pass the $500,000 mark. . . . In Chicago, the Maywood night harness track has just extended a 60-day meeting through the current weekend, after a highly successful mutuel harvest last year. . . . In the Far West night harness racing also has been going over high, wide and handsome.

Broke to the Penny, Not to the Dime.

IN order to bring night racing to St. Louis—or any other spot in Illinois — state legislators had to do some astonishing ground and lofty statutory tumbling . . . They have amended, re-interpreted and juggled conditions governing racing of all sorts. The current crazy-quilt regulations no longer resemble the statute that first legalized betting on horses, about a score of years ago.

The original bill was a honey . . . To begin with, it affirmed that daylight mutuels on races were ethical and legal. . . . But as soon as the sun set—No, no, Nanette . . . You dassen't bet! . . . After dark, mutuels became felonious!

In the beginning a race track was allowed no breakage — its mutuels, by law, broke to the penny! . . . Incredibly, the public got everything that was coming to it. . . . Today Illinois tracks break to the dime. . . . This means that race promoters may keep as high as nine cents change out of a dollar—on occasions.

State revenue was originally provided for by a $2500 daily tax, plus 20 cents on every admission, free or paid . . . Now the law provides for a takeout total, with brokerage, of about 10 per cent, of which the state gets two per cent, plus admission taxes and daily license fees.

Illinois Mutuel Law Had Face Lifted.

BUT it was in the matter of night mutuels that the Illinois statute has had its face lifted in a major way. . . . The "no after dark mutuel" was modified by special legislative permission. . . . As it appears now you have to twist your neck violently, to see these angles: Running horse mutuels may not operate at night. . . . Harness horses betting IS legal by day or night.

Dog race betting NEVER is legal. . . . Untangle that snarl of inequality and unfairness!

It all seems to make it very plain that the country is not going to the dogs, but to the horses.

What interests survivors of a day when most major sports were viewed by sunlight, is the amazing overall trend toward night-time competition. . . . Practically every popular sport now has its night phase. . . . And the public likes it.

Major league baseball now is completely sold on the floodlights. . . . In Chicago recently President Will Harridge of the American League told this writer: "Night baseball to me is a wonderful spectacle. . . . I truly enjoy floodlights games—possibly better than baseball by day."

And not long ago President Will and 16 owners stounchly turned their backs o all night-game proposals.

Skladany Named Coach.

PITTSBURGH, July 23 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League today completed their coaching staff with the appointment of Joseph P. (Muggsy) Skladany, ex-Pitt grid star, as assistant coach.

Skladany replaces Frank Souchak, who resigned because of business duties. The new mentor served on coaching staffs at Carnegie Tech, Pitt, Bainbridge, Md., naval station and was head coach at Carnegie Tech in 1943.

W. J. Brown Gets Four Of Team's Safeties; Heath Hits 17th Homer

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 23—The Browns evened their series with the Yankees here this afternoon by taking an 8-2 decision behind the six-hit pitching of Ellis Kinder.

Jeff Heath put the Browns in front in the first inning when he slapped his seventh homer o the year. Henry Thompson, who had walked, scored ahead o Heath. The Browns picked up single runs in the third and fifth innings, and then hopped all over Relief Pitcher Al Lyons in the ninth for four runs on four hits.

Frank Shea, Yankee ace and winning pitcher in the All-Star game, made his first start in two weeks and was removed after Stephens opened the third with a single. A recurrence of Shea's score elbow was the cause. The loss was his third against eleven victories.

Kinder was in excellent form and permitted the Yankees to score only in the eighth inning, when Lindell hit a double which Lehner reached but could not hold, DiMaggio tripled and George McQuinn hit a long fly.

Two of the Yankees hits were bunts. They loaded the bags in the fourth on two walks and a hit but Kinder disposed of Berra on a routine fly. The victory was Kinder's sixth against five losses.

Hitting stars for the Browns were Heath and W. J. Brown, who made four hits and drove in three runs. Two of the safeties were pop flies which Stirnweiss lost in the sun.

The paid attendance was announced as 21,207, and there were also an estimated 13,000 school children in the stands, guests of the New York management.

Medalist Defeated In Junior Tourney

GLEN ELLYN, Ill., July 23 (AP)—Tom McMahon, of Detroit, a newcomer to the Chicago field, advanced to the third round of the twelfth annual Chicago Open golf tournament at Glen Oak Country Club yesterday by defeating Chuck Lindgren, medalist from Rockford, 1 up, and then returning to capture a second round match from Dean Lind, also of Rockford, by the same score.

Another favorite to fall in the first round was Jimmy Love of Peoria, 1945 champion, who was the victim of Harry Smith, of Waukegan, 3 and 2.

Lindgren, who led the qualifying round with a one-under-par 71, wobbled badly at the start of his match with McMahon, losing four of the first five holes. He rallied to square the match finally, but McMahon won the eighteenth hole to triumph.

29,954 See Brecheen Bag 12th Victory in 10-5 Romp

By Bob Broeg

The Cardinals are giving him the runs he missed so often a year ago, and on the records he's pitching better baseball. Harry (The Cat) Brecheen is suffering bruises instead of the defeats that made him only a .500 hurler in 1946.

At the moment the little left-hander is carrying more black and blue spots than an ink factory, and the latest painful discoloration was suffered last night as the Redbirds celebrated their return to Sportsman's Park with a rousing 10-5 victory over the New York Giants, whose second-place advantage was reduced to one-and-a-half games.

In the fourth inning, you see, there was an unfortunate accident. Trying to pitch high and inside to Johnny Mize, the slugging first baseman of the Giants, Brecheen threw a fast ball that seemed to transfix the home-run hitter.

Mize took the pitch high on his head over the right ear, rolling enough with the delivery, at the last instant to make the impact a glancing blow. Of course, the batter was hurt and he dropped to the ground, shaking his head, and was removed from the game as a precautionary measure.

Just One of Those Things.

In the visitors' clubhouse, where he was sent before Dr. Robert F. Hyland took him to St. John's Hospital for X-ray examination, Big Jawn indicated he realized The Cat had not intended to bean him.

In the first inning, after Bobby Thomson had reached second on a fluke two-out double that resulted when Red Schoendienst lost a pop fly in the tricky blend of twilight and artificial illumination, Mize had walloped a two-run homer, his twenty-eighth of the season. And apparently when their big gunner was hit, the Giants suspected malice aforethought.

Or perhaps, there really is an unwritten rule or code that says a pitcher who beans a batter, either accidentally or intentionally, must get a taste of the horsehide, too. At any rate, when Brecheen came to bat in the home half of the fourth, the first pitch thrown by Monte Kennedy, swift sophomore southpaw, struck The Cat painfully on the right leg, just off the shinbone and at a point where the muscle is taut.

Now, counting quickly, that gave Brecheen (1) a sore-as-a-boil right leg to go with (2) a left shin barked by a line drive at Boston, (3) a left index finger bruised by a hot smash through the box in the same game and (4) a right middle finger jammed as a result of a heavy piece of luggage wedging it against a Pullman berth Monday afternoon.

But The Cat must have nine lives to go with his own determination, for the inning after he was whacked by Kennedy's pitch, the Redbirds batted around in a scoring spree that required enough time to enable Trainer Harrison J. Weaver to apply hot towels to the puffing leg muscle. So Brecheen not only was able to continue, but he also drove in two runs with a single the same inning.

Eventually the Giants finished with nine hits, one a ninth-inning homer by pinch-hitter Lloyd Gearhart, and those five runs represented twice as many as The Cat customarily allows, for he went into last night's contest having allowed an average of only 2.51 tallies—earned and unearned —every nine innings.

Getting Better Breaks.

But this is '47 and a happier season for Brecheen, despite those bruises and the aches and the pains. Five enemy runs would have beat him often last season, one in which he finished with a 15-15 record even though his 2.48 earned-run average was fifth lowest in the league. However, a 12-hit assault that included Stan Musial's tenth home run and George Kurowski's ninth, blows hit consecutively in a three-run third, enabled The Cat to apply pressure only when absolutely necessary.

So the Giants left 10 men on base as Brecheen recorded his twelfth victory against only five defeats, and the Oklahoma southpaw now seems headed for a truly fine season. He has completed 13 of his 17 starts, compared with only 14 nine-inning jobs in 30 tries last year, and he has done a thorough business of beating the clubs still ahead of the world champions.

A crowd of 29,954, largest of the season here, swelled the Redbirds' home attendance to 602,042 for 40 games.

Kennedy, suffering his sixth defeat against seven victories, went out during a five-run fifth inning in which 10 Cardinals went to bat. The last of three New York pitchers, Southpaw Clarence (Hooks) Iott, formerly of the Browns, gave up two hits, three walks and one run in the two frames he hurled.

The Cardinals announced today that Gerald Staley, 25-year-old righthanded pitching rookie who has been with the club all season, has been sent to the Columbus, O., farm club on 24-hour recall option. Staley had appeared in 12 games as a relief pitcher for the Redbirds, won none and lost none.

Jennemann Only St. Louisan in Match Play of Parks Golf Tourney

Meets Coast Entrant in First Round

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 23 (AP)—Wilfred Crossley of Atlanta, Ga., who won medalist honors with a 139 total, cleared his first match play hurdle in the national public links golf tournament today by eliminating Louis Esposito of Chicago, 4 and 3, over Meadow Brook municipal course.

Only one of the early finishers was forced into extra holes. Bob Silvestri of San Francisco was carried to the twenty-first hole by Claire Emery of Salt Lake City before the west coast amateur won, 1 up.

A 36-hole total of 151 or better insured spots in the first-round pairings for 57 of the players. Fourteen others, tied at 152 apiece, started a "sudden death" playoff, and Arthur Jennemann of St. Louis won the fifty-eighth spot by taking a deuce on the par 4 second hole. Three players were eliminated on the first hole and three more on the second before darkness halted play.

The remaining seven teed off this morning to determine the six remaining places.

Second and third round matches will be played tomorrow, with the 36-hole semi-finals set for Friday.

The successor to Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, last year's winner who entered this year's tourney too late, will be crowned Saturday evening after the 36-hole final.

Jenneman Meets Coast Player.

Jenneman, the only St. Louisan to qualify, opposed Peter Schifcick of San Francisco, who qualified with 149 in the first round. Another St. Louis district player to get into match play was Don Morena of Belleville, who had a 151, and played Jack Keonnecker of Denver (149) in his opening match.

St. Louisans who fell by the wayside were Jack Penberthy 154, James Spencer 161 and C. L. Fryman 156.

Following were the team standings: Atlanta, Ga., 431; St. Paul, Minn., 440; Seattle, Wash., and San Francisco, 444; Los Angeles and Portland, Ore., 446; Salt Lake City, 450; Memphis, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky., 454; Denver, Colo., 457; Long Beach, Cal., 458; Cleveland, O., 460; Rockford, Ill., 462; Pittsburgh, 464; Toledo, O., Indianapolis, and Detroit, 465; Daytona, O., and Honolulu, 466; St. Louis, 469; Chicago, 473; Milwaukee, 480; and Jacksonville, Fla., 483.

Bob Higgins Would Like to Know If Pro Grid Rules Mean Anything

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 23 (AP)—At least one college grid coach—Bob Higgins of Penn State—wondered today whether rules adopted by the National Football League meant anything.

Higgins' bewilderment arose over the announced signing of his star guard, Leo Nobile, by the N.F.L.'s Washington Redskins. Nobile had one more year of eligibility in college football.

The Nittany Lions' coach said the pro league passed a rule on Sunday that member clubs would be restrained from signing players who still had an opportunity to play college ball. Then on Monday the Redskins announced the signing of the Penn State guard.

"What kind of a rule is that?" asked Higgins when he learned that the Ambridge youth would no longer be a member of the 1947 Lions.

In Pittsburgh, it was reported that Nobile said he signed a Redskins contract last February after receiving an offer to join the Pittsburgh Steelers, also a N.F.L. team.

"Coach Higgins and Dr. Jock Sutherland(coach of the Steelers) are close friends, which makes me believe Bob asked him to steer clear of me until I finished at Penn state," Nobile was quoted as saying.

Nobile also said he had received offers from the New York Giants of the National League, and the Buffalo Bisons of the new All-America football conference.

It's Not an Easy Road, But Lane Maps Plan For A.A. Umpires

COLUMBUS, O., July 23 (UP)

PRESIDENT FRANK C. LANE of the American Association told his umpires yesterday that they were taking themselves too seriously at times.

Lane, in a bulletin to American Association umpires, urged the arbiters to "calm down and take things in stride."

"Give 'kicking' players a big smile and tell 'em, 'Well, that's just too bad but that's the way I saw it and that's the way I called it—if they didn't have me they'd probably have some other blind guy out here—let's play ball.'"

Lane reminded the umpires that their job was no "bed of roses" but could be made easier if the job was approached with the same impersonal attitude which a judge of law approaches his.

Minor Problems Settled, Russia To Join International Federation

MOSCOW, July 23 (UP)—Hopes for Russian participation in the 1948 Olympic Games brightened considerably today with the announcement that the U.S.S.R. soon may join the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Lord Burghley, president of the federation, which Russia must join to qualify for olympic competition, said yesterday that there "appeared to be no insurmountable barriers" separating Soviet sports leaders and the IAAF.

The British official, who also is chairman of the Olympic organizing committee, was empowered by the emergency IAAF congress which met in London last month to approve Russia's application, but he indicated that formal approval probably would await an exchange of letters after his return to England this week.

Burghley said he believed that "the two or three minor problems" which remained to be cleared up when he arrived Sunday had been settled to the satisfaction of the Russians and the IAAF.

He did not reveal the "minor problems" which were solved but it was understood that the principal issue was the clarification of amateur rules. Russia agreed last week to comply with the federation's amateur code by eliminating cash awards to athletes.

Announcement by the Council of Ministers that medals would be awarded henceforth to Soviet athletes who set national and international records appeared today to have eliminated the last technical obstacle to Russian participation in next year's Olympic games.

Since a Government decree in 1945, Soviet record-breakers have been awarded cash prizes ranging from 5000 to 25,000 rubles (official exchange rate 5.3 to $1) for their feats.

From now on, the All-Union Committee on Physical Culture and Sports Affairs will give gold first class medals to those who break All-Union records which are better than world records and athletes who win Soviet championships.

Those who establish All-Union records which are not better than world records will get gold and silver second class medals. Second-place winners in U. S. S. R. championships will receive silver badges and third-place winners will get bronze badges.

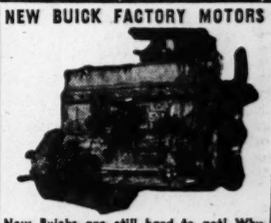

Previously, athletes who broke world records were eligible to receive awards of from 5000 to 20,000 rubles and breakers of Soviet records were eligible for 5000 to 15,000 rubles.

Russia now is enjoying the greatest sports activity in its history. More than 150 national records were set last summer and the number is expected to be almost doubled this year.

Soviet athletes are good in many branches of sport. They particularly excel at soccer football and track, especially the middle distances, and Soviet women are good sprinters and distance runners.

Both basketball and bicycling are coming along fast. Considerable work is being done at present in boxing, wrestling, pole vaulting and jumping. There also is heavy activity in swimming and weight lifting.

Millions participate in sports in the U. S. S. R. and there appear to be as many women athletes as men, or perhaps more.

"Big Three" May Go in Special

Five Others Invited for $25,000 Race

BALTIMORE, July 23 (AP) — The Maryland Jockey Club hopes that long-awaited meeting of Stymie, Assault and Armed, the world's three top money-winners among the thoroughbreds, will take place at Pimlico race track on Oct. 31.

Such a race must be held before the 1947 turf championship is decided—and the jockey club feels the famed Pimlico Special would be the logical spot for the "big three" to match strides.

That's why it selected the date for the mile-and-three-sixteenths classic in advance of those for the other 15 stakes for the Pimlico meeting opening Oct. 30.

Officials want Assault, Armed, Stymie and company to start pointing for it right now.

President Harry A. Parr III, of the jockey club, offers these arguments as to why they and any of the others of the nation's top horses which could give them a race should enter the Special:

"Every aspect of the race is purely sport for sports sake.

"The purse is $25,000, winner-take-all, weight for age, by invitation only, no nomination or starting fees and betting on the race is limited to a straight—or win—pool only.

"The latter provision is inserted for two good reasons. First, a beaten horse is not driven unduly to place or show for the money in those positions, and second, we cannot ever be accused . . . of seeking to fill out a field in order to swell the betting pools on the race."

Only the winners of the nation's top 24 stake races will be eligible. So far, Armed, Assault, Stymie, Faultless, Phalanx, Olhaverry, I Will and Jet Pilot have received invitations.

Jet Pilot, the Kentucky Derby winner, has been retired to stud and won't be on hand.

Assault beat Stymie in the Special last year. In 1945, Armed won.

The other winners were War Admiral, Seabiscuit, Challedon (twice), Market Wise, Whirlaway (in a walkover), Shut Out and Twilight Tear. Most of them were given the unofficial title of "horse of the year" in which they won.

Interest in the 1947 championship was fanned anew last Saturday when Stymie beat Assault in the Empire Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

14-Year-Old Girl Leads Tennis Advance

PHILADELPHIA, July 23 (AP) —Fourteen-year-old Laura Lou Jahn, Belmar, N.J., led the field into the third round today of the Eastern States clay courts tennis tournament.

The slim teen-age miss showed lots of stamina yesterday in gaining a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 victory in a second round match against Mrs. Jean Lesko, Haddonfield, N.J.

Also in the third round are Betsy Crothers, University of Pennsylvania; Sara Muehlbach, Philadelphia Rifle Club; Peggy Ormley, University of Virginia; Deborah Welsh, Penn; and Virginia Redford, Germantown, Pa., Cricket Club.

Trainer Suspended 90 Days on Doping Charge

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., July 23 (AP)—Trainer C. D. Toothman was suspended for 90 days yesterday after Charles Town race track stewards reported the horse Floater, in Toothman's charge, was found to have been stimulated.

Floater won the seventh race here July 18. As a result of the ruling, the winning end of the purse went to the horse which finished second, officials announced.

Toothman is a Southern Marylander. A 90-day suspension is the limit allowed under West Virginia rules.

Williams Only Bruised When Hit by Pitch

BOSTON, July 23 (AP)—Slugging Ted Williams suffered only a bad bruise on his right wrist when struck by a pitch thrown by Ed Lopat in the ninth inning of yesterday's Boston-Chicago game, won by the Red Sox, 3-2, in 10 innings.

Dr. Paul Butler said that X-rays taken after the game were negative, but that there was some question whether the right-handed throwing Boston left-fielder would be able to play against the White Sox tonight.

Bewitch Rules As Favorite in Lassie Stakes

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Bewitch, the Calumet Farm's record breaking, undefeated winner of five consecutive races in sensational fashion, heads a brilliant field of 13 juvenile fillies in the $60,800 Lassie stakes at Arlington Park today, with the prospect of picking up a pay check of $49,550.

Bewitch, holder of the Arlington track record for five and one-half furlongs, will have two stablemates running with her—Whirl Some and Airy.

The Calumet Farm's trio probably will go to the post even money favorites. If all 13 youngsters start in the six furlong sprint and Bewitch triumphs, her season's earnings will bulk $99,650. Dixiana stable's Four Winds won the 1946 Lassie and earned the record high of $51,000.

Color has been added to the race by the presence of C. V. Whitney's two fillies, Ghost Run and Dusty Legs. The former triumphed in the six furlong Damoiselle stakes early this month at the Empire City meeting in Jamaica and will be ridden today by the noted Chilean Jockey Ruperto Donoso. Job Dean Jessop, the nation's leading rider in 1946, will ride Dusty Legs.

Bewitch is not the only Lassie entrant which has shattered records. Charlton Clay's home bred Lea Lark, also a daughter of Bull Lea, clipped one-fifth of a second off a five furlong mark last month, speeding the distance in :58 1-5.

Another distinguished miss in the race is Emil Schwarzhaupt's Shy Katie, the costly daughter of Roman, which ran second to the Calumet Farm's Whirling Girl in a five furlong dash last month and then was beaten only by a neck by Lea Lark when the latter established her track record for five furlongs.

Another speedster with plenty of zip is Norman W. Church's Boswell Lady, whose dame Toro Nancy won the 1934 Arlington Futurity.

Two Minor Leaguers Hurl No-Hit Games

NEW YORK, July 23 (UP)—Two minor league pitchers, Ray Minor of Elmira, N.Y., in the Eastern League, and Bob Gailey of Waycross, Ga., in the Georgia-Florida League, pitched no-hit, no-run games last night.

Minor, 26-year-old righthander from Boerne, Tex., walked four and struck out four in a seven-inning 1-to-0 victory over Williamsport, Pa. Elmira is a St. Louis Brown farm team.

Donnell Still Prolongs Harper Nomination Inquiry

firm personal friend of the President. The nomination was made directly by the President. All right, say the observers, if President Truman is going to permit Senate Democrats to obstruct the Kem resolution, Senate Republicans are going to retaliate by stopping Harper's confirmation.

It already is conceded that Harper can't be confirmed at this session; possibly in this Congress. Therefore, whatever Donnell, as chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee handling the nomination, can dig up, will be more useful to Republican campaign orators than to anyone else.

Donnell's apparent purpose yesterday was to try to connect Harper with lotteries conducted in several counties in Southeast Missouri during the 1946 elections. It is alleged that these lotteries, designed to get out the vote, were in violation of state and possibly federal statutes.

Eastland Startles Donnell.

After two hours of listening to Donnell explore the ramifications of the lotteries, Senator Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, who had been lounging with his feet on the hearing table and a cigar fuming in his mouth, exploded a grenade under Donnell's case with the observation that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had declared Harper had nothing to do with the lotteries.

"Now, Mr. Chairman," drawled Eastland, a member of the subcommittee, "I think the record should show the FBI report shows Harper was in no wise connected with the lotteries."

Donnell, who had handed over to Eastland at the beginning of the session FBI reports on Harper and the lotteries, was taken aback. He said he personally had no objection to putting the FBI reports into the hearing record, but he understood such documents usually were confidential.

"I think in justice to Harper," said Eastland, turning to a group of reporters, "that we should admit them to show that he is exonerated."

Donnell said that would be decided later.

Harper himself said he took no part in the lottery scheme, which he described as "a lazy man's way of trying to get people to vote." He added that he had never seen it work.

From time to time during the hearing Donnell seemed annoyed by the proximity of Eastland's feet, which the Mississippi Senator rested casually on the green felt table top. Donnell was at the head of the table. Senator Moore (Rep.), Oklahoma, was on the side directly at Donnell's right. Next came Harper and next came Eastland's feet. Then came Eastland.

Donnell scarcely could look at Harper without having his eyes move slightly to the next place, where they encountered the soles of Eastland's oxfords. Eastland, smoking and grinning sleepily, watched Donnell over the toes of his shoes. He lay back in his chair as if he would like to take his shoes off and be really comfortable, but he did not.

Aim of Questions.

Donnell followed a pattern of improvising rather than following a fixed score. His detailed and often picayune questions seemed many times to be designed less to elicit information than to keep things moving until he had thought of another line of inquiry.

After some discussion of the lotteries, Eastland wanted to know if the Republicans didn't offer any inducement to get voters to the polls.

Yes, said Harper, they bought drinks and at the last election, so he had been informed, they passed out $1 and $5 bills, particularly in Butler county. He pointed out this was the home county of Grover W. Dalton, chairman of the Republican State Committee. He added later he did not know this of his own knowledge but was told by his law partner, James M. Reeves, chairman of the Pemiscot County Democratic Committee, that a Poplar Bluff lawyer had affidavits to this effect.

Harper told the Post-Dispatch he referred to Former Circuit Judge Robert I. Cope as having the affidavits.

Harper said it had been customary to offer attendance prizes at various civic and political events in Southeast Missouri, and that he understood Republicans offered a ham at a rally for Senator Kem.

"How much whisky was passed out around election time?" Eastland asked.

"My opinion is that both parties passed it out by the barrel," Harper replied. "That is the custom and I don't think last year was any exception."

"I think we should pursue the subject of this corrupt Republican money," Eastland said, swinging his feet to the floor.

"Well, we'll come back to that," Donnell replied hurriedly. "Right now we're on lotteries."

Eastland observed that if Harper should be confirmed, he would be in a position to charge grand juries, and asked him if in that event he would instruct a grand jury "to investigate the corrupt use of money by the Republicans."

Harper said he doubted if he would undertake such an investigation because the events happened some time ago, before he would be a federal judge, if he becomes one. He said he thought it should be investigated, however.

Senator Kem told the Post-Dispatch he though the Donnell subcommittee and the FBI should determine whether Southeast Missouri Republicans actually offered money as an inducement to vote, as Harper said he had been told.

Kem went on to say he would even favor an investigation of the ham that Harper said had been given as an attendance prize at a pre-election rally for Kem. He had no knowledge, Kem said, of anything of that sort and certainly would not have approved it.

Replying to a question by Donnell, Harper said he did not look up the state statutes covering such election matters until his curiosity was aroused by a visit last June from Robert Dunlap, a Post-Dispatch reporter. Donnell later read some excerpts from Dunlap's report of his interview.

Harper was visited by FBI agents about a month ago and again about a week ago in connection with his nomination. At the earlier visit the agents questioned him for two hours and then prepared a statement which he signed. He offered this statement for the record and Donnell said he would accept it.

'Common Knowledge' of Money for Voters, Says Ex-Judge.

Former Circuit Judge Robert I. Cope of Poplar Bluff, referred to by Harper as the possessor of information on alleged Republican vote-buying, told the Post-Dispatch today he had no evidence and no knowledge of the alleged practice beyond common rumor.

Cope said it was "common knowledge" in Poplar Bluff that Republicans passed out from $2 to $10 to voters before the general election.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "Negro women who work as maids in homes here always lay off on election day because they say they can earn $2 just by voting while they could get only $1 or $1.50 by working."

Cope, a Democrat, served as Circuit Judge of Butler county from 1930 to 1942. He now holds no office in the Democratic party, he said.

GROUP IN HOUSE TO MAKE 15-CITY BUILDING INQUIRY

Hearing Here Dec. 2 and 3 on 'Monopoly, Racketeering, Restrictive Practices.'

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—A House labor subcommittee will go into 15 cities across the nation, including St. Louis, this fall to ferret out "monopoly, racketeering and restrictive practices" in the building industry.

Chairman Ralph Gwinn (Rep.), New York, said yesterday the three-man group was taking its investigation to the citizens beginning Aug. 4 and 5 in Washington and ending Dec. 8 and 9 in Birmingham, Ala.

Gwinn, whose subcommittee colleagues are Owens (Rep.), Illinois, and Lucas (Dem.), Texas, said they want to learn about restrictive practices in building, local laws or regulations that curb building activity, material limitations, supply demand and price trends in labor, financing and materials.

Day's Work Exchange.

More than half of the working people, Gwinn said, have to work three and a half days to get in exchange a day's work from those who build homes.

"Private industry," he said, "has been crippled by the fantastic levels to which the labor monopolies have pushed wages and restricted the use of materials, by slowdowns and other restrictive practices dictated by the union bosses."

Federal housing is not the answer, Gwinn said, because this would "sovietize" part of the economy.

Hearings in the various cities, Gwinn said in a statement, will be held in the federal buildings. The intention is to "afford the widest possible opportunity for citizens to present the facts and their views without the necessity of coming to Washington."

Advises Get-Togethers.

The shortage of housing, the chairman contended, is caused by "a breakdown of freedom where one man can no longer exchange one day's work for another man's day's work on a free basis."

He advised labor and industry representatives in each city to get together in preparing information for the public hearings. He suggested they name a "counsel" to aid the subcommittee.

Hearing dates include: Philadelphia, Aug. 7 and 8; New York, Aug. 11 and 12; Cleveland, Oct. 27 and 28; Detroit, Oct. 30 and 31; Chicago, Nov. 3 and 4; Minneapolis, Nov. 6 and 7; Spokane, Nov. 10 and 11; Seattle, Nov. 13 and 14; San Francisco, Nov. 17 and 18; Los Angeles, Nov. 20 and 21; Denver, Nov. 24 and 25; St. Louis, Dec. 2 and 3; Indianapolis, Dec. 4 and 5.

AFL Council to Discuss House Building Inquiry Here.

The visit to St. Louis of the House Labor subcommittee Dec. 2 and 3 will be discussed at the next meeting of the AFL Building & Construction Trades Council at 10:30 a.m., Tuesday, Arthur A. Hunn, secretary of the council, said today.

"We will have to wait until the subcommittee gets here to find out just what questions they want answered," he said, "but we will do our best to answer them.

"The anticipated construction boom certainly has failed to materialize. Although there is plenty of work being done, the amount is not nearly as much as was expected. Much work is being held up, particularly the construction of homes. The buyers' market just isn't there. This, undoubtedly, is because prices are too high."

The East St. Louis Real Estate Exchange will discuss the coming visit of the subcommittee at a meeting tomorrow afternoon, Stephan D. Sexton, president of the organization, said. He added that he knew of no practices which might be in restraint of trade.

Last December the Circuit Court grand jury here, following an investigation of reported labor racketeering in connection with a construction job at St. Louis University, reported it found no evidence of gangsters "muscling in" or of any "legal violations of a criminal character" in the construction industry.

The grand jury investigation followed disclosure by the Post-Dispatch that two Egan gangsters, Steve Ryan and David M. (Chippy) Robinson, were associated in the American Construction Co., which was hired by the university to do the construction work.

Robert S. Hintz, president and treasurer of the construction company, told the Post-Dispatch that university officers refused to sign a cost-plus contract, but that the company operated on that basis without a contract and took $40,000 to $50,000 in profits.

The firm was fired from the job after costs exceeded the original $250,000 estimate by about $100,000. The construction job was a new classroom building.

During the investigation of the firm's handling of the construction work, it was learned that men were found playing dice while they were supposed to be working. It also was reported that some men were found sleeping when supposedly at work. One general superintendent reported he had been fired from his job after he refused to agree to a plan for padding the carpenters' payroll.

ILLINOIS COAL OUTPUT DROPS

Coal production of Illinois shipping mines in June was 3,941,967 tons as compared with 5,102,505 the previous month. The June 1946 production was 4,790,728 tons. Average days worked last month was 20. Miners working totaled 22,414.

Eighty-eight mines, 19 of them strip mines, were represented in the monthly report issued by the Department of Mines and Minerals.

UNIFIED HOUSING AGENCY APPROVED IN SENATE VOTE

Present Head of Building Activities Expected to Direct New Federal Organization.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—President Truman, finally successful in creating a permanent, unified housing agency, is expected to designate Raymond M. Foley as its temporary head. Foley already is top man over federal housing activities.

Hence administration officials say that except to add a new set of initials to the federal alphabet—HHFA, for Housing and Home Finance Agency—the reorganization plan will change few faces or functions in the government.

The Senate's 47-to-38 vote last night, which let it become law, assures that the wartime merger of housing offices will not end six months after the war is declared officially ended. Had the plan been rejected by the Senate as well as the House, the various offices would have reverted to 13 separate agencies in seven departments.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy committee, took the unaccustomed role of an administration supporter when the test came. He told his colleagues the threatened hodge-podge would be "the poorest sort of organization we could possibly have."

The reorganization plan becomes effective Saturday. Because that is the day Congress plans to quit for the year, Truman has indicated he will make interim appointments of existing officials to run the agency until the Senate reconvenes next January to confirm permanent appointees.

Foley now is administrator of the National Housing Agency—which will be replaced by HHFA—and in that role is his own boss as commissioner of the Federal Housing Agency. He also has authority over the Federal Public Housing Authority, headed by Dillon S. Myers; and the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, headed by John H. Fahey.

BRITISH VESSEL IS SUNK BY BLAST IN HAIFA HARBOR

JERUSALEM, July 23 (AP)—Official sources reported today that the British ship Empire Lifeguard had been sunk in Haifa harbor, presumably by saboteurs, shortly after disembarking 261 legal Jewish immigrants transported to the Holy Land from detention camps on Cyprus.

Official sources said that 40 or 50 immigrants still were aboard the vessel when the explosion occurred, but none was injured.

The Empire Lifeguard is a Liberty ship, which had been repeatedly used to deport illegal Jewish immigrants from Palestine to Cyprus. The Jews disembarked from it today were part of the regular monthly quota given entry certificates after being detained at Cyprus.

PETRILLO TO END BAR ON MUSIC AMATEURS

Agrees to Permit Broadcasts —Allows Military Bands to Make Records.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—Representative Carroll D. Kearns (Rep.), Pennsylvania, announced today that James C. Petrillo had settled his long-standing dispute with amateur and military musicians over radio broadcasts and recordings.

Kearns, chairman of a House Labor subcommittee that has investigated Petrillo, said the disputes were settled at a conference here yesterday. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, met with educators and military officials.

The educators appointed a committee to draw up a "code of ethics" to be applied on a nation-wide basis. This code will be submitted to Kearns and Petrillo for their approval.

Petrillo agreed to permit military bands to make recordings for the exclusive use of schools, colleges and universities.

The educators who will draw up the code include Luther A. Richman of Richmond, Va., president of the Music Educators Association; John C. Kendel of Denver, vice president of the organization, and Clifford V. Buttelman, its executive director.

"It will be definitely established that all district, state and national music festivals will be permitted to broadcast over local, state and national hookups," Kearns said.

TRUMAN SIGNS BILL GIVING AMVETS NATIONAL CHARTER

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—President Truman today signed legislation providing a national charter for the American Veterans of World War II.

Ray Sawyer, Amvet national commander, said the action makes Amvet the first World War II veterans organization to be recognized officially by Congress.

He added that the legislation gives Amvets "legal status equal to that of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans and the United Spanish War Veterans, the only other veterans' groups holding congressional charters."

EVIDENCE ON RED SPIES TO BE GIVEN ARMY AND NAVY

become a citizen, still requires approval of the full committee. Its passage by the House and Senate is improbable before the next congressional session, beginning in January.

Kravchenko told the judiciary group he fears for his life if he is not given the protection accorded American citizens.

Against Outlawing Party.

Asked by Representative Nixon (Rep.), California, how he would curb the Communist party or Communist influence in the United States, Kravchenko said the entire system of American propaganda must be changed.

As for outlawing the party, he said America's greatest strength is in its freedom.

"Let the Communists talk all they want," he recommended, "so long as they are not in action."

Three officers of the CIO Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers' Union refused to testify whether they are or are not members of the Communist party.

They are: Edwin K. McCrea, international representative of the union, Robert C. Black and W. Clark Sheppard, co-chairmen of the local.

All had been identified as members of the Communist party by Miss Mathews. The three told the committee they were refusing to answer questions whether they are or ever were Communist party members on the ground that their answers "may incriminate" them.

Union Ex-Officer Testifies.

Testifying on Communist infiltration at Winston-Salem, Miss Mathews said she was a member of the Communist party for 10 years, resigning last year; and that she had served as secretary of the Winston-Salem local union between June 1945 and January 1947.

She told the committee that there is a Communist group active at the University of North Caroline at Chapel Hill, headed by Junius Scales, a student. She said she had attended Communist party meetings at which Scales was present.

Among union officers she testified were members of the Communist party at the time of her employment was McCrea. Before the hearing McCrea issued a statement asserting the committee is trying "to break the union."

He asserted the House committee is trying to do something the richest and most powerful member of the tobacco trust could not do. . . ." McCrea said that "all company attempts failed to break the spirit" of the strikers who walked out of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. in Winston-Salem last May.

Clark Foreman, president of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, issued a statement saying that the Winston-Salem strike "was purely economic and was not Communist inspired."

Regarding citizenship for Kravchenko, the judiciary subcommittee acted after Representatives Coudert (Rep.), New York and Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, testified Kravchenko has rendered "enormous" service to this country.

"How do you know that he isn't a spy himself?" inquired Representative Celler (Dem.), New York.

Mundt said Kravchenko has been under "the most careful surveillance by police and the FBI, and has been issued a police permit to carry a gun for protection.

"By the Lord Harry," Coudert said, "he had the guts—as did our ancestors in 1776—to break away, and break clean."

News photographers had been barred from yesterday's hearing when Kravchenko was testifying, committee members explaining that Kravchenko might be in "considerable danger" because of his willingness to testify. Later photographers were admitted and pictures permitted. Following the hearing he posed with Thomas.

SLASH IS PROMISED IN NEW TAX VALUATIONS AT CLAYTON

Increases in the assessed valuation of business property in Clayton which were ordered last week will be "substantially reduced," Arthur W. Schmid, chairman of the St. Louis County Board of Equalization, told property owners yesterday. After a number of the owners told board members they thought increases were excessive, although agreeing that some rise was justified, Schmid said the board had enough evidence to warrant reductions from the proposed assessments.

THE ALSOPS

Truman, Marshall and Leaders Of Congress Have Sound Strategy Outlined on European Aid Plan

No Special Session Unless Grave Emergency Develops, but During Congressional Recess Preparations Will Be Made for Prompt Action in January.

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

(Copyright, 1947.)

WASHINGTON, July 23.

AN unnecessary mystery has been made of the Administration's timetable for action on the Marshall aid plan for Europe. At home, rumors abound. Abroad, the British and French leaders of Europe's effort to organize for reconstruction have been bitterly disheartened by President Truman's intimation that the Marshall plan would not necessitate a special session of Congress. As Ernest Bevin sadly remarked, "Europe is bleeding to death," and if the tourniquet is not applied in a reasonable time, the patient will expire.

There is no earthly reason for the Administration's air of aimlessness and uncertainty about the special session. President Truman, Secretary of State Marshall and the Congressional leaders have in fact already mapped out a perfectly sound tentative strategy of action.

In brief, there will be no special session unless Europe begins to come apart at the seams, and the quickest American aid is therefore imperative. However, during the recess, all preparations will be made for the promptest possible Congressional action on the Marshall plan, immediately following the opening of the regular session on Jan. 1.

State Department Study.

The State Department's planning section is now completing its studies of the political aspects of the problem. The President's committee of 19, under the chairmanship of Secretary of Commerce Harriman, is now tackling the economic aspects. Secretary Harriman expects to be ready by Oct. 1 with the American balance sheet, showing this country's ability to pay the bill for a broad scheme of world reconstruction.

By then, it is hoped, the participating European nations under British and French leadership also will have had finished their blueprint for a co-operative effort to restore European productivity and prosperity.

Thus by Oct. 1 all the data needed for action at long last will be available. At that time or shortly thereafter, there is good reason to expect that Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Representative Eaton, of New Jersey, will call into session the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House.

In view of the enormous importance of the Marshall plan to this country and the world, it is neither feasible nor desirable for the Congress to pass on it without the most careful study. If the presently mapped tentative strategy is followed, this study will be completed by the two committees at hearings held in October and November.

Long Debate Likely.

If this is done, in turn, the committees will then be ready to report out an amended, completed bill as soon as Congress meets, and the debate can begin instantly.

Since the debate is likely to be extremely prolonged, there is some thought of taking the edge off the Congressional itch for self-expression at a short special session in December. In any case, the hope is that this device of holding committee hearings in the absence of Congress will make it possible to bring the Marshall plan to final vote before Feb. 1. Thus the tourniquet should be available to staunch the terrible wounds of Europe before the grim winter has brought disaster.

The final decision as to whether to adopt this novel expedient has not yet been taken. Its obvious good sense seems likely, however, to commend it to all concerned. For President Truman, it exorcises the nightmare which has been visibly haunting him. He will not have to cope with a special session of a hostile Congress with only one piece of business before it—a situation bound to prove the truth of the old rule that "satan finds work for idle hands to do."

For the members of Congress, it removes the need to curtail their vacations and to interrupt the vital labor of mending fences back home. And for the country and for Europe, it assures action to avert the dangers now menacing us at a date very nearly as early as could be achieved by a special session.

Congress Action Uncertain.

What the verdict of Congress will be, no one of course can now predict with certainty. Three points, however, deserve to be noted.

First, Secretary Marshall's triumphant success in bringing order out of the State Department's antique disarray has already begun to make the inevitable favorable impression on Congress.

Second, Secretary Marshall has personally restored, to the satisfaction of all concerned, the machinery of bi-partisan foreign policy to its former good working order. Not satisfied with this, he also is reported to be devising a new and quite revolutionary program of State Department Congressional liaison, which will keep Congress continuously in touch with the world picture. And, in addition, plans are being made for high officials to educate the country during the summer.

Third, and most important, while it may be difficult now to imagine the present Congress approving a bill embodying anything like the Marshall plan, a good rule in judging trends in the United States is that the country always saves itself in the end.

And in this case the national safety, and perhaps the national survival, are as clearly at stake as in any of the great crises of our history.

Survey Begun On Resources For Foreign Aid

19-Man Committee Named by Truman Expected to Report in 2 Months.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP). A 19-MAN civilian committee today began a survey of how far the United States can go in helping the rest of the world get back on its economic feet.

Named by President Truman to check up on the American resources available for export—food, machines, goods and raw materials—one of the group's first scheduled steps was a meeting with Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman, planned a two-day session to launch its studies for a report to the White House.

That report, expected in about two months, will provide the framework for Truman's recommendations to Congress on what this country should provide under Marshall's general proposal to help those countries which help themselves.

It is also expected to set a ceiling on how far the United States can go toward meeting the statements of need now being drafted by 16 western European nations under the Marshall plan, plus requests from other countries.

The House of Representatives created a 19-member special committee yesterday to make a global survey of United States foreign policy as a preliminary to determining how American dollars can best be spent to speed world stability.

A few minutes later, the House passed another resolution empowering Foreign Affairs Committee to make an independent study of its own on the world situation.

Today the House accepted by voice vote an invitation to send four representatives and four senators to a British Empire Parliamentary Association conference opening at Nassau in the Bahamas Dec. 28. The House also voted $10,000 to pay expenses of the lawmakers on the trip.

Meanwhile, members of the House Armed Services Committee made preparations for a trip to Europe to inspect army occupation and military installations.

Representative Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, arose to protest about members of Congress "running about all over the globe to find out what other people are thinking about us."

Rankin said the practice "has just about been worn threadbare." He suggested that "the best thing Congress could do is to go back home and see what the American people are thinking about."

25-YEAR TERMS FOR LEADERS OF BIG RUSSIAN THEFT RING

MOSCOW, July 23 (AP) — The newspaper Evening Moscow said last night that a Soviet court had sentenced to 25 years in prison the leaders of a 23-man gang which stole 5,000,000 rubles (nearly $950,000) worth of state-owned property over a one-year period.

The newspaper said, in reporting what evidently was one of the biggest trials in Moscow this year, that entire shiploads of merchandise were stolen through the use of fictitious documents.

Evening Moscow said a single operation netted the thieves 22,000 yards of cotton cloth and 2200 yards of wool cloth. The gang had two top leaders, one of them the former commodities manager of the river port of Kalinin, Evening Moscow said.

Windsor Writing—Needs Cash.

LONDON, July 23 (UP) — A gossip columnist said yesterday in the Star that the Duke of Windsor was pinched for cash and had started writing full time on his memoirs. When the memoirs are done, the columnist said, the Duke intends to write a movie script about the life and times of his grandmother, Queen Victoria.

Conferees on Arms Unity Bill Agree on All But Two Points

Direction of Central Intelligence Agency and Roles and Missions of Various Forces Still in Dispute.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).

TEN hours of conferences by a Senate-House committee failed to produce agreement yesterday on legislation to unify the Army, Navy and Air Forces, but Senator Gurney (Rep.), South Dakota, said "only two points are in dispute."

The conferees ended a three-hour night session after two meetings earlier in the day and agreed to resume bargaining this afternoon in an attempt to adjust Senate-House differences.

Gurney, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, said the remaining points in dispute are:

1. A House provision requiring that a civilian direct the permanent central intelligence agency created by the bill. The Senate voted to allow either a civilian or a former commissioned officer to head this super-secret agency.

2. House provisions spelling out in detail the "roles and missions" of the Army, Air Forces, and Navy, including the Marine Corps.

The Senate used broad terms to keep this flexible, with an agreement that a presidential order would spell out practical details.

House Members' Fears.

House members who express fear that the Army might reduce the Marine Corps to a "parade outfit" or that the proposed new Air Forces department might encroach upon the air arm of the Navy and Marines, have insisted that these provisions be written into the permanent law.

Gurney said he was hopeful that an agreement could be reached today but Hoffman (Rep.), Michigan, head of the House conferees, said this was uncertain.

Before quitting for the night, the conferees agreed that the proposed new Cabinet member, who would supervise all the armed forces, should be known as "Secretary of Defense." The Senate bill had called him "Secretary of National Security."

Other Agreements.

They also agreed that the overall agency should be known as the "National Military Establishment," as voted by the House, instead of the "National Security Organization" as recommended by the Senate.

They also decided that the secretary should have control of the budget for the armed services instead of merely supervising and co-ordinating these expenditures, as provided by the House.

They eliminated a $14,000-a-year civilian executive secretary for the National Security Council. This retained a Senate provision making the Secretary of Defense the secretary of this council, which would include the President, the Secretaries of State, Defense, Army, Navy and Air Forces and the chairman of a National Resources Board established by the bill.

Legion Urges U.N. Changes To Curb Veto

By BRACK CURRY

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP).

CALLING the Security Council a "perpetually hung jury," the American Legion today proposed an overhaul of the United Nations charter to bobtail the Big Five veto and set up a "tyranny-proof" world police force.

Climaxing a year of study, the Legion's recommendations were forwarded in a letter to each member of Congress with this acknowledgement:

"It may not be possible or expedient to attempt to bring about changes now, but we believe they suggest a goal which must be attained in order that the United Nations becomes fully effective."

The veterans' organization contended that its recommendations would "lay a solid foundation for the elimination of the atomic threat." It said further they "are indispensable to bring about an adequate substitute for the grim rules of power politics."

Charter Changes Proposed.

Specifically, the Legion proposed three charter amendments designed to:

1. Give "more effective representation of the nations" on the Security Council and abolish the veto in cases of aggression "or preparation for aggression."

2. Give the Security Council "adequate powers" to prevent aggressive war by creating ironclad international controls over atomic weapons and all other means of mass destruction.

3. Create "a powerful yet tyranny-proof" world police force.

These proposals followed closely an outcropping of congressional resolutions calling for a United Nations charter revision conference. While sponsors of these resolutions said they might lead to Russian withdrawal from the United Nations, the Legion envisioned a world organization in which Russia, Britain and this country would wield more voting strength than at present.

The Legion suggested revamp-

Halsey Tells of Leyte Gulf Battle; Jap Fleet Crushed, but Divided Command Imperiled U.S. Forces

Third Fleet Chief Says His Suggestion for Change in Plan to Recapture Philippines Advanced War Two Months—Disturbing Messages During Fight.

FLEET ADM. WILLIAM F. HALSEY relates, in today's installment of his story in the Saturday Evening Post, that:

"I sent for Mick Carney and Harold Stassen and told them: 'I'm going to stick my neck out.'"

He did this, on Sept. 13, 1944, by sending a dispatch to Adm. Chester Nimitz, recommending that seizure of Yap and the Palaus be abandoned; that the ground forces thus released be placed at Gen. MacArthur's disposal; and that invasion of Leyte be undertaken at the earliest possible date.

"CINCPAC (Nimitz) replied promptly," Adm. Halsey says. "The first phase of the Western Carolines operations was to be carried out as planned, but he would give fresh study to Yap, and was informing COMINCH and CINCSOWESPAC of my suggestions.

"Providentially, at this very moment Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill were in session with the Joint Chiefs of Staff at Quebec. Ernie King presented my dispatch, and after a quick exchange of messages to get MacArthur's opinion, they approved the new plan, and instructed him to cancel the invasion of Mindanao and to invade Leyte instead, on Oct. 20.

"If he had used Mindanao as a steppingstone, he would not have reached Leyte until Dec. 20. The new plan advanced the war two months or more."

Two Fleets in Philippines.

Explaining details of fleet organization for the sea battle that loomed in the last week of October, Halsey writes:

"The key point is that we had two fleets in Philippine waters under separate commands; my Third Fleet was under command of Adm. Nimitz; Tom Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet was under command of Gen. MacArthur.

"If we had been under the same command, with a single system of operational control and intelligence, the battle for Leyte Gulf would have been fought differently to a different result.

"The two fleets also differed in functions and weapons. The Seventh Fleet was defensive, having convoyed MacArthur's transports to Leyte, it stood by to protect them with its cruisers, destroyers, old battleships and little escort carriers. The Third Fleet was offensive; it prowled the ocean, striking at will with its new battleships and fast carriers. These powerful units were concentrated in Pete Mitscher's Task Force 38, which was made up of four task groups, commanded by V. Adm. John S. McCain and R. Adm. Gerald F. Bogan, Ted Sherman and Ralph E. Davison."

After detailed description of fleet positions, Adm. Halsey says:

Difficult Decision.

"Our intention was to join battle as quickly as possible. Three battles offered." These were with the Japanese southern, central and northern forces. After reciting the situation as to each, he says:

"My decision to strike the northern force was a hard one to make, but given the same circumstances and the same information as I had then, I would make it again. I went into flag plot, put my finger on the northern force's charted position, 300 miles away, and said, 'Here's where we're going, Mick, start them north.'"

Dispatches received during the battle, some of them indicating serious misunderstandings, and one of them complaining that the old battleships were "low in ammunition," are recited. Then—

"The next two dispatches arrived almost simultaneously. The first was from Kinkaid: WHERE IS LEE X SEND LEE. I was impressed less by its desperation than by the fact that it had been put on the air 'clear,' not in code. I was certain that the enemy had intercepted it, and I was speculating on its effect, when the second dispatch drove all other

DRY ICE SPRINKLED ON CLOUD CREDITED WITH BRINGING RAIN

Heavy Downpour Reported as Result of Experiment in Arizona.

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 23 (AP)—Dry ice dropped from an airliner on a cloud over Roosevelt dam precipitated a heavy rain, the Arizona Republic said in a copyright story yesterday.

The story said "thousands of tons of water" were estimated to have been precipitated onto the mountains behind Lake Roosevelt.

"It was the first attempt to utilize in the arid desert a technique for precipitating moisture out of clouds developed only last winter by Vincent J. Shaefer, outstanding scientist of the General Electric Co., the Republic said. "Shaefer's experiments concerned snow. Monday for the first time the process was used to make rain on a large scale in the Southwest."

In the plane, chartered for the purpose by the Republic, were Amos Hoff, instructor in physics and meteorology at Phoenix Junior College, and Dr. Robert J. Hannelly, dean of the college.

Harvey L. Mott, managing editor of the Republic, wrote that 500 pounds of ice in pellet form was dropped in batches of 100 pounds each. The first batch was dropped on a cloud about 20 miles long and from this cloud rain fell for longer than 25 minutes. The entire cloud was precipitated, Mott wrote.

He quoted Dr. Hannelly as saying that the experiment needs "more trials and more strategically placed observers in other planes and on the ground."

The story concluded that the results of the experiment "suggest that there is available to Arizona, its water users and its power companies, a method of insuring that all available moisture is channeled into the reservoirs where it will be of most complete benefit."

ARMY SEEKS BOMB FOR ITS JET PLANES FROM GERMAN TEST

Penetration Missiles' High Speed Expected to Suggest New Design.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The Army Air Forces is seeking a bomb for its high speed jet bombers. Disclosing today that top priority is being given the project, A.A.F. research experts added that it is involved directly in the tests of deep penetration missiles soon to begin in Germany.

Because those bombs — to be dropped from extremely high-flying B-29s — probably will attain supersonic speeds before reaching the earth, the A.A.F. scientists expect to find important design clues for the new type of weapon which they are hunting.

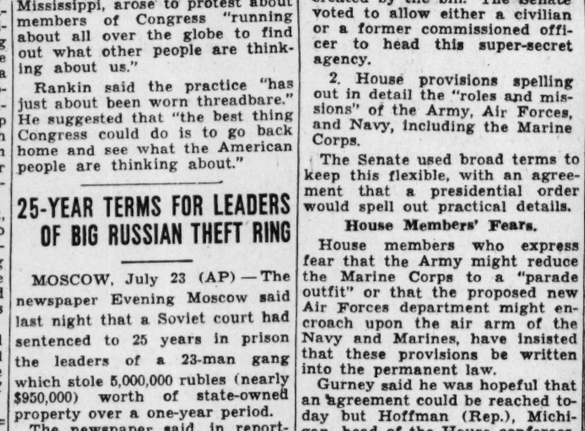

Privately, they say the problem is this: A standard design bomb casing is, aerodynamically, entirely unsatisfactory for use from jet aircraft. Experiments indicate that if dropped from airplanes traveling at 500 miles an hour or more the violence of the air blast as the bomb cleared the plane would tear off the bomb's own stabilizing fins and send it tumbling on an erratic course.

The armament of jet bombers is posing another design difficulty. To keep the lines of the jet fighters clear of obstacles that would cause drag or turbulence the guns have been buried in the wings and nose of the jet fighters.

Modern bombers depend for their protection on several turret-mounted guns operated by central fire control. Hence how to provide this massed protective gunfire and still retain the sleek, streamline shape of jet aircraft for future bombers is a headache.

You Can't Win

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

We hear and read much these days about the "gouging landlords" and the "careless tenants." Let me say, "I agree with all of them."

In the past few years I have been renter, home-owner and landlord. Here are my experiences:

When I rented I had to decorate the apartment myself. The heat was furnished, but it was never there when we wanted it. I felt the rent was too high for the conveniences, but endured these inconveniences until I could build my own home.

There was labor trouble on the contracted job and the home was under construction for 11½ months. At times I didn't think it would ever be completed.

At long last, when it was completed, it wasn't up to specifications, but as it passed FHA inspection I had to accept it.

Now, with increased taxes, increased expense of upkeep and insurance, it doesn't seem as if it is really such a good bargain financially at that.

To convenience a GI's family, I purchased a home, remodeled it and rented it to them as cheaply as possible. There were numerous uncalled-for repairs. A screen door had to be replaced because the children used it for a ladder. A light switch was burned out and a new lock had to be put on the door. These jobs took time, energy and money.

The insurance, taxes and upkeep were high and, due to other incomes, I had to pay a large per cent of the actual rent in additional income tax. It wasn't a very good financial investment.

So you see, there are two sides to every story and then there's the truth.

Remember the Flood

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I think it would be a good idea if everyone writing to Senators and Representatives would print MVA on the envelope. Let them know and keep in mind the last flood no matter what the subject matter of the letter is. This could bring results.

CHARLES H. JUERGENS.

Dream Home at J. B.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This letter has to deal with the increase in rent for us veterans who live at Jefferson Barracks.

I wonder how many of these boys have waded through mud, blood and rain so they could come home to a "home."

What have we got? Some have one-, two-, three-, or maybe a four-bedroom place. But we are really paying dearly for a place to call our own. Oh, yes, it beats living with in-laws, friends and who-have-you, but do they have to take advantage of a war veteran with children?

Remember we were the ones who fought to save the country. Now how about a little thanks, instead of a stab in the back?

Each place has a shower, living room, kitchenette or kitchen, and then your number of bedrooms depends on how many children you have, and each additional bedroom costs from $2.50 to $5. So in other words some veterans are paying $51 a month for a place to live.

Do you, the people of St. Louis, think that this is giving the veterans what they dreamed of while bullets were flying all around them?

MRS. W. D. MURMAN.

Criticism of the P.S.C.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Come on, folks, do your best to knock out the 25-cent boost in the price of passes proposed by Public Service Co.

If it faces a deficit as claimed, why did it waste thousands of dollars for ads in the three daily papers during the bus and streetcar strike, trying to feed the public baloney?

Is it any wonder it faces a deficit, when it is buying hundreds of new busses to replace streetcar lines that are still serviceable? F. J. WASEK.

Mother of Two Is Stumped

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am a widow with two small children, the youngest not yet two years old. I just received the monthly check for dependent children, which has been cut to $23. If anyone who has more brains than I have can enlighten me as to how I can pay the necessary bills I have and feed and clothe my children on that, I will be more than thankful.

I would gladly work if possible. But how? No nursery will accept a child under two years of age, and I cannot find anyone to stay with them without paying $3 a day. My neighbors have been very helpful when I can get a day's work, but they have their own jobs and their own troubles. And I am not a person to put my burdens on the other fellow. So please someone solve this for me. I am truly stumped.

MOTHER OF TWO.

Behind Truman's Figures

The President's midyear economic report sounded good—more than 60,000,000 jobs, a national income of more than $225,000,000,000 a year, farm income at the highest level on record.

These things sound good and they are good. But several million housewives and their breadwinner husbands are wondering why, in view of this astounding prosperity, their standard of living is lower than it was in the modest days of the late '30s and even during the war.

If there are more people working than ever before and they are producing more wealth than ever before, why isn't the living standard at least as high as it was before we were smitten by this overwhelming wave of prosperity?

In the first place, the $225,000,000,000 of national income is based on inflated values. It is equal in purchasing power to about $141,000,000,000 in 1939.

That is figured at a 60 per cent increase in the cost of living, yet many articles, and especially many of the indispensables of food and clothing, are up much more than that.

But with more people working, why aren't the goods being produced to give everybody a higher standard of living? Part of the answer lies in the fact that we are shipping six billion dollars a year more of goods abroad than we are receiving from foreign countries. Yet the drain of goods abroad is a far lower tax on the national income than the billions of goods which went into planes, tanks, ships and shells during the war.

The real explanation seems to lie in the fact that although more people have jobs, many of the jobs are non-productive. And those in productive jobs are not producing, on the average, as much as they produced before.

The figure of 60,000,000 jobs is itself deceiving. There are, as the President says, 60,000,000 people employed today, but the number in productive jobs is less now by 1,400,000 than it was in the spring of 1940, if the increase in the population is considered.

In March, 1940, the Bureau of the Census reported the total labor force in the United States as 53,300,000. Let us see how that compares with 60,000,000 today.

J. C. Capt, Director of the Bureau of the Census, says that the continental United States now has 142,000,000 people, compared with 131,000,000 in 1940. The increase in population alone would demand a labor force increase of 4,500,000 above 1940.

In 1940 the federal payroll showed barely a million employes. Today it shows more than 2,000,000. That is another million persons less producing goods than were producing them in 1940.

The armed services now have 1,000,000 more personnel than they had in 1940. This is, if anything, too small a force for the times, but still—subtract another 1,000,000 from the productively employed total of the country.

Beneficiaries of the veterans' program, in college or in apprentice training, total 1,600,000. No one would deny them the right to make up, as nearly as possible, the time spent in the Army and Navy, but again they can be subtracted from the work force.

These adjustments, which have to be made if labor force statistics are to be real, total 8,100,000. Subtract them from 60,000,000 and it gives 51,900,000, or 1,400,000 fewer persons in nongovernmental employ than in 1940.

Worker efficiency is another of the keys to the whole puzzle. In the President's report was a demand for an end to "make-work operations, feather-bedding and soldiering on the job."

A President thoroughly sympathetic to labor did not insert those stinging phrases without some justification. The National Industrial Conference Board estimates that the efficiency of labor is down 30 per cent as compared with 1929-30.

In the building industry it has been allowed to fall to where it is a severe drawback to the construction of new homes.

Life magazine figured that wage costs in house construction are from 27 to 60 per cent higher than before the war, according to the community surveyed. A shingler now lays 18 bundles of shingles a day, against 24 before the war. Carpenters who once hung 10 doors a day now hang six. A chimney requires half as much time again to erect as before the war.

Speaking on wages and industrial productivity the President said:

> Labor, for its part, must root out a belief long held by some that the volume of work available is strictly limited, and that if they do it rapidly they will soon be out of a job because the work is finished. . . . Production and more production is our great need.

It is particularly our great need in view of the fact that our effective work force is lower now than it was in 1940.

Well, it just missed 10 days being a cold day in August.

Dr. Bredeck's Advice

Health is nothing to gamble with, but St. Louis is doing just that. Health Commissioner Bredeck wisely advises that the city will have to raise the pay of its nurses and doctors to meet minimum health standards. But other officials respond that all city employes are underpaid, too.

Maybe that is true. But a reduction in medical care enforced by a shortage of trained workers is not just like a shortage of other public employes. Nurses and physicians are harder to acquire, to keep and to replace when they leave city employment. And health once gambled with and lost is not easily repaired some time later, like a neglected street or sewer.

Medical employes are especially hard to find anywhere, but look what St. Louis offers them: $180 to $235 a month for nurses and $322 to $425 for doctors. As professional salaries nowadays, these are far from attractive.

The result, Dr. Bredeck says, is that the city needs 40 more nurses and nine more doctors at the least. The shortage is especially acute in the visiting nurse service, which has 48 nurses, is authorized to have 88 and would better have twice that many, according to the American Public Health Service. The venereal disease control program needs six nurses and a director, although a physician has not been found for the post with its modest pay.

The child hygiene service needs four physicians, the parochial school service needs five doctors and 11 nurses, and Dr. J. Earl Smith, head of the communicable disease section, says that because of the nurse shortage, "St. Louis' death rate from tuberculosis is higher than in eight other large cities."

That is how lack of proper medical care shatters lives. Even if City Hall has to stretch its budget deficit another yard or cut it somewhere else, it should increase pay in the Health Department.

The Disunited Nations

Does the trouble in Indonesia interest the United Nations? Here is a shooting engagement that not only is serious in itself, but one that may have repercussions all over Asia. It is a manifestation of colonial imperialism of the eighteenth century variety. Yet no word or no action comes from Lake Success, where the Security Council is sitting.

It was exactly to take action when such dangerous situations arose that the United Nations was created. The worth of the organization depends upon its ability to speak with the voice of authority, to mobilize world opinion and to stamp out threats to world peace.

Unfortunately, the United Nations has become the Disunited Nations. A few weeks ago, Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate to the Security Council, said that if the Security Council could not settle the Greek border dispute, the delegates might as well pack up and go home. In the interim, the Council has sparred around the Greek trouble, but nothing has happened.

The fact is that the Russians are using the Security Council to foment rather than to settle world problems. The people may as well face the truth, which is that the United Nations exists in name only, so long as the world is divided into two hostile camps. The proceedings at Lake Success do not even add up to a good debate; they add up rather to a constant wrangle.

The Security Council is not going to settle the Greek border problem because the two leading nations in the world have opposite aims in Greece. Nor is the Security Council going to take any decisive action with regard to Indonesia. Lake Success ought to be renamed Lake Failure.

Totalitarianism: 1947 and 1933

Communists Beat Up 12 Rivals in Hungary

BUDAPEST, July 16, 1947 — About 50 persons shouting Communist slogans attacked a Freedom party headquarters last night and beat up 12 adherents of the party leader, Dezso Sulyok. A flying squad of police then arrested all 12, but did not molest any of the attackers.

Lajos Honti, a party district secretary, was so badly injured he had to be carried to jail, his wounds unattended.

The Freedom party had canceled a political meeting and the 12 party leaders were sitting around the district headquarters when the demonstrators stormed into the building, broke up the furniture, ripped down posters, and beat up those present.

Man Killed as Nazis Raid Their Rivals

BERLIN, June 21, 1933 — Chancellor Adolph Hitler's Nazi Administration moved against Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalist party today with a series of raids on various party headquarters, in which one man was killed, and with orders dissolving the Nationalist Auxiliary organizations.

The fatality occurred at Frankfort-on-the-Oder, where a man was shot in a raid on the party headquarters.

Before Hitler gained power in Germany the Nationalists were his allies. He no longer needs them now, as he has a majority in the Reichstag without them and he has effectively nullified the power of the legislature.

The Price of Steel

In an article reprinted under the cartoon, an argument is made for an increase in the price of steel, which is opposed by President Truman.

Mr. Ruttenberg argues persuasively. His point that more capacity is required seems hardly open to dispute. Steel—plenty of it—is the first essential of prosperity.

The only question is whether the steel corporations require a higher price to enable them to expand. The May monthly letter of the National City Bank of New York shows that, in the first quarter of 1947, the iron and steel industry earned at the rate of 18.1 per cent of its net worth. This was net earnings after depreciation, interest, taxes, miscellaneous charges and reserves. It was nearly nine times the rate for the first quarter of 1946.

The recent increase in the wages of coal miners will affect these earnings, but Big Steel owns its own coal mines, and they are the most highly mechanized of all.

If an industry cannot see its way clear to expand with earnings like these, which have every prospect of lasting for several years, what will induce it to expand? Has the steel industry lost its confidence in the future of America or the American system? Has it lost all the dynamic that caused it to increase capacity 150 per cent in the first 20 years of this century?

What the steel industry needs, seemingly, is more of the spirit that made it great in days past.

Something Simple, Please!

If there is anything that seems possessed of natural unity, it is rubbish. The one object of the housewife or householder is to get rid of it, with the least handling and the greatest ease possible.

Yet Arthur C. Meyers, Director of Streets and Sewers, proposes a system requiring that rubbish be sorted and classified into three divisions before the city would deign to pick it up. Mr. Meyers proposes that there be three rubbish cans—one for garbage, one for combustible trash and one for non-combustible trash.

At present two cans are required, and that is enough. If Junior throws the weeds from the petunia bed into the garbage can, the garbage collector won't touch it. And if Mama or Papa goes out and re-sorts the garbage, the garbage collector still is in a huff and may not stop until someone calls City Hall and demands action.

Under Mr. Meyers' plan, trash collection might be a little cheaper for the city, but it would be a nightmare for the people the system is supposed to serve.

MARCHING THROUGH JAVA

"Steel's Too Cheap"

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Steel man criticizes "spokesmen" for his industry who cling to present production capacity; points to critical domestic and world shortages of metal; proposes cent-a-pound rise in steel price to stimulate output; believes this would aid against inflation in long run.

Harold J. Ruttenberg, Vice President, Portsmouth Steel Corp. and Former CIO United Steelworkers' Official, in Life

Steel is too cheap and therefore the United States and the world are starving for lack of it.

Steel is truly a precious metal, yet it is the lowest priced indispensable commodity in the United States today. You can buy it in raw form (ingots) for less than 2 cents a pound, and in finished form (sheets) for less than 4 cents a pound. Zinc in raw form costs five times as much as steel, lead and aluminum seven times as much, and copper 10 times as much.

The editors of Life say, "The price of steel should be cut," yet they advocate that the United States should assume world leadership. The two do not go together. The United States needs much more steel than it has in 1947 to assume world leadership and succeed in it.

I say that the price of steel should be raised a cent a pound. This is the stimulus that is needed to raise the United States' effective ingot capacity to 100,000,000 tons a year—the minimum needed in the next decade to keep the United States prosperous and to rebuild the war-devastated world.

Those Previous Forecasts

Some spokesmen for the steel industry assert that by the end of 1947, if not sooner, steel demand and supply will be in balance; in fact, for many producers orders will be short. Are they right? I say, "No!"

Remember the previous forecasts of these "spokesmen for the steel industry." In 1940 and 1941 they asserted that the industry's ingot capacity—81,600,000 net tons—was adequate to meet war needs. Their error was emphasized by the feverish rush with which 13,900,000 tons of new ingot capacity had to be installed while the war was being prosecuted.

In 1944 they asserted that the war-expanded industry's ingot capacity of 95,500,000 tons was more than necessary to meet postwar needs. With these assertions as guides many large and many new and small steel consumers got under way with expansion of old lines and new products—only to be halted by the shortage of steel.

It is this shortage that is fanning the flames of inflation; a cent more for steel is peanuts (inflation-wise) alongside this domestic and export shortage. It is this extra cent that I believe will make steel profitable enough to stimulate the needed expansion of at least 10,000,000 annual tons of steel-ingot capacity.

Needed: 10,000,000 Tons

The industry's present practical capacity of 91,000,000 net tons of steel ingots is inadequate. What the United States needs—what the world in which the United States has become the largest industrial nation needs—is a steel industry that can produce 100,000,000 ingot tons of steel a year. And the need is now, not 1950 or 1955.

Look at the world. In 1940 the world produced and consumed 156,000,000 ingot tons of steel. Sixty-seven million tons came from the United States, 89,000,000 from the rest of the world. Today steel output in other countries is at least 30,000,000 tons below 1940 output.

With the population growth and war-created steel requirements since 1940, the world needs in 1947 at least as much steel as in 1940. There is only one country that could supply this deficiency and that is the United States, and it can not do so under present conditions.

Look next at United States steel needs. The motor car, the freight car and the pipeline—all three are supplied with steel by the same mills. As the pressure for railroad equipment grows, steel is withdrawn from autos. The auto sheets go to freight-car plates. And as the pressure grows for gas and oil lines, car plates will go to pipe lines. It is a terrible circle and it is caused by an under-capacity steel industry.

"Expansion Is Too Risky"

There are two ways to get this increased capacity of around 9,000,000 tons a year. One is to get it the way we got a majority of the wartime steel expansion—have the Federal Government do it.

The other and better way is to take free enterprise off the speaker's rostrum and put it to work. This will make steel profitable enough to make the expansion of present ingot capacity a good risk.

At less than 4 cents a pound, steel expansion is too risky. Make steel a 5-cent commodity (a good cigar or even a bad one cannot be had for a nickel today) and the increased profit potential will stimulate the building of new steelmaking facilities.

Now for the inflation fear. It is a legitimate fear but, I think, an unwarranted one. Take a washing-machine manufacturer. He is making an automatic washer that retails around $300 but if he had more steel he could increase his volume and retail the machine for less.

How about the fear of making steel profits too high? Over the long pull the steel industry has been a notoriously poor moneymaker, and when it has a good profit year the public gags.

To make America great as a world power, a steel industry that makes good profits is essential. Today there is a big and powerful steelworkers' union to prevent the steel profits from reaching the high levels of Andy Carnegie's days.

The important thing is to make the United States strong enough industrially to maintain her leadership in the modern industrial world.

TWINS OF DISSENT ON ARGUMENT BENT

From the Courier-Journal.

Monotony rules in the highest of courts, and the judgments we come to foreknow; for whether it's contracts or whether it's torts, Frankfurter and Jackson say no. Has the South been oppressed by iniquitous rates, and its industry forced to go slow? Though seven agree, dialectical mates, say Jackson and Frankfurter, "No."

An editor writes, as the public's own voice, a rebuke for a judge's harsh action. Do you think this is freedom in which to rejoice? Frankfurter says no, so does Jackson. Though seven companions, in mental embrace, agree on philosophy's bent, there's ever a postscript to news of the case: "Frankfurter and Jackson dissent."

All hail, Supreme Court and your difference of minds! In your conflicts we find a good omen. In democracy's cauldron there's room for all kinds, as for Robert and Felix, your no-men.

Between Book Ends

Electra's Many Complexes

DULL THE SHARP EDGE, by Ellen Marsh. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

In this, her second novel, Ellen Marsh presents a heroine whose overlapping neuroses would provide a lush find for any textbook psychoanalyst.

Stefanie Jameson, daughter of the broken marriage between a homesick German mother and an American father who never progressed beyond a state of adolescent self-preoccupation, approaches her own introverted maturity burdened with a sense of insecurity, a self-admitted Electra complex, the early memory of a repellent introduction to sex, and a guilt complex traceable to the crimes of Nazi Germany. The publishers modestly describe her as "a girl too sensitive . . . to face the essential truth. . . ."

During the bewildered process of maturing, Stefanie politely and briefly submits to the amorous attentions of Lawford, a psuedo-Bohemian, substitutes a platonic attachment to MacGregor, a cynical newspaper man, for her father fixation, and achieves final happiness with Christian Thiel, a blond German refugee who teaches philosophy at a Midwestern college and has a wife in a Swiss sanatorium.

Miss Marsh displays, at times, a sharp insight and familiarity with subjective moods, and her writing demonstrates a disciplined control of the mechanics of expression. Her competence at characterization is less mature, and the development of her novel is frequently marred by passages having a flat synoptic or incomplete quality.

EDWARD W. DECKE

MENAGERIE IN F SHARP, by H. W. Heinsheimer. (Doubleday and Co., New York.)

All Dr. Heinsheimer's adult life has been devoted to music hunting. At 23 he became assistant to Hertzka, head of the tremendously successful Viennese music publishing house, Universal Edition. He remained with this firm, heading its opera department, until 1938, when he came to the United States, where he joined the music publishers Boosey and Hawkes.

His book is set partly in Europe and partly in America. Rather detailed accounts of such things as what is involved in the printing and production of a new opera, and how music is written and recorded for the screen, are interspersed between chapters dealing with Heinsheimer's own career, and those of some of his friends: Kurt Weill, Ernst Krenek and several others.

Dr. Heinsheimer's most serious thoughts are devoted to the rise of Nazism and the future of music in America. Speaking of the Nazis, he contends that the people of Germany should have seen signs of the approaching storm in the booing and banning of new operas, for liberty is indivisible. But the storm came, and in consequence, Heinsheimer believes, America is destined to be the new music center of the world.

Genesis for the Young

THE BIBLE STORY OF THE CREATION, by Mary Alice Jones. (Rand McNally & Co., Chicago.)

Miss Jones, one of the foremost authorities on religious education, interprets the Biblical account of the making of the world for young readers. With her deep understanding of the Scriptures she makes clear, simply yet dramatically, the profound significance of the verses which describe the steps in the Creation. In keeping with the devotional tone of the book are Janice Holland's illustrations.

MARQUIS CHILDS

'Like Father, Like Son'

LIKE father, like son. That old saw has often been applied to Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and his illustrious father, the late William Howard Taft, who achieved the unique distinction of becoming both President and Chief Justice of the United States.

Striking similarities are not hard to find. The son has the same remarkable capacity for hard work that was one of his father's chief qualities. In the session of Congress now ending, Senator Taft has done the work of three men, moving tirelessly through the routine of committees, party leadership and strategy on the Senate floor.

Senator Taft.

His name is now attached to the most important piece of legislation to come out of the seven-month session—the Taft-Hartley act. Whether this has helped him or hurt him as a presidential candidate is debatable. To organized labor he is a fiend incarnate. To many middle-class Americans he is a hero.

A Trial Run.

Taft is a little uncertain himself as to his standing in the country. With typical forthrightness, he intends to try to find out after Congress adjourns.

But first he will go for at least a month of vacation to the Taft summer home at Murray Bay in Quebec. At Murray Bay, two generations of Tafts and now a third, have rested and relaxed, away from the glare of public office.

In early September, the Senator will go out to the Pacific coast. He will speak on Sept. 12 and 13 before the American Bar Association at Santa Cruz, Calif. There will be other speaking engagements.

On this trial run, Taft will determine what his chances are. His friends say that, far more than most politicians, he has a capacity for self-appraisal. And, if he decides that, as the popularity polls would seem to indicate, his standing is not high, then he will take himself out of the race definitely and finally.

Alike on Labor.

Like his father before him, the Senator is inherently a conservative. I have been reading Henry Pringle's fascinating biography of the elder Taft. That suggests a remarkable parallel in the two careers.

As William Howard Taft became a reluctant candidate for the presidency, largely at the prompting of his friend Theodore Roosevelt, he was fearful that his labor record would thwart him. As a judge in Cincinnati, Taft had angered labor by several of his decisions. He took a strong line in the bitter days of the Pullman strike in Chicago, when conservative and propertied men were sure that Communism was just around the corner.

The elder Taft's letters show how alarmed he was and how insistent on putting down the "anarchists" who were striking against a well-intentioned employer. Then as he succumbed to the presidential ambition, Taft worried for fear that labor would veto his chances.

Philippine Drudgery.

Pringle brings out one aspect of the elder Taft's career that raises him above most men in public life today. That was his patient, unfailing devotion to a thankless task that happened to be of primary importance to America's position before the world.

After the Spanish-American War, his friend Teddy Roosevelt sent Taft out to the Philippines at the head of a committee to bring order and civil rule to the islands. The job called for endless patience and perseverance, tact, diplomacy and just plain grit.

Taft displayed all these qualities. Back home the romance of our first imperial adventure was wearing thin. Congress wanted to economize. People were bored with the Philippines and their troubles. But our proconsul in remote Manila stuck to his task even though high appointive office was dangled before his eyes.

Powerful Example.

He won the love and respect of the Philippine people. Although he was convinced they were not ready for independence, he initiated the first steps in self-government and prepared the way for an independent state which has been such a powerful example throughout the Orient.

If there were more men today with that kind of devotion to public duty, it would not be nearly so difficult to fulfill our obligations around the world. The quality which led the elder Taft to assume burdensome responsibility in a far-distant foreign field—one in which the political rewards seemed nonexistent—is a quality the son might emulate. And so might a great many other Americans who aspire to public office and public trust. The need is far greater now than it was at the turn of the century, when the elder Taft went out to labor in Manila's humid heat.

JAY FRANKLIN

A Lost Project for Refugees

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and Gen. Marshall have, characteristically, stumbled into the pit from which Roosevelt tried to save our Government. This is the matter of the admission of European refugees under the Stratton bill, which is meeting with decisive opposition on Capitol Hill.

In the spring of 1942, President Roosevelt called me in after a press conference and told me that he wanted me to direct the organization of a real program to take care of postwar migration and settlement. What was needed, in F. D. R.'s opinion, was a survey of the economic dislocation that would follow the war and an estimate of economic opportunities for resettlement throughout the world. No account was to be taken of political reasons for dislocation or of political opposition to resettlement: it was to be strictly factual.

Jay Franklin

To Resettle 5,000,000.

The advantage of this approach was that it side-stepped the whole tendency of the times to consider resettlement in sole relationship to the Jews and Palestine. My job was to conduct the survey in such absolute secrecy that no foreign governments would leap to the conclusion that the U. S. A. had decided that they were to take "x" fugitives.

In the two and a half years during which this so-called "M" project operated, the personnel under my direction prepared approximately 600 reports, broken down so as to cover succinctly every aspect of the problem.

My recollection is that we estimated that about 5,000,000 people would stand in need of economic migration and resettlement, due to various factors which included war devastation, and that the program would cost about $1000 apiece. We had no difficulty in finding places throughout the world which stood in urgent need of the economic services which these people could render, both on a professional, industrial and an agricultural basis.

Vetoed by Truman.

This program was light-heartedly tossed out the window by President Truman, at the end of 1945, and I have always suspected that Admiral Leahy and the State Department were responsible. Instead, the White House's attention was focused on the case of the European Jews alone and by natural extension to the willingness of the United States to serve as haven for the European Jews.

This decision amounted to the political prostitution and boomeranging of a broad-based program that was designed to serve purely human needs on a world-wide basis. To bid for votes in the 1946 congressional election, Mr. Truman went all out for the Jews, and thus isolated the Jewish refugees from the larger problem of which they were a part.

Time to Dust It Off.

The devious and characteristic pressures of British diplomacy, by which Mr. Truman was induced to ask Congress to take in those European Jews whom the Germans didn't want in Germany and whom the British didn't want in Palestine, followed as night follows day.

Then comes the payoff, when Congress declines to be the fall-guy and the British Foreign Office can legitimately ask, "Well, then, why are you so hot about the Jews in Palestine?"

It may not be too late for even Mr. Truman to blow the dust off the "M" project reports and return to Roosevelt's global approach to a global problem. But he won't, not so long as Downing Street runs the State Department.

EX-CONGRESSMAN COCHRAN LEFT ESTATE OF $47,197

The inventory listed: United States Treasury bonds, $17,578; two pieces of farm property in Dorchester county, Maryland, valued at $13,010; life insurance, $7913; cash, $7445, and goods and chattels, $1250.

Cochran's will left $5500 in specific bequests to friends and the residue of the estate in equal shares to two sisters and two brothers. Bequests included $2000 to his "friend and benefactor," William L. Igoe; $2000 to his former secretary, Frank M. Karsten, who was elected to the seat in Congress vacated by Cochran because of ill health; $1000 to his secretary, Miss Eloise D. Baute of Washington, and $500 to a friend, George Cassidy, 5461 Enright avenue. Cochran served 20 years in the House of Representatives.

BILL PASSED FOR SCIENCE FOUNDATION

No Funds Before Next Year —24-Member Board to Guide Research.

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Senate approval by voice vote sent to the White House last night legislation to create a notional science foundation to formulate and guide a broad research program.

The House passed the compromise legislation a few hours earlier.

The measure carries no funds. Sponsors have said it will require $25,000,000 a year at the start. No money will be provided before next year.

The Senate defeated 46 to 38 a motion by Senator Morse (Rep.), Oregon, to delay consideration until January.

He offered the motion in protest against action of a conference committee in deleting his proposal to earmark 25 per cent of the foundation's funds for state-supported institutions.

Senators Taft (Rep.), Ohio, and Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, objected that if his proposal carried there probably would be no legislation on the subject by the present Congress.

The bill proposes establishment of a 24-member foundation of scientists to guide a program of research with the aid of scholarships and grants to institutions.

Morse charged that under the bill as approved a few large institutions would obtain most of the benefits and smaller colleges, state and land grant institutions, would not get a fair share.

Smith, a former Princeton University professor, said that the conferees had included a request to the President that when he appoints the 24 members he give "due consideration" to recommendations by the National Academy of Sciences, Association of Land Grant Colleges, the National Associate of State Universities and the Association of American Colleges.

Morse replied that this was "purely empty language" which gave the smaller institutions no guarantee that they would receive any recognition in research grants.

The 24 members of the foundation will require Senate confirmation, but they will set up their own internal organization. They will name a nine-man executive committee which in turn will choose a director. He will not require confirmation.

As originally passed by the Senate the measure provided for appointment of the director by the President, but the Senate accepted the House change in that provision.

ELIZABETH TO HAVE PUBLIC WEDDING WITH NO AUSTERITY

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—The Government let it be known today that Princess Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten will be married in a big public ceremony after all.

Spiking speculation that the wedding would have to be a small, semi-private affair because of the nation's poverty, a high Government source said it was now definitely known that the ceremony would be in Westminster Abbey and "certainly won't be on austerity lines."

The source added that the royal family and the Government now were "more strongly than ever" in favor of October as the wedding time.

"It's unlikely that all the peers will be required to wear all their robes and paraphernalia," the source said, "because the things just aren't about any more. The moths have been in them."

The Privy Council will meet July 31 to give formal assent to the marriage.

FOREIGN AID AND OCCUPATION FUND SET AT $1,430,361,400

WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today approved $1,430,361,400 in appropriations for foreign aid and American occupation costs, adding nearly $80,000,000 to the total voted by the House.

The foreign items were part of a $1,600,000,000 supplemental appropriation bill, which is one of the remaining money measures that must be passed before Congress adjourns Saturday.

Mrs. Chapman F. J. Chapman

HUNGARIAN GIRL BRIDE OF FORMER SERVICE MAN HERE

Mrs. Fred Chapman, Who Was in a Displaced Persons' Camp, Came Here by Plane.

Mrs. Fred J. Chapman, the former Mrs. Katheryn Somogyi Patrovanski, of Budapest, Hungary, today began making the adjustment from life in an European displaced persons' camp to that of a St. Louis housewife, following her marriage here Monday.

Her husband, a maintenance man at the Crown Can Co., said she was the first Hungarian girl to come to St. Louis as the prospective bride of a former service man from this city. She arrived by airplane last week.

Chapman and his wife, whose first husband, a soldier, was killed five months before V-E day, met when the 242nd Infantry Regiment, in which he was a rifleman, began setting up a displaced persons' camp in Salzburg, Austria, in June 1945. He returned to St. Louis in February 1946.

Mrs. Chapman speaks only a few words of English, but since he speaks some German, they use that language as a medium, although Chapman and his family are now teaching her to speak English. She was shy and quiet at their home, 5127A Ridge avenue, yesterday. However, she does like St. Louis better than the camp, she said.

WOMAN, BEDRIDDEN 16 YEARS, OBSERVES 106TH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Caterina Repetto, 4519 Aldine avenue, celebrated her 106th birthday quietly today in the bed to which she has been confined for the last 16 years.

After receiving communion this morning, Mrs. Repetto, a widow since 1916, looked forward to visits from the members of the St. Charles Borromeo Sodality to which she has belonged for 62 years. Mrs. Charles A. Boggiano, prefect of the Sodality, said the members would drop in a few at a time rather than in a group to avoid exciting the aged woman.

Highlights of the day will include the presentation of a cake bearing 106 candles my members of the North Side Boys Club and the basket of fruit which the Sodality always sends to her. Mrs. Repetto, despite failing sight, continues to read her prayer book and glances occasionally at a newspaper. She is still reported mentally alert by her daughter, Mrs. Eugenia O'Donnell, and by friends who visit her.

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—The centennial convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states today granted a total of $1,494,962 for new construction at 12 Lutheran schools and also increased the salaries of teachers at church schools.

The delegates voted to increase wages of tutors, instructors and assistant professors 15 per cent beginning with the new fiscal year starting Feb. 1, 1948. Professors and presidents of Lutheran schools were increased 30 per cent.

The delegates agreed to grants for construction projects including $150,000 for a mission house at Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis.

The delegates voted yesterday to spend up to $1,500,000 for the project, but the selection of a site was left to the board of education which was directed to report to the next convention. Delegates said the college possibly would be in Chicago, St. Louis or Valparaiso, Ind.

At present the synod operates 14 junior colleges from which ministerial students go into four year theological seminaries. Under the new plan the senior college would include the first two years of the seminary study.

SELECTED INDUSTRIALS FEATURE STOCK RALLY

Dividends, Earnings, Inflationary Psychology Back of Most Bidding.

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Buyers got back in the saddle of today's stock market and rode selected industrials for their best gains of the week although many leaders were more or less neglected.

Large blocks of low-quoted issues running to 9000 shares expanded activity in the forenoon. Rails enjoyed a brief flurry, then took a rest. Dealings tapered after midday. Extreme advances of 1 to 3 points were reduced in most cases at the close and scattered losers appeared.

Turnover was around the 1,000,000-share mark for the first time since last Thursday.

Exceptions in the minus column included John R. Thompson, which touched a low for the year in further reflection of an omitted dividend and a drop in net; Consolidated Edison, Sears Roebuck, International Nickel, Boeing and Glenn Martin.

Sales were 1,080,000 shares compared with 780,000 yesterday.

Of 991 issues traded 558 closed higher, 200 lower and 203 unchanged. Sixty-three made new 1947 highs and 5 new lows.

A 5 per cent increase in telephone rates was granted New England Telephone and Telegraph.

Trend on the Curb.

Colonial Sand, Coro Inc., Middle West Corp., Salt Dome Oil and Tampa Electric, the last named on a boosted dividend, were up on curb.

Some New 1947 Highs.

Posting highs for 1947 were Robert Gair, Federated Department Stores, Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak. Liggett & Myers edged upward on a raised quarterly while G. R. Kinney responded moderately to an extra.

Ahead were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich, Goodyear, Publicker.

Renewed bidding was attributed partly to the recent drying up of offerings which indicated to some that the list might be ready for an extension of the recovery. A batch of good earnings and dividends propped sentiment although some stocks concerned were indifferent. Inflation ideas prompted a certain amount of purchasing and short covering but the question of consumer resistance to rising costs served to dim enthusiasm. The feeling that the market was due for a sizable technical correction restrained numerous customers.

M.-K.-T. June Operation.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines reported income after fixed charges for June of $257,000, compared with $268,000 for June 1946. Net income after adjustment bond interest was $201,000, against $212,000. For the first six months of the year income after fixed charges was $1,343,000, against $1,275,000; net income after adjustment bond interest, $1,004,000, against $936,000.

$1 Dividend on Liggett & Myers.

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Directors of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. declared a quarterly dividend of $1 on the common stock, payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 12. Previous payments were 75 cents quarterly.

Stockholders approved change of common "B" into common stock last March.

JULY CORN EQUALS TOP RECORD BEFORE ENDING

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Renewal of Government wheat buying, cool weather in the Midwest and reports of poor oats yields combined to produce a strong grain market on the Board of Trade today. Feed grains showed wider gains than wheat.

At one time July corn, in which trading ended at the close, advanced to $2.21 a bushel, equaling the all-time record for any corn delivery established on July 15. All deferred corn contracts moved to new seasonal highs.

All oats deliveries made new seasonal peaks. Firmness in the cash trade aided this grain and purchases on a to-arrive basis expanded to 165,000 bushels.

Wheat closed 1¾ lower to ¾ higher, the July contract showing the loss and ending at $2.38¼@2.39½. Corn was ¼ lower to 1¾ higher, July $2.18@2.19. The July oats contract closed on a wierd split quotation of $1.05 to 98 cents. Deferred oats were ½ to 1½ higher.

Wheat was aided by reports from Kansas City that the Commodity Credit Corporation had purchased undisclosed quantities of the grain at $2.29½ a bushel for No. 1 hard wheat in store at Kansas City. The local office announced it bought 730,00 bushels yesterday.

The Agriculture Department overnight raised its corn crop forecast 158,000,000 bushels, which was more than grain analysts had expected. Some initial selling in corn was based on this report, but the trade was impressed by the manner in which prices held without breaking.

Cash Wheat, Corn Higher.

HALSEY TELLS OF JAP DEFEAT IN LEYTE GULF

thoughts out of my mind. I can close my eyes and see it today:
FROM: CINCPAC
TO: COM THIRD FLEET
THE WHOLE WORLD WANTS TO KNOW WHERE IS TASK FORCE 34.

"I was stunned as if I had been struck in the face. The paper rattled in my hands. I snatched off my cap, threw it on the deck and shouted something that I am ashamed to remember.

"Mick Carney rushed over and grabbed my arm: 'Stop it! What the hell's the matter with you? Pull yourself together!'

"I gave him the dispatch and turned my back. I was so mad I couldn't talk. It was utterly impossible for me to believe that Chester Nimitz would send me such an insult. He hadn't, of course, but I didn't know the truth for several weeks. It requires an explanation of Navy procedure.

"To increase the difficulty of breaking our codes, most dispatches are padded with gibberish. The decoding officers almost always recognize it as such and delete it from the transcription, but CINCPAC's encoder was either drowsy or smart-alecky, and his padding — "The whole world wants to know"—sounded so infernally plausible that my decoders read it as a valid part of the message.

"Chester blew up when I told him about it; he tracked down the little squirt and chewed him to bits, but it was too late then; the damage had been done.

"The orders I now gave, I gave in rage, and although Ernie King later assured me that they were the right ones, I am convinced that they were not."

In the three-day battle for Leyte Gulf, six American ships were sunk and 11 damaged; 26 enemy ships were sunk and 25 damaged.

Results of Battle.

"In my official report, I was able to write with conviction that the results of the battle were (1) the utter failure of the Japanese plan to prevent the reoccupation of the Philippines; (2) the crushing defeat of the Japanese fleet; and (3) the elimination of serious naval threat to our operations for many months, if not forever," Adm. Halsey writes. "Yet, when I reported to Ernie King in Washington the following January, my very first words were, 'I made a mistake in that battle.'

"He held up his hand. 'You don't have to tell me any more. You've got a green light on everything you did.'

"Although our naval power in the Western Pacific was such that we could have challenged the combined fleets of the world, the fact that it was not co-ordinated under any single authority was an invitation which disaster nearly accepted. What brought us victory instead was simply this: all hands thought alike. And that we did so is a tribute to our indoctrination in the United States Navy."

LEGION URGES U.N. CHANGES TO CURB VETO, SET UP POLICE

ing the Security Council into a 10-member body—two each from the United States, Britain and Russia, one each from France and China and two selected by the remaining member-states.

At present, Britain, Russia, France, China and this country are permanent members of the 11-member council with each exercising veto power over any matter of "substance" before that body.

Under the Legion plan, any one of the Big Five still would be able to block admission of new United Nations members or the creation of special investigating commissions, unless some question of aggression were involved.

New Powers for Council.

In calling for changes to give the council "adequate powers," the proposal urged these three points:

1. Creation of an atomic development authority responsible to the council for rigid control of atomic weapons and all other means of mass destruction.

2. Power for the council to limit the total annual output of heavy armament all over the world. The council would be "empowered and directed" to allot to each of five major powers an individual production quota, which they could not exceed, and to allot to other members a collective quota to be produced solely by a non-profit armament authority operating under the council.

3. Maintenance of a staff of inspectors with full rights and access to arms production, information on troop concentrations, industrial resources and activities.

The Legion said the world police force—already envisioned under the charter, but its formation stalled by disagreement over details—should consist of one active international contingent and five national contingents ready to operate as reserves "wherever needed."

This international contingent, the Legion said, "cannot become an instrument of world tyranny because it has only one-fifth of the world's effective armed strength.

"Its regiments and squadrons from the smaller states, by supporting the power of the Security Council, are insuring the survival of their own countries."

PILOT BLAMED IN CRASH THAT KILLED 39 IN NEWFOUNDLAND

WASHINGTON, July 23 (UP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board said today that the crash of an American Overseas Airlines four-engine plane in which all 39 persons aboard perished last Oct. 3 at Stephenville, Newfoundland, was caused by the pilot's failure to observe take-off rules.

The CAB said that the plane, a DC-4 which hit a mountainside shortly after the take-off, was functioning properly at the time.

Although the CAB blamed the pilot for failing to turn right after leaving the runway, the board noted that modern air carrier operation is burdening pilots with too many details. It said these burdens could be relieved "in large measure" in such operations "by clearly defining the procedures required for climb after take-off at night or under instrument conditions."

CAB said the airlines had no such procedures in existence at the time of the accident, but that it has since established them.

Col. Durant's Sentence Reduced.

FRANKFURT, July 23 (UP)—The Army announced today that the 15-year sentence of Col. Jack Durant, key figure in the Hesse jewel theft, had been reduced to 14 years by Brig. Gen. Robinson Duff, headquarters commandant, after a review of the case.

RULES CANADIAN PAPER FIRMS MUST GIVE GRAND JURY DATA

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—United States District Judge Henry W. Goddard ruled yesterday that two Canadian subsidiaries of International Paper Co. must produce their books and records for a federal grand jury which is investigating a newsprint shortage.

The court denied motions by Canadian International Paper Co. and International Paper Sales Co. to quash subpenas issued by the grand jury on the ground that they were foreign corporations and not subject to judicial process here. The court rejected also the contention that the three companies operated as separate corporate entities.

"The segregation of services may be possible subjectively, but the over-all effect of the activities of these officers is to benefit all of the companies for which they are officers," Judge Goddard said.

Robert Young As Playboy At the Fox

The movies have been specializing lately in portraits of wicked women and scoundrelly men. In line with this is the new film now at the Fox Theater, "They Won't Believe Me," the story of a playboy who brings ruin and tragedy into the lives of three women, and finally, ironically, is arrested for a murder he didn't commit. Robert Young plays the young man of great charm and few scruples. Rita Johnson is his wealthy wife, who uses her money to keep him in line. Jane Greer plays a magazine writer with whom Young has an affair. Susan Hayward is cast as a gold-digging secretary, who plots with Young to clean out his wife's bank account, but is accidentally killed in an automobile crash. Second feature is "Yankee Fakir," with Douglas Fowley as a traveling pitchman.

Shirley Temple, Franchot Tone and Guy Madison are starred in a comedy, "Honeymoon," which is scheduled to open Friday at the Ambassador Theater. Adapted from a Vicki Baum story, it's full of complications which ensue when a pair of young Americans try to get married in Mexico City, a vice consul tries to help them, and gets into trouble with his Mexican sweetheart as a result. The other feature will be "Second Chance," with Kent Taylor as a ringleader of international jewel thieves and Larry Blake as an insurance detective.

The new tenor sensation of the Metropolitan Opera, Ferruccio Tagliavini, may be seen and heard in the Italian movie, "I Li . as I Please," which opens at the Art Theater Saturday. It's about a peasant lad who goes to Rome with a letter of introduction to the opera manager. The letter turns out to be a hoax, and the young man has to take a job as janitor at the opera. But, singing off stage, he drowns out the tenor, and wins himself a place as a singer. Tagliavini sings arias from the operas "Fedora," "La Favorita," and "L'Amico Frtiz." Dialogue is in Italian, with English titles.

Loew's State, starting tomorrow, features Randolph Scott and Barbara Britton in "Gunfighters," and George Brent and Joan Blondell in "The Corpse Came C.O.D." The first was adapted from Zane Grey's novel, "Twin Sombreros." It tells of a gunfighter who reforms, then takes up his weapons again to avenge the murder of his friend by cattle rustlers. It's in Cinecolor. In the other feature, someone sends a body in a packing case to a movie star. Two newspaper reporters, Brent and Miss Blondell, solve it.

"Duel in the Sun," the Technicolor Western with Jennifer Jones, Gregory Peck and Joseph Cotten, moves over to the Orpheum tomorrow from Loew's State. "Dear Ruth," the comedy at the St. Louis, will be held over for its seventh week, along with "Jungle Flight." "The Egg and I," starring Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray, goes into its second week at the Shubert. The Missouri is currently playing two whimsical comedies, "The Miracle on 34th Street," and "It Happened on Fifth Avenue."

'GITTAR' PLAYING AMATEURS TRYING HERE FOR TROPHIES

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

Three small boys played Hawaiian boogie-woogie this morning in the Gold Room at Hotel Jefferson as the International Guitar League opened its five-day National Music Festival.

Another group of "gittar" players, which followed the boys, struck some sour notes and a judge whisked them off-stage. After informing them that they lacked co-ordination, he sent them back to try again.

About 1600 devotees of the guitar, most of whom favored the electric instrument, are attending the festival, competing for silver and gold trophies. The contests are strictly for amateurs. Anyone who has ever appeared in a theater is ineligible.

Children as young as 6 years, usually accompanied by their parents, are taking part in the contests. Most of the participants range from 8 to 18 years old.

Harold Pratt, who operates music schools in Hanover, Pa., brought 164 children to the festival. They traveled in four chartered busses and in trains. Last night most of them took time off from tuning-up for the music show by going to see the Cardinals play the New York Giants.

Tonight there will be contests for guitar bands, comedy acts and musical tricks. By the time the festival ends, heads of the nonprofit organization hops that all their members will have the aplomb of veteran entertainers.

He Doesn't Think So

Shall Henry File for Terminal Leave Pay?

By Henry McLemore

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., July 23.

I AM in a pickle, and I'll bet that thousands of other onetime G.I.s are right in there with me. By Aug. 31, all of us who served in the armed forces as enlisted men must have filed our applications for terminal leave pay. That's the deadline. After that, no dice, no soap.

I have a few dollars coming to me, I am sure, and would hate to miss out when Uncle Sam is handing out the dough for free. But I'm afraid I'm going to miss out.

The application form has me scared to death. So have all the things I have read about what the Government will do to a fellow if he makes a mistake in figuring the money due him. As I get it, let an enlisted man have an error on his application and he is done for. Before he can say "kitchen police," the gendarmes will have swooped down on him, slipped the handcuffs on his wrists, and, without giving him time to say goodby to his loved ones, have him headed for the federal jute mills.

AS MUCH AS I like money, I am not going to risk five or six years of making big mail sacks out of little ones, and eating cakes with files in them, for the $100 or $200 due me. I would much rather do without the money. After all, freedom is a precious thing, and I don't want to take my afternoon walks under the supervision of a guard.

Like so many former G.I.s I don't know how many days of leave I had or didn't have while in the Army. I got out less than two years ago, but Bougainville, Morotai, Leyte, Luzon, Noumea, the Canal, and Australia seem thousands of years ago.

WHEN I CAME BACK from overseas I had either two weeks or three weeks at home before being assigned to 90 Church street in New York as Col. Hope's chief nuisance. Were those two or three weeks furlough, or was I on temporary duty, delayed en route, or one of those other 99999 Army phrases? You see what I mean? I am not going to hold up a notary public in my right hand, and swear that I am telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth when I am not sure of my facts.

ON THE terminal leave application there is a little square in which one is to tell wheher he was ever court-martialed. I hate to admit this, but I was court-martialed. When I was in basic training. A summary court. I violated something or other. Drinking milk shakes after hours, I believe. Anyway, I was fined $19.50, and forced to work from 7 p.m. until midnight, after having done a full day's work. No confinement. No stockade. No guardhouse. Stu Love, who later lost a foot in France, was my companion during those dark hours. We built a bayonet course. The sand part of it, anyway. From seven till midnight we carried 100-pound bags of sand up a hill, down a hill, up another hill, and all over again. To this day, the sight of sand makes me sick, even the few grains I always get in my spinach.

AM I to admit to the court-martial? I would be perfectly willing to, if I didn't think the boys in Washington or wherever the terminal leave business is worked out, would think that I was confined. I wish I had been. A few weeks in the guardhouse would have been a welcome relief from those sandbags.

So, I don't think I'll ever get my terminal leave pay. A man would be a fool to swear to something that would bring him scarcely enough money to buy his cigarettes while he was in durance vile.

I like that "durance vile." Sounds like Mr. Lippmann.

Friends' Reservations

By Christopher Billopp

IT is flattering, indeed, when friends write you that the summer resort at which you are staying sounds so delightful they would like to join you.

Of course, there are difficulties, but you are only too glad to do what you can for them. You note that they state specifically the dates on which they will arrive and depart and that no other time will suit. You note further that they absolutely must have a private bath and set the top price they can afford to pay.

YOU BEAR IN MIND that they are seeking quiet and, consequently, would prefer to be in that part of the establishment farthest removed from young children. No doubt they will provide you also with the specifications for the beds they consider most inducive to restful sleep.

With all the requirements firmly fixed in your mind you seek out the proprietor at a moment when he is slightly less harassed than usual. You picture your friends as just the charming sort of people he seeks for his clientele. You hint that they are persons of great power and importance in their community.

YOU DO NOT, of course, overlook remarking that your friends have been attracted by the delightful picture you have given them of his establishment, including the excellence of the food and the perfection of the service

Perhaps your diplomacy is successful and the proprietor, after great hesitation and many misgivings, agrees that he can fix them up. Then you pass the joyful word along to your friends.

You have done no more than friendship demands, it is true. But it does seem less than fair when your friends, at the last minute, drop you a line to tell you to cancel the reservations as they have found another resort they think they will like better.

On Broadway

By JACK LAIT

The Melting Pot

ANNABELLA is holding out for a fortune before she'll let Ty Power marry Lana Turner. . . . If Phil Baker loses his Take-It-or-Leave-It shot, it will be to Gary Moore. . . . Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey, palsey again after years of wishful mutual murder, will probably team for the film of Dempsey's life, "Manassa Mauler." . . . "The Hucksters," without gush notices, broke all opening-day records in the Capitol's 28 years of prosperity, playing to 23,500, passing "Since you Went Away." . . . Love that Gable! . . . Now that all the East Coast and West Coast nightlife insiders have spilled what they know about Virginia Hill, let me add my Chicago angle on "Bugsy" Siegel's friend. . . . She lived in the Wilson Ave. district there some 10 years ago and was tied up with a bookie named Joe Epstein, who spent almost as much on Virgy as she later did on everybody who'd swill her wine. . . . She made frequent trips to Mexico and talked a lot about it, mentioning that U. S. G-Men in Mexico City were in her dark and lustrous hair. . . . She intimated they intimated it had to do with narcotics snooping. . . . And, from Chicago, too, come lurid tales of a concentration of hoodlums for the Zale-Graziano bout that took on the proportions of a national convention. . . . Banquets were thrown, in Italian restaurants especially, after Rocky's victory. . . . Despite the published odds, the mobmen all seemed to have been riding on The Rock, who is by all standards their darling and ideal.

ANNABELLA . . . HOLDING OUT FOR BIG PRICE.

MONTE MALOYA, the pretty stunt-rider with Roy Rogers' rodeo, who goes through blazing hoops and other tricky hoopla, keeps it under cover — but she's the young sister of Linda Darnell. . . . Charlie Barnett, who's been out of step with his wife, Rita Merritt, is making sweet music again. . . . Pete Jaeger, who was engaged to Lana Turner for about five minutes last year, is on a merry-go-round over Iva Withers of "Carousel." . . . Haila Stoddard's next lord and master, after she gets her final diploma of graduation cum laude from the kindergarten school of that perennial marrier, Jack Kirkland, will be Broadway producer Harold Bromberg.

PATRICIA HASSETT is Mrs. Joe Breen Jr., now. . . . Abbey Fischer, drummer who banged the skins at the Strand Theater with the Ted Lewis orchestra, has stirred the pulses of many a maiden and matron with his rhythms. But the one who won him couldn't hear him. He married beautiful Nan Bower, with the Maryanne Abbott Dancers. She is a deaf mute!

FOR SEVERAL YEARS, in recurrent advertising, the Union Savings Bank has been listing, among unclaimed accounts, one in the name of Emile Boreo. . . . No one got word to Emile, who was busy in Hollywood. . . . But when he came here to play at the Latin Quarter, someone remembered and told him. . . . It was Friday night. The banks were closed by then. They would be, also, Saturday and Sunday. . . . Boreo wondered and pondered, but couldn't remember. . . . He was sizzling with suspense. . . . On Monday morning, though he had worked late, he was there waiting for the doors to open. . . . Yes, they would look it up. . . . Yes, there was a dormant account. . . . Could he establish his identity? . . . He could . . . He did. . . . The teller handed him $1.85! (He had deposited one forgotten buck, 15 years ago, and it had earned 85 cents.)

BRYAN FOY, known to the theatrical world as Brynie, is now the rich and powerful executive producer and vice-president of Eagle-Lion Studios, hiring stars, turning over millions, building the most progressive and fastest-growing picture plant in Hollywood. . . . I lunched with him recently. . . . He is genial, fast on the upbeat, a superb kidder and a worldly-wise observer as well as a big operator and creator of international amusement material. . . . I had known his father, the immortal Eddie Foy, the comedian-star, and I told Brynie some anecdotes about the departed celebrity that he'd never heard before. . . . But I told him one about himself that he had heard only—he was too young then to absorb any impression of it. . . . I was on the run, a cub reporter on a tremendous story: A fire-alarm had come in from the Iroquois Theater in Chicago during a vacation matinee. . . . As I approached the stage entrance, a weird figure in tights, a blanket around his shoulders (it was Dec. 30), shuffled down Lake st., a bundle huddled in his arms. . . . It was Eddie Foy, starring in "Mr. Bluebeard," who had escaped the holocaust. . . . The bundle was Brynie, of course.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A READER asks: "Am I right in placing table silver according to the course? That is, first course furthest from the plate? Also, tell me why an oyster fork should be put on the right when all the other forks are on the left? This seems to be a contradiction."

First course furthest from the plate is right. The reason why the oyster fork is put on the right of the plate is because it is the one fork taken up in the right hand. Correctly, you take the fish knife in your right hand at the same time that you take the meat fork in your left. You take your salad knife in your right hand as you take your salad fork in your left. It is true that if you serve an entree without a knife or if the salad requires none that you then have to reach in front of your plate and take your fork in your right hand.

DEAR MRS. POST: Should I invite my ex-husband to my wedding? We have remained friends but, of course, don't make a point of being in the same group. What about asking members of his family to my wedding?

Answer: If any of the members of his family have remained good friends of yours, you might ask these particulars ones if they would care to come. But certainly this is one occasion when the presence of your ex-husband would be rather shocking to most people.

Monkey Business in Staid Evanston

By Keith Wheeler

CHICAGO, July 23

THE ATMOSPHERE of Evanston being what it is—sort of chilly—it doesn't seem like a very promising place for a sidewalk entertainer either to get a crowd or to leave them smiling. Republicans don't smile easy, especially beerless Republicans.

It came as something of a surprise, therefore, to catch Rosie and her employer in their act at Sherman and Church. Rosie not only left a mob of North Shore moppets, and dowagers too, smiling at her and one another in a happy, friendly fashion, but also she made money at it. We don't know whether Evanston families call women and children "dowagers," and "moppets," but it seems proper to us admiring Democrats.

It came as an even greater surprise to learn that Rosie has been doing it for years on the same corner and very successfully too. In fact, she and her boss return to the same corner about twice a week from April to November, and although the financial records are their own business, the boss says it's a living.

Rosie is a ring-tailed monkey, aged 14. She works in partnership with Sam Canzona of 2724 South Canal, who at 77 claims to be the only survivor of a great tradition. He says he's the last grind-organ man in Chicago.

Rosie brought about what seemed nothing short of a miracle in Evanston one sunshiny afternoon recently. While Sam turned the crank and grinned benignly through his tremendous moustache, Rosie trotted around solemnly exacting nickels and pennies from a mob of delighted kids.

The kids were gurgling with pleasure and eager generosity and even a couple of their well-dressed mommas were down on hands and knees in a crap-shooting pose speaking high-class baby talk to Rosie.

A very fashionably gowned dowager—we insist upon the word—suddenly turned to me and said: "I've known Rosie for years. Once Sam turned down $3000 cash for her. She's the smartest damn monkey there is." You know, I never knew before that they talked like that in Evanston.

Sam afterward confirmed the story of Rosie's fabulous value—only he said it was $2000 instead of $3000. He acquired Rosie, or she him, many years ago. She was the fifth in a series of grind-organ partners who have shared the profession with him since he came from Italy more than 30 years ago.

IT CAME AS SOMETHING OF A SURPRISE TO CA TCH ROSIE AND HER EMPLOYER IN THEIR ACT AT EVANSTON.

Rosie's repertoire seems fairly simple. Generally she just walks around the crowd, tipping her gaudy hat "gracia" in return for coins which she stores in the big right-hand pocket of her suit.

Such is the success of her technique that she generally lists five degrees to starboard from the weight of the take. When business grows slow she takes a pair of brass cymbals and bangs them on the sidewalk in tune to the organ until the crowd comes back.

Occasionally she leaps to Sam's bent shoulder, shoves his hat off, and stages a mock search among his scant gray hair.

Her great appeal seems to lie in the expression of sober, dead-pan dignity with which she goes about her work or pauses occasionally to sip a coke. That, and the fact that she seems to know how to seize a nickel without looking at it and can pick one up with her back feet if necessary.

Other Women's Lives

By Donna Ford

MRS. ELIZABETH REDDEN isn't buggy, but her job is. She captures scorpions for the Arizona Poisonous Animal Research Laboratory. In one year she sent as many as 2000 to help the scientists who are searching for a method to immunize against the deadly sting. Mrs. Redden herself has been bitten hundreds of times, but the spry 73-year-old says they don't bother her much. She became interested when she first moved to Arizona in 1888 and the country was infested with them.

LAURA LOU JOHN . . . HER FATHER'S BEST PUPIL.

LAURA LOU JAHN is being called the best tennis prospect since Helen Wills Moody, but the 13-year-old blonde is not letting the excitement go to her head. After all, her tennis pro father taught her a long time ago what a racket is for, and she just follows instructions. The youngster followed instructions so well she recently captured three titles in the Middle States tennis championships, although she was the smallest and youngest contestant and has been playing only two years. Only five feet tall and weighing 91 pounds with racket in hand, she swings a mean hand on the court. She divides her time between New Jersey and Florida, home being where father is teaching other hopefuls. He says his daughter is his best pupil.

JANET EBERHARDT, of Wisconsin, is a singer and actress, but her success is due entirely to her throat muscles and has nothing to do with singing or acting. She is an expert on the Sonovox, the instrument which transmits sounds through the larynx and allows Janet to be everything from a train whistle to a foghorn commercial. One of the very few who have perfected the instrument's use, she is now in Hollywood and much in use for unusual sound effects. One of her next assignments is to be the voice of a mermaid. She has worked with Walt Disney and gave voices to a piano and a doorbell to scare Joan Crawford in a recent picture.

Do Not Let Child Have Everything

By Angelo Patri

WHILE children are young enough to remain at home with their mothers, there is little trouble with their wanting things they see other children have. A mother who understands the ways of little children knows that possession of things means little to them. Once in their hands, felt and looked over they rarely get a second look. Children are on to the next stop where they want the next thing.

Don't allow a child to think he can have anything in sight for the asking. He can't, and it would do him no good if he could. Give a child only a few toys, as much clothing as he needs to look right among the other children, but keep him well within the limits of sufficiency. When he is older he can have one good piece of personal property like a bike.

Teach him that one good piece of property is better than a host of odds and ends and, at the same time, teach him to take care of what he has. Keep telling him that what he has is good, and enough for the time being. Set him an example by keeping your own wants and wishes down to reasonable dimensions. Children follow their elders in such things as in others. When Mother longs for things beyond the reach of good sense, or Father keeps talking about how poor his belongings are and how much better are those that somebody else has, the children will harbor the same discontent. That means an unhappy household.

New importance attaches to accessories in the new fashion picture. Very handsome is a long, double box-bag and flared cuff gloves, both of black suede with a beautiful hand-painted design of lacy flowers done in white oils.

What Is Unfaithfulness?

By Elsie Robinson

IF I HAD a nickel from all the embittered wives of "faithless husbands" who've written me, I could start in right now to buy out the Rockefellers. And although I've done my best to comfort and advise—they always leave me one question still unanswered.

What is unfaithfuless? Is it merely a certain physical act? Or are there an endless number of acts and attitudes which violate the marriage vow, as surely as breaking the Seventh Commandment?

To the average woman, unfaithfulness means one certain thing—bodily infidelity. Her man may be a kindly, decent fellow in every respect. He may be a good supporter and a happy companion . . . honest, industrious, brave and generous. But let his eye stray ever so little from the domestic hearth and he is a cad, a ruffian, a black-hearted villain. In short, he is unfaithful—not fit to mingle with respectable humans.

NOW, FAR BE IT from me to defend philandering. But I do believe there are certain acts which wreck a home as surely as this one offense. And these acts are committed quite as often by wives as by husbands.

Nagging, for example. A wife may be physically pure by all our standard measurements, yet be as unfaithful to marriage, by her selfishness as the most promiscuous mate.

Stupidity. There's another condition which has sent many a home on the rocks—though it is seldom mentioned in the divorce complaints. Thousands of faithful husbands dread to go home because of its sluggish mental atmosphere. I am not referring to a low I.Q., for no one can be blamed for that. I'm referring to that deliberate stupidity that comes from a lack of interest in the outside world and its problems.

INEFFICIENCY. Practically every working man spends around eight hours of the day with some smart girl. She is trained to be quick on the trigger or she wouldn't be holding down that job. It isn't necessary that she be a genius. But it is necessary that she have verve, initiative and speed. Even a normally dull girl may attain these characteristics if properly trained— and generally she has a pretty tough time of it if she doesn't attain them.

Complaining. There is one of those subtle little habits which drives big, strong men to picking cobwebs. These self-pitying wives who are always nagging.

Is it any wonder that long-suffering men welcome any cheerful, optimistic girl that comes along?

Leopard Coat

Spotted everywhere, and this isn't a pun, is the leopard coat, which is highlighted in almost every good fur collection. Somali leopard is used for a 36-inch topper styled on smartly casual lines, with a two-flare back, leg-o'-mutton sleeves and a large, notched collar.

Home's Fine, But It's Good To Get Away

By Erich Brandeis

"HOME, Sweet Home—There's no place like home."

Everybody knows that lovely song, of course, and everybody agrees with its sentiments.

Why is it, then, that when you travel you see thousands of people who are apparently much more anxious to be away from that home of theirs than in it?

WHEREVER we went on our recent trip to California we saw them. In automobiles they came, on trains and planes, and not one of them seemed to be in a hurry to go back.

They were living out of suitcases. They were sweating and dirty from the trip. They ate meals which might well have caused a divorce if served by the lady of the house at "home, sweet home," and they paid as much for a day's meals and lodgings as a whole week would have cost them if they had stayed at home.

WHAT IS the answer? Why can't people stay on their own back porch, sit under a tree, pick their own flowers and be happy? Why, for instance, do just as many people go away from New York and Chicago and San Francisco as there are people coming to the very same cities?

Human nature, that's the answer. Wanderlust seems to be inborn in the human being.

Unfortunately, a lot of people don't benefit very much from traveling.

"If an ass goes traveling he'll not come home a horse," is an old saying, but even so, "How much a dunce that has been sent to roam excels a dunce that has been kept at home!" according to William Cowper.

In my own opinion traveling is not only advisable but absolutely necessary. Every human being needs a change. Even the loveliest home becomes monotonous unless you get away from it every now and then and learn to appreciate it by comparison.

Travel, that is my advice; even if it is only an occasional 100-mile trip.

And every trip I have taken has, over and over, made me realize one truth:

"There's no place like home."

Cotton Excellent For Housecleaning

ONE of the problems facing every homemaker is keeping a supply of everyday cotton frocks that are pretty and fresh looking yet comfortable and practical for active duty on the housecleaning line.

If you're a clever buyer who analyzes her needs and the design and quality features of the garment, you can get some good buys now in the cotton dresses originally designed for business and casual wear. Most of these are pretty well reduced now that their season is drawing to a close. You'll find ever so many beautiful and fine quality cottons used in these better type dresses—chambrays, fine ginghams, and some prints. And usually they are fast color and pre-shrunk.

But first—what are your needs? For a house dress you must have freedom of action . . . to reach, to bend and to stoop.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a girl age 16. I would like to know where to go to meet some nice boy friends and girl friends. I go to some teen-age dances once in a while. Is it all right for a boy to bring a girl home from these dances when he has been dancing with her? Is it all right if you have been dancing with a boy to ask him over to your table? When out with a boy what should you talk about? How often should a girl my age go out during the week? Is it all right to let a boy kiss you the first time he takes you out? When he asks you out to dinner should you order what you want or let him order for both if he wants? Is it all right for a boy to come for you in a car the first time he takes you out?

B. J.

There is no nicer place to meet both boy and girl friends than through some organization connected with your own church or a nearby one of your denomination. The "Y" has groups of all kinds and through something there which interests you you should be able to meet congenial girls, and often through them one meets their brothers and cousins, too. If you mean you are brought home from these dances by some boy who has been properly introduced to you, well and good. But if you mean you have simply picked up some boy at the dance no, don't allow anyone you know nothing about to see you home, stick with the crowd you came with. Ask the boy over to your table to meet the crowd if you like, but don't try to appropriate him if he came with some other girl, and don't seem to be giving your own date the brush off, if you came with one. Talk about? My goodness—"shoes and ships and sealing wax and cabbages and kings"—just about that varied. Ask your mother as to how many nights a week she thinks it's all right to date, and abide by her decision as to number of times and also as to the hour for your return. Ask your mother about dating the boy with the car.

Dear Martha Carr:

WE ARE a couple of 15-year-old girls. Recently we went to a party of boys and girls. A boy asked one of us to dance but she did not feel up to it and refused. A few minutes later during the same piece, another boy whom she liked quite a lot, asked her to dance. Since she had refused the first one she also refused the second. Should she have danced with him? Also, during the party some of the couples wandered off and got very mushy. Isn't this bad manners? What can be done about it? We are to give a party and don't want this to happen.

PUZZLED GIRLS.

The girl who refused to dance with the second boy was quite right. To have danced with him almost immediately after refusing one boy would have been very rude. She could have accepted the next dance, however, without offense. You're right, getting "mushy" as you describe, is very bad manners. Not only because demonstrations of affection in public are in poor taste, but also because it is the duty of guests to remain together and help make the party a success. This much they owe their hostess in all politeness. As to what can be done about this kind of situation, it would be far less likely to occur if the person giving a party would arrange to keep her guests sufficiently entertained the entire time that they would not have time for the bright idea of a petting party to intrude. If you would like some ideas for games for that party of your own which you are planning, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll mail you my "General Party Games," "Outdoor Games" and "Scavenger Hunt" leaflets.

IN ANSWER TO "PLUM": My "Showers for the Bride" has several types of showers and I am sure you will find just the kind you have in mind. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I'll mail it to you.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE N-278: Tom P., aged 19, is a sophomore in college. "He is trying out for the two-mile run," his track coach told me. "But he plods along like a truck horse, and may never be successful in our Big Nine competition.

"But I can't help admiring the fellow, for he always finishes every race he enters. Of course, he is way behind. So far behind, in fact, that other people laugh and make a joke out of his running. If only more men had that same stick-to-itiveness, we'd have a better team. So many athletes with good natural ability are too easily discouraged. How can we put more of the 'finish or die' spirit into men today?"

THAT IS a problem that perplexas many business men, as well as this track coach. When the going gets rough, many men and women fall by the wayside. Out of every 100 children in the first grade, maybe two will get a college diploma! Almost every grammar school boy or girl has high hopes, many of which are not impossible. But few ever realize those hopes. Why?

Because they are too easily distracted! An easy chair, the radio, a date, a headache, etc., cause them to stop before they reach their goal. And they chronically put things off till tomorrow.

A FAMOUS PSYCHOLOGIST, William James, gave an excellent formula for success. It involves four points.

First, launch yourself as vigorously as possible. Call attention to your start. Make an issue of it. Work up all the emotional fervor and resolution you can. Second, never permit an exception to occur, for this starts the opposite habit. Third, seek, the first possible opportunity to act upon your new resolution. Don't delay; act today. Fourth, make yourself do something every day that laziness or inertia urges you to omit. You thus learn to be master instead of slave of your anatomy.

These rules are worthy of memorizing. If you agree, then act upon this impulse. And recite them each morning while you are dressing. All the success books in the world will never help you unless you put these rules into daily action.

WE ARE JUVENILE, even though grown, if we fail to follow through after having made good resolutions. I doubt if more than one person out of 10 is a good finisher. The successes in life, however, whether on the athletic field, or in business and the professions, are won by good finishers.

It often requires only slightly more effort to finish! And there is a mental exhiliration in being able to make ourselves do what we know is the proper thing. Become the boss of your own personality, therefore, instead of slave to sloth. Keep plugging onward toward your goal.

Devotes Life to Teaching Kids to Swim

Luther Rowlett of Jacks Fork Says Anyone Who Does This Is a Lifesaver

By F. A. Behymer

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

EMINENCE, Mo., July 23

EVERYWHERE that Lifesaver Rowlett goes, the kids shout, "Hi, Luther," and follow at his heels, for Rowlett is the pied piper of Jacks Fork, with his head full of river lore and a heart full of love for the children who call him Luther and follow him about. When he goes to the movie or to church, they whisper to each other, "There's Luther," and change their seats to sit with him. When he walks down the street they cluster about him and hang on to his hands, and if it is near dinner time one of them is likely to take him home, knowing Mom won't care, to listen to the tales he tells when the table is spread.

Now it is summer time and swimming time on the Fork and there is a special reason for the children to follow the man, for he will be headed for the gravel pits above the bridge where he teaches them to swim and dive.

A lifesaver, Luther Rowlett calls himself, for anyone who teaches a child to swim, he says, is a lifesaver. Looking at it that way, he figures he has saved the lives of many children and he is happy to count them, naming them one by one, for he remembers them all. In sorrow he remembers, too, the many who, for lack of knowing how to swim, have drowned in Ozark streams when he was not near to save them.

For many years Rowlett has collected accounts of drownings all over the country and has 1500 such accounts in his collection. He classifies them and studies them to discover the causes and determine how they might have been avoided. The thing that bothers him most is that the highest loss of life is in the 5 to 14 age bracket. He worries, though, not as one who can't do anything about it. He is teaching the children along Jacks Fork to swim, taking them as young as 4, with the assurance that fewer children will drown in the future where he has his way with them, finding in that assurance his reward.

The gravel pits along the shore are the answer to a lifesaver's dream, for they provide pools of different depths, with water warmed by the sun, where the smallest children can be taught to swim without the danger that always lurks in the swift current. So to the gravel pits Rowlett takes the children who follow him from the town. In the shade of shrubs they strip to their bathing suits and scamper over the mounds of gravel to the placid pools.

There are 28 children this summer in what Rowlett calls his classes. Last summer Rowlett took no children under the age of 6, but the 6-year-olds learned so quickly that he became convinced that younger children could be taught. So this summer he took in two 4-four-olds and three 5-year-olds and they are justifying his confidence that they are not too young.

THE best way to get a young child used to the water, Rowlett says, is to take him on his back and wade into deep water, making play to distract his attention. It succeeds so well that 5-year-olds beg him to carry them into deep water.

Rowlett finds that girls learn to swim as young and as quickly as boys and have the advantage that, being more plump than boys, they are more buoyant. He starts his training of boys and girls by teaching them to dive. Inducements are offered in the form of something to dive for. That was how he began with Keith Powell, one of the 4-year-olds. First it was a silver dollar on the pool bottom. Keith went after it and brought it up. Then it was a shiney red and green toy dump truck and the boy brought that up. So Keith is on the way to becoming one of Rowlett's star performers as diver and swimmer. In time, he may be as good as Jeff Williams, 6 years old, Rowlett's outstanding pupil this summer. Jeff, with freckles and brown eyes and chestnut hair, is a boy after Rowlett's own heart, sharing the man's love of the river, a friendly kid who builds bird houses and is curious about aquatic life and finds his greatest happiness in talking with Rowlett and rambling with him along the stream.

After the diving comes the dog-paddle, which is the easiest stroke to teach a small child, but Rowlett has found that girls easily learn to swim on their backs.

Children should be taught in grade school to swim, Rowlett says, calling attention to the fact that many boys and girls graduate from high school without having learned to swim and that some of these are drowned every summer. Children, he says, should never be taken into boats without life jackets. His stuty of drownings has shown that more fishermen are drowned than swimmers or waders. This means, he thinks, that most fishermen are so interested in that sport that they don't bother about learning to swim.

When Rowlett reads in a newspaper that a person who drowned was an expert swimmer, he has his doubts. There are very few expert swimmers, according to his rating, and not too many who are even good. Ability to swim a short distance doesn't make anybody a good swimmer.

OVERLOADING boats is given by Rowlett as one of the frequent causes of drownings and the preference for narrow boats often costs the life of a person who may be a "good" swimmer but is not good enough to swim to shore. "If you cannot swim and swim well," says Rowlett, "stay out of a boat until you have learned how to save yourself if it capsizes."

It is Rowlett's observation that children who can't swim a stroke are often more venturesome than the ones who can swim. As a result too often the one who needs most watching is watched the least. Most child water fatalities occur very near the bank. In most such cases a child who could swim a little could keep afloat until rescued or swim to shore. Even though a child can swim, though, it should have a life jacket or a safety belt because, as Rowlett says, life jackets and safety belts are cheaper than caskets and flowers.

Rowlett, out of his long experience as a life guard at resorts and as an assistant swimming instructor in the army in 1943, has advice for adults who find themselves in danger of drowning. Most important, he says, is to keep the arms under water and retain air in the lungs in aid of buoyancy.

In most cases, he says, a person in danger of drowning raises both hands above the water and empties his lungs by yelling for help, sinking himself by doing the opposite to what he should do. One arm above the water, he says, weighs more than the whole body under water.

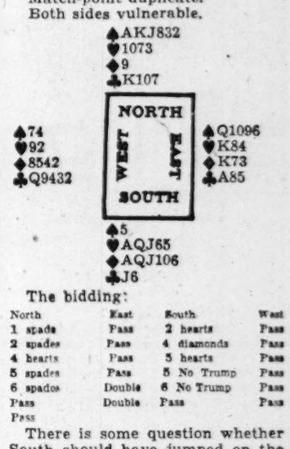

Rowlett the life-saver, hero of the boys and girls of Eminence and other towns not too far from Jacks Fork, teaches them these things along with the lessons he gives in swimming and diving and teaches them also how to save other lives than their own when there is occasion, extending in that way the benefits of his instruction. Mostly, though, his interest is in saving the lives of the children by teaching them how to swim.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

NORTH'S bidding in today's deal was characteristic of the player who cannot make up his mind what he wants to do!

North, dealer.
Match-point duplicate.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
5 spades	Pass	5 No Trump	Pass
6 spades	Double	6 No Trump	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

There is some question whether South should have jumped on the second round or contented himself with the fairly strong bid of three diamonds. However, South had properly refrained from jumping on the first round, and therefore his second bid cannot be severely censured. At worst, it was only a slight overbid, even considering the probable misfit of the North-South hands.

The partnership was not in real trouble until North, having lulled South into a false sense of security by giving a preference for hearts instead of rebidding his spades, suddenly veered back into the high-ranking spade suit at the levels of five and six. South's five-heart bid was certainly a legitimate "feeler" for a slam. There was no compulsion on North to bid again over this invitation and since North was none too strong in honor-tricks, and had no real fit for either of South's red suits, there can be little doubt that North should have accepted five hearts as the final contract. But even his five-spade bid would not have been fatal if it had not been followed up by the atrocious bid of six spades. South's five no trump over five spades was, of course, nothing but an announcement of his inability to stand spades as a trump suit, and a doubt whether six hearts could be made. Thus, in plain logic, it was a compromise and waiting bid, asking North either to pass or to go to six hearts. As a matter of fact, the lay of cards being what it was, either action on North's part would probably have had a good result. Six hearts could be made if declarer guessed the location of the king of diamonds, and the ace of clubs; five no trump was also makeable. The six no-trump contract, however, was just too much, even on the excellent lay of cards that existed.

No Substitute For Soap; Use It

WERE we to be deprived of soap—or were it rationed as it is today in England—we soon would discover how vital good soap is to our morale and well-being.

We in America, in the land of plenty, sometimes do not stop to count our blessings. One of them is soap to keep our clothes and homes sanitary and soap to keep our bodies clean, fresh and sweet. There is no substitute for soap, so prize what you buy.

Right now for the first time since the war, guest sized soap has become available. Most of this is engraved and packaged so attractively that it makes an ideal hostess gift. Many women like to pack the smaller bars of soap for holiday use, for then they may have a fresh bar more often.

I find it a good idea always to take a bar of my special complexion and bath soap with me wherever I travel. Both lather quickly and both seem to act best under all water conditions.

One cannot be sweet and clean in the summertime without a daily sudsing and here is where soap acts as a mild antiseptic. It never should be left on the skin, however. Rinse it off, once it has done its cleahsing job.

Nice way to learn geography is by studying a new scarf. It is a big square of pure silk printed in many colors, depicting a map of the United States, with famous buildings and landmarks marking the wide border.

Marriage Must Face Forward

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

THE R. family came close to the divorce court. In fact, Mr. R. hired a lawyer and had the papers drawn. His wife had not behaved too well, but a reconciliation was finally effected.

"I wouldn't feel that I could go ahead if she were going to continue to be what she has been for the past few years," he protests solemnly. "She's different! I want her just to be the sweet little girl that she was when I married her!"

Unfortunately, it can't be done. The moment the wedding ceremony was concluded, she ceased to be the sweet little girl that she was when he married her. She became something else. The change should have been an improvement, but in any event it was bound to be a change.

Many husbands and wives ruin their marriages by trying to live in the past, as Mr. R. wanted to do. They are always looking backward. "Why doesn't Sam act like he used to when we were engaged?", Mrs. D. demands. The answer is simple—he can't! He's a different man now.

People who make a success of marriage don't waste much time looking backward. They may take a brief glance, partly to note how far they have come. They are looking forward, not backward.

When a marriage drifts into difficulties, it is particularly important that husband and wife should not try to improve it by moving backward. This is the time, above all, to look ahead. Don't say, "Think how much fun we had five years ago!" Say, "Think how much more fun we can have from now on, if we plan for it!"

Don't waste time asking what your marriage used to be. Ask yourself what you would like it to be and what you can reasonably expect to make it.

Set your sights at two distances. Pick out a short-term goal first.

"DON'T BE ALWAYS LOOKING BACK TO THE FUN YOU'VE HAD."

What can you do to improve it today, tonight, tomorrow, the rest of the week or month? Get busy on that.

But then ask yourself, also, where you want to be 10 years from now. Which way are you going? Even if you don't go very fast, you are safe as long as you are headed in the right direction.

Questions and Answers.

Q. Is not religion an important factor in successful marriage?

A. Certainly. As an illustration, Howard M. Bell, studying 12,000 young people in Maryland, concluded that non-religious couples were three times as likely to end in the divorce court as were religious couples.

Q. Will you please give me a definition of love?

A. Not just now! It's too big a job. Dr. Joseph Kirk Folsom, professor of sociology at Vassar College, says it is "a combination of tenderness, sex, and joy."

Q. Is the divorce rate in Hollywood really as high as a newspaper reader would be led to suppose?

A. There are no separate figures for Hollywood, which is a part of the city of Los Angeles. I presume you refer to the moving picture "colony." There are no adequate figures for it, either. Leo C. Rosten in his book called "Hollywood" published results of a questionnaire filled out by 457 persons, prominent in the movies, whom he thought to constitute a fair sample. About one-fourth of them had been divorced at least once. This is less than the average of Los Angeles county. But after all, it was a very small sample. Perhaps those with the most divorces did not answer the questionnaire.

Long, Slim Suit

Long and slim is the word for everyday suits for fall. A good model has a long, double-breasted, fitted jacket of red and black plaid with wide black notched collar, big black buttons and V-shaped inset at the hip pockets. Black wool skirt is 14 inches from the floor.

Two-Piece Suit

All set for late summer luncheons and evenings in town is a two-piecer in black crepe. The top is a short, fitted jacket closed with rhinestone buttons below a small classic collar and revers. The skirt is entirely accordion-pleated.

Fix It Yourself

ADJUSTING GAS STOVES.

THERE are all sorts of flames including old ones, but the flame you want on the burner of your gas stove should have a green interior with blue edges.

There are two adjustments you will have to make around the gas cock to get these results. Look around and you will find a six-sided nut which controls the amount of gas getting to the burner. The volume of air is controlled by the air shutter at the end of the burner and this is held in place by a set screw.

An excessively high flame is wasting gas, and it should be lowered to about 1½ inches above the burner by turning the six-sided nut to the left.

If the flame has a yellow head it means that not enough air is getting in, and so you naturally move the air shutter until the flame gets that healthy look.

The famous jumping and sputtering flame that can't seem to stay on the burner is caused by too much air, and so you want to close the air shutter until the flame settles down and flies right.

After the adjustments are made, tighten up the set screw before some clown throws everything out of whack.

STEPHEN LEACOCK told the story of a Scotchman who had a sister-in-law with whom he never could see eye to eye. Despite all of his wife's pleas, he flatly refused to go anywhere with her.

One day the wife was seized with a fatal illness and, as she lay dying, she whispered, "Mac, ye'll drive me poor sister with ye to the funeral, will ye no?"

The Scotchman swallowed hard, squared his shoulders and answered, "Margaret, I will do it for you, but it'll spoil my day."

New Popular Records

By Charles Menees

FRANKIE LAINE is involved in a pretty hot controversy between two recording companies. Just as Laine's Mercury shellackings hit the jackpot, Atlas, a small West Coast firm, bobs up with six Laine sides, needled, they say, under an unexpired contract. (Laine sang "Melancholy Madeline" with Johnny Moore's Three Blazers on an Atlas biscuit reviewed here in August 1945.) Mercury, naturally, is burning. Best from Atlas are "Coquette," "Confessin'," "Someday, Sweetheart" and "It Ain't Gonna Be Like That." Others are "Heartaches" and "Baby, Baby All the Time." Fine backing by Sam Furman's band, including Tenor Herbie Haymer, who blows several nice solos, and Drummer Nick Fatool. Laine has been singing a good many years without fanfare. He's 34 and, like Crosby, wears a toupee. He was born Frank LoVeccio of Italian parentage in Chicago. His style of singing, with a lot of improvising, shows influence of some of the great Negro jazz singers.

FRANKIE LAINE . . . HOT JAZZ SINGER.

R.C.A. Victor has waxed "Jack Armstrong Blues," first a great V-Disc hit, featuring Jack Teagarden and Louis Armstrong. Both chip in some fine horn work and singing in the blues vein so well suited to both. Flip is "Rockin' Chair," with the two great jazz men doing some amusing dialogue. Helping out are Bobby Hackett, Peanuts Hucko, Ernie Caceres, Al Casey, Al Hall, Pianist John Dough (Leonard Feather?) and Cozy Cole.

BILLIE HOLIDAY does some of her finest singing on wax in a new Columbia album consisting mainly of Holiday Vocalion items issued originally in the late '30s. New sides, both well done, are "Until the Real Thing Comes Along" and "I Cover the Waterfront." Reprints: "Summertime" and "Billie's Blues" (Berigan's on these), "I Can't Get Started," "He's Funny That Way," "Sailboat in the Moonlight," and "When a Woman Loves a Man." And from Apollo comes a good Charlie Barnet pairing—the familiar "Caravan," with high trumpeting remindful of Al Killian, and "Darktown Strutters' Ball." Latter lampoons Dixieland style, much as Barnet's old "The Wrong Idea" poked fun at Sammy Kaye's corn. Singer Frances Wayne makes her bow for Exclusive with "Happiness Is a Thing Called Joe," her great hit with Woody Herman, issued by Columbia in March 1945. Comparison finds her singing about even. Buddy Baker's band purloins a pyrotechnic or two from the Herman scoring. Flipover has Frances introducing "January Woman." Victor has reissued two of the famous Bluebird-1939 sides by Muggsy Spanier's Ragtime Band—"Sister Kate" and "Relaxin' at the Touro," not an original pairing. "Kate" features great singing and tromboning by George Brunies (he spells it Georg Brunis now), and "Touro" is said to be inspired by an old New Orleans sanitarium where musicians went to rest up. Muggsy's cornet, the late Rod Cless's clary and Joe Bushkin's piano are other important assets.

Flashes of Life

Entranced Robbery.

LOS ANGELES — A fortune teller with whom she had been studying mysticism walked out of her home with $15,000 in cash while she watched helplessly in a trance, Lula Colias reported to police. Miss Colias told officers she advanced him $5000 last week to publish a book on hypnotism and that he returned later, put her in a trance and stripped her cash box.

Her Lucky Day.

CORNING, N.Y. — Mrs. Verne Naight found 300 four-leaf clovers in her front yard—plus 25 five-leaf clovers—in one afternoon.

Powerful Harmony.

OLEAN, N.Y. — A barber-shop chorus—rehearsed with such virbrancy that it literally brought down the house. Chunks of plaster fell from the ceiling twice during the rehearsal in the community room of the Exchange National Bank Building.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

MANY of our grandmothers were famous for their delicious mid-summer fruit desserts. And folks today are just as enthusiastic about these desserts when made in the old-time way. The amount of sugar in the following recipes may seem skimpy to you now that sugar rationing is over, but try them first before you are sure you want more. Grandmother never had enough sugar to smother out the true tart flavor and as a result the predominant flavor in each of her desserts was that of the fruit used, not of sugar. And strange as it may seem, these desserts reach the crest of their delicious flavor when they have just about cooled down to a lukewarm temperature.

Apple Dumplings.

Biscuit dough, six medium or four large tart summer apples (Dutchess), one-third cup sugar, four teaspoons butter or margarine, cinnamon if desired.

Prepare biscuit dough, using one and one-half cups flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup shortening and one-half cup milk. Roll out to one-fourth inch thickness, and into a 12-inch square, keeping the shape as perfect as possible. Cut into four six-inch squares. Peel and core apples. Put one and one-half medium apples or one large one into center of each square. Fill centers of apples with sugar and a sprinkle of cinnamon if wanted. Fold up over the apple, pinching the corners and seams together. Place in a shallow pan and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) until crust is well baked and apples are tender—25 to 30 minutes. Four servings.

Red Raspberry Slump.

One quart raspberries, one cup sugar, one cup all-purpose flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-fourth teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons melted shortening, one-half cup milk.

Wash berries, drain and turn into a buttered nine-inch glass pie or cake dish, or a shallow casserole of equal capacity. Sprinkle with sugar. Sift flour, measure and resift with salt and baking powder. Add melted shortening to the milk and add immediately to flour mixture and beat only until smooth. Pour batter ovre berries. Place in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) and bake until crust is thoroughly baked and berries are barely cooked or for 30 to 35 minutes. Four servings.

Menus for Thursday.

Luncheon: Tuna salad in potato cups, buttered rye bread toast, sliced tomatoes, sugar cookies.

Dinner: Mock chicken legs, mashed potatoes, buttered green beans, lettuce-sliced beets and hard-cooked egg salad, bread and butter, old-time apple dumplings.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

CAMPOBELLO ISLAND, N.B., July 23.

APPARENTLY Congress, in spite of the President's appeal, has decided to do nothing about the Stratton bill to admit displaced persons to this country. But Senator Revercomb of West Virginia has managed to get through a resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the whole question of immigration—this at a cost not to exceed $50,000. We hardly need any more investigation, since all the facts are already well known. This is simply the kind of delaying tactics which we blame the Russians for using. The committee does not have to make any recommendations until March 1948.

Instead of making a gesture which would set an example, by accepting this year 100,000 immigrants from displaced persons' camps on a quota basis, we will do nothing. This means one of two things — either the rest of the world also will do nothing, or the leadership in this matter will shift to some other nation which has the courage to face situations as they are.

TO DO NOTHING about solving the displaced persons' problem this year means that we leave desperate people with no hope. I have heard rumors of a death march on the part of the Jews in European camps. Our inaction is the type of thing that would drive refugees to that kind of desperate action.

Should it come about, the members of our Congress can have it on their consciences if thousands more of the Jewish people die. If Congress eventually decides that they have investigated sufficiently and that it will not hurt us to take in a few unfortunate people who have been carefully screened, then we will be surprised to find that the people we admit have deteriorated. They will have become so accustomed to having someone look after them, that they will find it hard to return to independence. Here, again, our members of Congress may carry on their consciences the deterioration of these human beings.

I KNOW WELL that there are people in this country who, for a number of obvious reasons are afraid to bring anyone in from the displaced persons' camp. I think this fear is far more dangerous than the people whom we might bring in. We are growing so pusillanimous that, in a short time, we will be afraid of our own shadows—and this is no world in which the fearful survive. Good new blood will do us no harm. We are suffering from fear of the unknown. But these people have seen so much that was unknown that they have learned how to accept it and stand up to it.

Here I am, blaming Congress, when, after all, the blame really lies with ourselves. It is we who have not been articulate enough and have not educated people as a whole to understand that the displaced persons are just like ourselves. Only, for the moment, they have no country. We have not made people realize to the full what the ruin of Europe will mean in lowering our own standards of living. Again we the people have failed—failed ourselves and failed our brethren overseas.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

That Word "Scruple."

IF a man with SCRUPLES is uncomfortable in the sense of mental discomfort comparable to one who walks with a stone in his shoe, then this word has not lost touch with its origin.

"Scruple" is derived from the Latin scrupulum, from scrupulus, which names a small, sharp stone! And there, in a word, we define all the doubt and hesitation, the uneasiness and questioning, often self-questioning, of the person with scruples, the person who wishes to do right, who has scruples of conscience! They can be like little stones in the shoe.

The scrupulus of antiquity, the small stone, came to be used as a weight, a very small standard of weight—specifically 20 grains, the third part of a dram. It also was used as a unit of various small measures, as one one-hundredth of an hour, one-tenth of an inch, one-twelfth of a diameter, as in relation to the moon or the sun; also in the amount of one-sixtieth, as of an hour or a degree.

Thus it is easily understandable how the scruple in its more painful sense came to be extended with special application to the niceties, that is, attention and care for the most minute details of a matter, as the woman who is scrupulously clean. But it all goes back to that little stone.

Hudson-Seal Coat

Coming back to favor, and for youthful coats, too, is Hudson seal, long absent from the sartorial scene. A nice 36-inch coat has a two-flare back and a black velvet neckline tie. This fabric is also used for the collar rim and to edge the curved, slit pockets. Wing cuffs for shaped sleeves.

Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

Q. WHY do we say, "He was fired" when we mean discharged?—C. H. A.

A. The usage dates from Elizabethan days when the verb "to fire" meant "to drive away; to cast off." Shakespeare wrote, "Till my bad angel fire my good one out."

Q. How did automobile tires get their name, and is it true that wartime rationing of tires was predicted by the Bible?—Mrs. J. W. P.

A. The word tire is a shortened (aphetic) form of the word attire which originally meant equipment, ornamentation. The tire was first so called because it was an iron hoop which covered (attired) the wheel.

Q. What is the origin of the word easel, as used by painters?—C. B. L.

A. Dutch painters used to refer humorously to an easel as "ezel," a German word which means "donkey." The word for donkey is esel, and it also designates a frame with legs.

All these words are comparable with the English sawhorse which grotesquely resembles a horse with spraddled legs. We also speak of a clotheshorse which, literally, is a four-legged frame on which clothes are aired or dried. Figuratively, a clotheshorse is a person who makes a fetish of fine clothes.

Navy Outfit

Looking ahead to early fall, there are plenty of navy frocks and suits, so hang on to that good navy handbag, gloves and shoes. Navy wool crepe makes a smart two-piecer cut on slim, asymmetric lines. One-sided collar is balanced by opposite hip flange. Square gold buttons from neck to hip accent the one-sided treatment.
